GETAWAY HALTED — A van carrying at least two men caught inside a Strawberry clothing store yielded thousands of dollars in suits when the truck was halted today in Richmond after a bullet-punctuated chase. Marin Sheriff's Deputy Robert Barner inspects the cache.

STRAWBERRY TO RICHMOND

Two Held After Shots, Chase

Two Los Angeles men were captured at the toll plaza of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge today after a 10-mile chase which began when Marin sheriff's deputies interrupted a burglary in the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary were Willie James Hill, 32, and Laurence Alexander Lishey, 30. Deputies said they have reason to believe at least two other men involved in the burglary escaped from the fleeing van sometime during the pursuit.

Five Marin police agencies, including the California Highway Patrol, Marin City and Tiburon sheriff's substations and the Larkspur and San Rafael police departments participated in the pursuit. Richmond police, notified of the chase, set up the roadblock which finally stopped the van at the toll plaza.

Deputies said a silent burglary alarm about 4:40 a.m. tipped them that the C. Partan clothing store in Strawberry was being burglarized. Two officers, Russell Hunt and William Brown, approached the store and saw someone inside.

When deputies challenged the intruder, they said, one man ran out the door, followed by a second. Both jumped into a rental firm van parked nearby, according to officers, who said they fired four times at the fleeing van. Neither man was injured in the gunfire, officers said. Although one tire was shot out, deputies said, the vehicle continued along driving on the rim of one wheel.

The men drove south down Redwood Highway, then turned onto Highway 101 northbound, pursued by Hunt and Russell who had radioed ahead for assistance.

The disabled van next was spotted near Greenbrae and finally halted after a chase over the bridge by at least seven Marin patrol units.

Officers said the men offered no resistance when the vehicle was stopped at the roadblock. Several thousands of dollars worth of suits were found in the van, which had been rented in Los Angeles, deputies said.

Officers said they believed others were involved in the burglary attempt. A witness told them he saw a man jump out of the van and run into the bushes when it was stopped at the roadblock. A search of the area failed to turn up anyone.

Officers also said they did not think that two men working alone could have loaded so many suits into the van in the short time which elapsed between the alarm and arrival of deputies at the store.

Deputies said the store in which Partan Clothing is located has a history of burglaries. Before Partan rented the space more than two years ago, the business that occupied it, Banks Limited, was robbed on at least two occasions.

In today's attempt, officers said the store was entered by prying the front door open with a crowbar.

Hill and Lishey were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Donation To UBAC Drops $2 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blaming the sluggish economy and reluctance among donors to finance new anti-poverty programs, the United Bay Area Crusade reported Wednesday a 12 per cent drop in donations for 1971.

UBAC reported gifts of $15,095,158 this year, down from $17,038,000 in 1970.

This year's fund-raising revenue was the least since 1967 when $14,618,000 was collected. Last year's $17 million was the highest take in the history of the organization, whose roots are in separate crusades conducted in various parts of the Bay Area since 1954. These were combined in the single Bay Area crusade in 1966 upon recommendation of a citizens committee which conducted lengthy study.

UBAC chairman Jerome W. Hull said the smaller contributions would mean that the 200 charities the Crusade helps will experience about a 12 per cent decline in UBAC support.

"The bad shape of the economy, too much unemployment, all the strikes, and the wage freeze hurt our fund raising this year," campaign chairman Lawrence Hoyt said.

He also said some contributors were uneasy about supporting the Crusade's "New Directions" program, a collection of child care, drug abuse and community health centers in low income areas.

Rebel Bangla Desh Free, Indira Says

Pakistan Surrender Told; Yahya In Vow

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today announced unconditional surrender of the Pakistan forces in East Pakistan and proclaimed Bangla Desh a free nation. She also issued a unilateral ceasefire on the Western front where a major tank battle was under way.

"Dacca is now a free capital of a free country," Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament whose members cheered, shouted and pounded on their desks at news of the victory. "We have hailed the new nation at this historic moment. . . We hail the people of Bangla Desh."

Whether Pakistan would accept the Indian ceasefire was not known. Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, in a speech to his nation broadcast by Pakistan Radio at about the same time, said Pakistan would fight on to final victory.

Mrs. Gandhi's ceasefire was proclaimed for 8 p.m. Friday (9:30 a.m. EST). An Indian military spokesman reported what appeared to be the greatest tank battle of the 13-day war was still raging tonight along the southern border of Kashmir and that the Pakistanis had lost 40 tanks and the Indians 15.

But all major fighting in East Pakistan apparently came to a halt and Indian Defense Minister K.B. Lall announced that four members of the Bangla Desh government flew to Dacca today to form a transitional government.

The Pakistani garrison in East Pakistan was estimated at 60,000 to 80,000 men and military sources said loss of the entire garrison meant Pakistan had lost one fourth to one third of the combat forces at its disposal. The Pakistani air force in East Pakistani was knocked out days ago.

Lall said the terms of surrender provided that all Pakistani troops in the East would become prisoners of war. Government spokesmen said the question of repatriation would be one for negotiation between India and Pakistan "at such a time when the aggression against us stops."

The surrender agreement provided that all Pakistani land, air and naval forces as well as paramilitary forces and civil armed forces lay down their arms and surrender to troops under command of Lt. Gen. Jagjit Singh Aurora, the

Absentees Snarl Aid Bill Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Compromise efforts were undertaken today to break a deadlock on foreign aid that has delayed adjournment of Congress. But no immediate solution yet appeared in sight.

As Senate leaders attempted to summon back to Washington half their members who started the holiday early, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said there had been a tentative agreement among senators on a compromise. But in the House, administration spokesmen said the plan was unacceptable.

It would allow aid spending at an annual level of $2.7 billion until Feb. 15, followed by a cutback to a rate of $1.5 billion until the temporary authorization expired March 15.

A vote is set for 11 a.m. EST Friday on a move to stop debate and to force a vote on the issue. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he had sent 50 telegrams to absent senators asking them to return to work.

Assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin said the aid foes were unwilling so far to agree on any compromise on the dispute.

Foreign aid reformers, led by Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, blocked a House-passed resolution to continue appropriations for the foreign aid program until March 15 while Congress decides the future of the program.

Fulbright and other members of his committee feel they got a raw deal from the House when the regular foreign aid authorization bill came up earlier in the session.

The House refused to submit to a vote Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment to the aid bill calling for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina within 60 days. As a consequence, the bill remained in a deadlock as Congress moved toward adjournment.

The continuing resolution—to keep aid alive on a temporary basis—then was moved through the House in an effort to sidestep the issue and give the aid program enough financing to service until Congress settles the issue next year.

Fulbright insisted that if any aid resolution passes at all, it will have to be drastically pared to keep the pressure on the house for a vote on the troop withdrawal next year.

Mercury Drops To A Frosty 25

A lingering cold snap sent temperatures plummeting to seasonal lows today in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties and there was no sign of a thaw.

Novato and Tamalpais Valley both reported an overnight low of 25, with heavy frost. It was 29 this morning in San Rafael and Petaluma. Temperatures recorded at other stations were 30 in Mill Valley, 31 in Larkspur and 33 in Belvedere and San Anselmo.

The National Weather Service said the cold spell would continue tonight.

Bon Air Project May Be Stalled

By DAVID DIETZ

The Larkspur City Council, caught between another plan for a large apartment development and efforts to revise the community's general plan, indicated last night it will consider imposing a 90-day building moratorium in the city. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 10.)

It was a sudden development, since the matter was not on last night's agenda until Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. brought it up at the start of the meeting.

His proposal to discuss the ban at an adjourned meeting Dec. 28 won quick and unanimous endorsement from fellow councilmen present — Mayor Earl J. O'Grady, William G. Fleckles and Alfred Malvino.

If imposed, the ban would have direct effect on plans by a Southern California developer for what has been termed a "fortress-like" complex of 224 apartments on Bon Air Hill. The city planning commission, against the advice of city staff members, earlier this month rejected the development, proposed by Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills, as too dense, triggering an appeal to the city council.

The council last night also set Dec. 28 for a formal hearing on Larwin's protest, although forewarning a moratorium might be approved first.

Although the council this summer was urged to enact a ban at once in view of pending master plan changes, it decided merely to notify large property owners of the possibility of a

Separate Sanitation Plan Urged

By GEORGE NEVIN

Representatives of eight Southern Marin Sanitary agencies agreed last night that a sanitation district, not the Marin Municipal Water District, should take over waste treatment in the southeast part of the county.

The representatives, members of an advisory committee to Improvement District A, voted 5-3 to recommend that the water district create a new agency to build and maintain treatment facilities in Southern Marin.

Improvement District A, set up by the water district a little over a year ago to study consolidating the eight sewerage agencies, is empowered to work only up to the point of a bond issue.

Last night's resolution asks the water district board to dissolve Improvement District A and substitute Improvement District B, which could hold the bond election and build and maintain collection and treatment facilities until a consoli-

Red Commandos Storm Viet Town

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist commandos stormed a village on South Vietnam's central coast and killed or wounded 23 of its militia defenders before reinforcements broke up the attack, military sources said today.

The sources said 11 of the defenders were killed and 12 were wounded Wednesday in the attack on the Cat Nhon village, just outside Phu Cat and 255 miles northeast of Saigon. Losses taken by the Communist sapper force were unknown.

The United States earlier this month turned over its $35 million Phu Cat Airbase to the Vietnamese. Cat Nhon is five miles from the base.

A U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet crashed and burned today at Phnom Penh's Pochentong airport but the two crewmen parachuted to safety, military spokesmen here and in the Cambodian capital reported.

The $2.4 million aircraft, most expensive fighter-bomber in the U.S. Air Force, caught fire while on a bombing run over Cambodian territory, the U.S. command in Saigon reported. It was not immediately known whether the plane was hit by groundfire.

Two high-ranking Vietnamese police officials were wounded today when Communist guerrillas ambushed their jeep on a road 48 miles southeast of Saigon, military sources said. Two other officers also were wounded in the incident.

Among the wounded were the police chief for military region III—the 11 provinces around Saigon—and the police chief of Phuoc Tuy province, the sources said.

A team of U.S. Rangers today killed five Viet Cong in an ambush 58 miles northeast of Saigon in Long Khanh province, the sources said.

The weekly American casualty report issued today by the U.S. command showed two Americans killed and 56 wounded in Vietnam combat last week. Another 38 Americans died in nonhostile incidents, the command said, pushing noncombat deaths in the war past 10,000.

At least 30 of the "nonhostile" deaths were the result of a helicopter crash which killed 34 American servicemen, spokesmen said.

The command lists 45,619 Americans killed in action in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961, while another 302,353 have been wounded.

Military spokesmen in Saigon and Phnom Penh meanwhile said today at least 13 Communist troops had been slain in small encounters around the edge of the Chup rubber plantation in Eastern Cambodia.

Cambodian troops reentered the town of Suong at the southeast edge of the plantation near Highway 7, the Phnom Penh command said.

South Vietnamese paratroopers today reported killing four Communist soldiers in a clash eight miles northwest of Chrun and just inside the plantation, which spreads over 100 square miles.

Pope Acts On World Problems

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has taken "concrete" action in some countries where he feels peace and justice are seriously compromised, a Spanish churchman said today. He cited Northern Ireland and the Indian subcontinent as two examples.

"Not all of these initiatives succeeded," said Spanish Bishop Ramon Torrella Cascante, vice president of the Pontifical Commission on Justice and Peace.

In any case, he said, the Vatican could not comment on specific interventions for diplomatic and other reasons.

There have been reports the Pope had intervened in some way—most likely with appeals based on religious and humanitarian grounds—in several international and domestic conflicts. But the Vatican rarely comments, either to confirm or deny, such reports.

The day is observed Jan. 1, but the Pope's message was released today to give local Roman Catholic churchmen throughout the world time to incorporate it into their own observances.

In his message, the Pope assailed governments which practice religious, economic, social, cultural or national forms of injustice. He said without justice, peace is impossible.

The Pope did not identify any specific government in a message released today to mark the fifth World Day of Peace Jan. 1.

But Vatican sources said one of the Pope's targets was the Soviet Union, especially in its persecution of Ukrainian Catholics.

There also was indirect criticism of world powers which dominate poorer countries economically or politically. The Pope said part of the concept of justice was the right of every country to develop its own way free of political or economic restraints imposed by others.

Soviets In Public Support of Egypt

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Soviet Union will support any move by Egypt to resolve the Middle East crisis, by war or by peace, the Soviet ambassador to Cairo said today.

It was the first time a Soviet official has publicly endorsed President Anwar Sadat's declaration that a continuing deadlock in Middle East peace efforts left Egypt no option but to fight.

"We support Cairo's decision, whether it is for peace or the battle, because in either case it will lead to liquidation of the (Israeli) aggression," he said, according to the newspaper.

"If the solution is to be war we support you to make it a war with a minimum of losses. We shall stand with you always, in war and peace."

Sadat in November said "the time for battle has come" but added that war could be averted if Israel publicly stated it would withdraw from all occupied Egyptian territory.

The semiofficial Al Ahram newspaper said today the heads of state of Egypt, Syria and Libya will meet next week for talks on recent developments in the Mideast crisis.

Sadat of Egypt, Maj. Gen. Hafez Assad and Premier Col. Moammar Khadafy form the presidential council of the three-nation federation of Arab republics.

Earlier, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan offered to exchange 61 Egyptian prisoners of war for 10 Israelis.

Dayan made the offer late Wednesday night and set no limit to an Egyptian reply.

Israeli spokesmen in Tel Aviv said an Israeli patrol killed the deputy commander of an Arab guerrilla group in the occupied Gaza strip during a clash in an orange grove today. The guerrilla's girl friend died with him, a military spokesman said.

Muhmad Hamis El Batzili, deputy commander of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) and long on the Israeli wanted list, opened fire on an Israeli patrol combing an orange grove, the spokesman said. The patrol returned the fire and when the shooting stopped found Batzili and the daughter of the owner of the orange grove dead in a bunker.

After visiting an Israeli pilot exchanged Wednesday for 10 Egyptian prisoners of war in the first prisoner swap in the Middle East in eight months, an official Israeli statement said that Dayan made the following offer:

"Israel would be prepared to exchange all the Egyptian prisoners held in Israel in exchange for the Israelis in Egyptian captivity despite the numerical disparity between the two categories."

Suit Against College Fee Hike

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Fresno Free College Foundation filed an application in Superior Court here Tuesday to enter as a "friend of the court" in support of a suit filed by five foreign students against state college fee increases.

The foreign students' suit seeks to prevent state college trustees from levying foreign student fees which are more than three times the minimum rate set for non-resident American students.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Frazier Sentenced

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — John Linley Frazier turned his back to the judge and jury and calmly munched candy yesterday when he was sentenced to the gas chamber for shooting five persons and dumping their bodies into a swimming pool.

"If there ever was a proper death case, this is it," said prosecutor Peter Chang. Calling it Frazier's "masterpiece of horror," Chang said he would be willing to witness the execution.

Chang, when asked if he thought the 25-year-old high school dropout was mentally ill, replied: "No, I think he is a murderer, a callous murderer, and he got what he deserved."

The death penalty was announced late yesterday after four hours of consideration by the same jury of eight women and four men who had previously convicted Frazier of the murders.

Sniper Action

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Snipers wounded a British soldier in Belfast and scattered Christmas shoppers in Londonderry with a burst of gunfire aimed at three police car patrolmen today, security forces spokesmen said.

An army spokesman said the soldier sustained very serious stomach wounds when three gunmen fired at a mobile patrol in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area of Belfast in early morning darkness.

Land Moratorium

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A man who owns property throughout California has called for a statewide moratorium on rural land development.

Johnson C. Montgomery of Palo Alto, who owns land in 40 of the state's 58 counties, testified yesterday before a hearing of the Assembly Committee on Land Use.

"The population and pollution problem in California," he said, "are presently so serious that it is now necessary to enact statewide zoning laws."

Students Suing Over Fee Hike

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Superior Court hearing is scheduled for Jan. 26 in the case of five foreign students who filed suit to prevent an increase in state college fees for non-citizens.

Judge Robert A. Wenke issued a temporary restraining order Friday blocking the fee hike until he hears arguments from both sides on whether to bar the increase permanently.

The five who filed the suit are students at Fresno and Cal Tech. They contend that the proposed increased fees for foreign students would be more than three times those for California residents.

Lindsay To Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York will enter Democratic presidential primaries in seven states, the Washington Post said today.

The Post said Lindsay, Republican who switched to the Democratic Party this year, would enter primaries in Florida, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Indiana, Oregon, California and New York, but would skip the first primary in New Hampshire March 7.

A spokesman for Lindsay said in New York the report was "speculative and premature" and the mayor's campaign plans were still in the exploratory stage.

Arrests Daughter

DENVER (UPI) — Patrolman John L. Pinder, 38, a 15-year veteran on the Denver police force, arrested his daughter Wednesday on marijuana charges.

Pinder said he made an unexpected stop at his home and discovered his daughter, Connie, 18, and two men in the kitchen. When one of the men tried to hide something, Pinder became suspicious, investigated and discovered marijuana.

Pinder then told his daughter and the two men they were under arrest. One of the men fled. The girl and the man, Carlos R. de Aguero, 21, were taken to city jail for investigation of marijuana possession.

Stinson Beach Projects President Quits Post

Otto Reutinger, who has headed Stinson Beach Projects since its inception in August, has resigned as the group's president.

Attorney Michael Sanford will serve as interim president for the organization, at least until the group decides whether it wants to have a president or chairmen for each individual project, Reutinger said.

Stinson Beach Projects was formed to fight Stinson's inclusion with Bolinas in an $8.1 million sewage treatment and disposal system. The organization was successful in helping ti kill the large project and in electing two of its members tc the Stinson Beach County Water District board last month.

Reutinger said the group now plans to take on other community projects and plans drives for a youth center and to boost low water pressure in the community, particularly in summer months.

Reutinger said he will continue to be active in Stinson Beach Projects, but said he resigned as president because "I felt there was too much Reutinger around here." He explained that he is president of the Stinson Beach Community Center, of which the projects group is a member.

Novato Bike Thefts Spur New Rules

Novato Unified School District trustees, seeking to stop bicycle thefts from school grounds, has called for tighter security measures.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that 135 bicycles were stolen from school grounds during the first 10 months of this year.

Trustees ruled that as of Jan. 1 all bicycles must be registered with the Novato Police Department and must have locks, Bunker said.

The board, meeting Tuesday, also approved completion of the fenced enclosure for bicycles at Hill Junior High School, estimated to cost $300.

Bunker notified trustees that a new law requires school districts to make payments to local governments in lieu of taxes if they have sites that aren't being used for "school purposes."

The district has five unused sites, four elementary school and one junior high, totaling 63 acres. Bunker said the law probably would be challenged, probably by some Southern California district, as unconstitutional.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

FOOD SALES — Approved guidelines for volunteer food sales at elementary schools, such as hot dogs, but limited the sales to once a week at a school.

ETHNIC REPORT — Received a report that students from minority families comprise 9.7 per cent of the total enrollment, 1,123 of 11,559.

ADULT SCHOOL — Approved seven courses for the winter term of the adult evening high school, including a lecture series on "North Marin's Fight Against VD."

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Jan. 4 at Novato High School lecture hall.

Yule Flights For GIs In Asia

OAKLAND (UPI) —Trans International Airlines has scheduled three special Christmas flights bringing GI's home from Vietnam for the holidays.

The flights are scheduled Dec. 13, 21 and 22 and the fare between Saigon and Chicago is $399, about $600 under the regular airline fare, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The flights were scheduled to accommodate GI's eligible for two-week holiday leave.

Church Files Suit Over Critical Book

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The publisher and author of a book titled "The Scandal of Scientology" were sued for $500,000 Wednesday by the Church of Scientology.

The church complained in a suit filed in Superior Court that the book contained "untrue, libelous and defamatory" statements about the church's leaders, doctrines, practices and financial affairs.

Convicts Win Points; Two Hostages Unhurt

YARDVILLE, N. J. (UPI)— Two hostages held more than 21 hours by 100 rebellious prisoners were released unharmed today when state officials agreed to make public inmate grievances over "Facist tactics of police brutality."

Guard Ira Friedman, 31, was released first by the prisoners about 9:45 a.m. The inmates later released prison official Richard Siedl, 36, after they heard a text of their grievances aired by area radio station.

Friedman and Siedl, an assistant superintendent of the Yardville Adult Reception and Youth Correction Center, were taken hostage about 3 p.m. Wednesday by the 100 inmates who took over a south wing of the institution, which the state has long held up as a model to the nation.

After the hostages were released the prisoners filed back to their cells in an orderly manner, prison officials said, ending their rebellion.

Although about 60 riot-equipped state police were on the grounds of the institution but they were not used.

The statement of grievances drawn up by the inmates was signed by Siedl and Albert C. Wagner, director of the state Division of Correction and Parole, who participated in night-long negotiations with the rebellious prisoners along with other officials.

The prisoners said one of their "fellow inmates" had been subjected to police brutality and was confined to the prison hospital.

They said that the officers who "were involved in this incident should be prosecuted immediately." The inmates demanded that the incident be investigated by "someone other than this institution's administration," and recommended an investigation by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Authorities said there had been continuing tension over the past week which was heightened Monday when an inmate was bitten in a dispute with another.

Sources said the prisoners were angered over alleged special preference accorded 40 prisoners transferred to Yardville from Rahway State Prison "for security reasons" following a Thanksgiving Day rebellion there. Those transfered were not involved in the disorder here.

Seafarers Picket Over Hospital Cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Members of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union today picketed the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office protesting proposals to close or transfer facilities of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco.

While the pickets marched outside, federal officials met to consider plans for the 357-bed hospital's future. HEW officials held closed meetings to discuss proposals from five groups which have submitted plans to take over the institution.

However, an HEW spokesman said proposals of the five groups had not met the department's requirements. Details of the proposals were unavailable, except for those of a consortium of Pacific Medical and St. Francis Hospitals.

The latter proposal calls for a phased takeover by the two-hospital group under a nonprofit corporation.

The proposal noted that it would cost an estimated $13 million to bring the hospital up to California codes.

The hospital presently, among other duties, cares for merchant seamen, Coast Guard personnel and other federal dependents. The consortium would handle, under the proposal, the hospital's monthly 425 in-patient admissions and 122,781 annual out-patient visits.

The proposed consortium plan also calls for special arrangements with hospitals at San Diego, Long Beach and Portland, Ore., to provide continued emergency care for seamen.

dated sanitation district comes into being.

John T. Schulte, project manager of the improvement district, said it could be anywhere from four months to a year before the recommended sanitation district is created.

Controversy has raged for months over whether a sanitary district (governed by elected directors), a sanitation district (governed by representatives of present sanitary districts and cities in Southern Marin) or the water district should provide treatment in the future. If the water district board accepts the recommendation, that question would be settled.

County Administrator John F. Barrows had recommended that virtually all Marin sanitary districts be dissolved and their functions transferred to the Marin Municipal and the North Marin water districts.

Involved in the proposed Southern Marin consolidation are the Richardson Bay, Homestead, Alto, Almonte and Sausalito-Marin City sanitary districts, the Kay Park Sewer Maintenance District, the Tamalpais Community Services District and the City of Mill Valley.

Exactly what collection and treatment facilities would be built remains undecided. A study commissioned by Improvement District A is due next Aug. 15, Schulte said.

A rough estimate of the cost of the facilities is $60 million, of which about $11.7 million would come from Southern Marin residents and the remainder from state and federal grants.

Advisory committee members also voted last night to recommend that the boundaries of the new improvement district be the same as those of the present one, except that the Tiburon Sanitary District and the City of Belvedere be included.

Those two areas decided not to join Improvement District A, but since have changed their minds, Schulte said.

moratorium. That followed nearly a year's battle between defenders of property rights and conservationists over public right of access to Corte Madera Creek.

Earlier this year, in April, the council overrode the planning commission and heavy citizen opposition by approving construction of a 186-unit apartment development on the banks of the creek.

Pressure for a moratorium intensified with presentation of the Larwin plans, and Sydney H. Williams, the city's planning consultant, again raised the possibility of a ban in a memorandum on the Larwin project to the commission.

Moreover, Williams observed in his report that Bon Air Hill already was overdeveloped, and he suggested that the city investigate the possibility of a park at the top of the hill —site of Larwin's planned development.

Williams has been hired by the city to guide alterations in the 1966 master plan. The work, which began in October, is expected to take a year.

The city is confronted with new state laws requiring community provision for low and moderate income housing, as well as environmental elements. A new look at commercial zoning also is expected during the study.

The Dec. 28 date to discuss the ban and hear the Larwin appeal was set over the objections of members of the Larkspur Town Meeting group. Organization chairman Charles Brouse said many interested citizens would be out of town during the holiday season.

But the council pleaded a heavy meeting schedule in January.

In a matter related to master plan revision, the council set Jan. 28-29, at a site to be determined, for a citywide "development policy conference." Williams will present to the assembly — including city officials, representatives of various private and citizen groups and individual residents — an outline of development options for the community.

Results of the conference will lead to a draft of a public development policy, guiding master plan changes.

Greenbrae Suit Over Old Bills

Greenbrae Property Owners Association went to court yesterday to collect $10 and $15 annual maintenance fees from 10 homeowners allegedly four years in arrears. (See Larkspur City Council story, page 10.)

Attorney Richard S. Riede, representing the association, filed suits in Marin Superior Court against Robert L. Norman, Carolyn Joge, Vincent McGarry, Robert F. McCullough, Filomena M. Ranuio, Henry Peters, Jerry J. Torres, Joe H. Stewart, P. G. Meyer and Harris J. Stewart.

Riede said the nonpayers are only a small fraction of the property owners. He said he filed against the 10 because they are behind since 1968, and the statute of limitations runs out in four years.

Some homeowners in Greenbrae have been pushing for formation of an assessment district so that maintenance assessments can be collected as part of the property taxes instead of separately by the Greenbrae association.

In announcing the cease-fire on the Western front Mrs. Gandhi said India had no territorial aims and that it was time to halt the bloodshed. All India Radio said she had made the same statement in a letter to President Nixon who has accused India of being the major aggressor in the war.

She told Nixon that India wants lasting peace with Pakistan and that during the last 24 years she and her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, had offered Pakistan a pact of nonaggression many times but that each time Pakistan rejected it out of hand.

She said she was writing to President Nixon in a moment of deep agony at the unhappy turn which relations between India and the United States had taken.

Mrs. Gandhi went before the lower house of Parliament and told the cheering legislators that West Pakistan forces had unconditionally surrendered in East Pakistan and that "Dacca is now a free capital of a free country."

Her cease-fire announcement came shortly afterward.

"We have repeatedly declared that India has no territorial ambitions," Mrs. Gandhi said. "Now that the Pakistan armed forces have surrendered in Bangla Desh and Bangla Desh is free, it is pointless in our view to continue the present conflict.

"Therefore, in order to stop further bloodshed and unecessury loss of life we have ordered our armed forces to cease fire everywhere on the Western front as of 8 p.m. tomorrow 17th December 1971 (9:30 a.m. EST Friday)."

"It is our earnest hope that there will be a corresponding immediate response from the government of Pakistan. . ."

The announcement said the Indian foreign minister had been instructed to make the announcement tonight in the United Nations where the Soviet Union has vetoed three cease-fire resolutions —a move Pakistan said was aimed at letting India win all of East Pakistan and perhaps the West as well.

Mrs. Gandhi, wearing a yellow shawl over a white sari, stood in the place of her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, in the Lok Sabha, India's lower house of Parliament, and told of the great victory in precise, patrician English.

"We have hailed the new nation at this historic moment," she said. "...We hail the people of Bangla Desh." Bangla Desh, meaning Bengal Homeland, is the name chosen by the rebels who rose against the Yahya Khan government.

Yahya Khan acknowledged the loss of East Pakistan and told his nation, "But if we fall back from one front, this does not mean that we have lost the war. We shall eventually conquer. . . The people of Pakistan will not rest until we have thrown the enemy out of our country."

Yahya Khan said Pakistan was prepared to accept any suggestions that may decide the present conflict in the interest of Pakistan's integrity. He appealed to the big powers to act.

Deputy coroner Bill J. Thomas reported that Heints, who had a history of heart disease, was discovered dead in a chair at his home at 8 a.m. by his wife, Bette. He lived at 774 St. Francis Drive.

Heints was last seen alive at 10 p.m. yesterday when his wife went to bed and he stayed up to watch television, Thomas said. When he was discovered in the morning, the television set was still on.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato under the auspices of Hamilton Masonic Lodge 751. Private burial will follow.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Masonic Building Association or a favorite charity.

Law Would Solve Canal Disputes

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation designed to resolve years-old boundary disputes along San Rafael Canal has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, AB 2111, by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, authorizes the State Lands Commission and City of San Rafael to swap property with private owners in order to settle the disputes.

Bagley also won passage last year of a bill aimed at settling the disputes, but the lands commission staff later claimed that the measure was not broad enough to allow the city to make the property swaps.

The state granted creek tidelands to the city many years ago, but the boundaries became the subject of complex lawsuits in later years because the original boundaries never were officially determined. Complicating the disputes was subsequent realignment of the canal.

Lawsuits along the canal have involved the Marin Municipal Water District, City of San Rafael, Marin Yacht Club and other entities.

A spokesman for Bagley said this year's bill "will do the job." The lands commission had "no more excuses" not to settle the disputes, he said.

Couple Injured In Parking Lot

A Novato couple was injured yesterday when their auto was struck by another in the parking lot of Lyon's Restaurant at Northgate Shopping Center, San Rafael police reported today.

William G. and Julia Huston of 665 Marin Oaks Drive, were to seek treatment for unspecified injuries from their own physician following the 6 p.m. accident, officers said.

Their auto was struck by one driven by Margaret M. Johnston of New Westminister, B.C., as she backed out of a parking space.

The first cloverleat traffic interchange was built in New Jersey in 1928, says the National Automobile Club.

Dollar Weak In Europe, Hits New Low In France

LONDON (UPI)—The U.S. dollar fell to a new low in France and remained weak in a quiet start to trading in Europe's main money markets today.

The U.S. currency also dipped to a new low in Japan, where trading was heavy.

Operators were preferring wait-and-see tactics in London, Frankfurt and Zurich in advance of the weekend Washington talks on the monetary crisis among the 10 richest industrial nations in the non-Communist world, bankers said.

In the view of some European politicians and financiers these talks could find an outline agreement on the scope of the realignment of major currency values since President Nixon at the Franco-American Azores meeting expressed U.S. readiness to devalue the dollar as part of a money-and-trade package.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing who participated in the Azores meeting said Nixon agreed to abolish the 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. imports immediately if the Western nations realigned their currency values. He told French labor, farming and basiness groups the French economy would suffer in no way through the future readjustment of currency values.

In the Paris market the dollar fell to its lowest price since the August, 1969, devaluation of the French franc. In early deals between banks the financial or speculative dollar changed hands at 5.25 francs, a dollar devaluation of 5 per cent from its original official rate.

On Wednesday the financial franc closed at 5.30 francs. The commercial French franc, which is strictly controlled by the government, stayed strong and this pinned the dollar down at its agreed "floor" of 5.5125 francs.

In Spain the foreign exchange market closed after only two hours of trading and banking sources blamed the closure on the imminent devaluation of the dollar.

In Frankfurt trading turned slow in anticipation of the weekend top-level money talks. The dollar opened trading today fractionally higher at 3.2520 marks in very light trading, representing a 12.5 per cent upward revaluation of the mark compared with its pre-May official exchange rate.

The U.S. currency started at 2.5199 to the pound, slightly lower than Wednesday's closing level but better than the four year low point of 2.5201 to the pound seen Wednesday, the worst since the sterling devaluation in 1967.

Relatively quiet conditions ruled in Zurich where Swiss bankers marked the dollar lower at first and then edged its price slightly higher. It steadied at 3.8865 Swiss francs, or a dollar devaluation there of 4.74 per cent.

In Belgium the dollar inched slightly higher to 45.535 francs or 8.93 per cent below the former official parity. The Dutch market followed a similar pattern and the dollar moved up to 3.27125 guilders, or a 9.63 per cent dollar devaluation.

In Japan—one of the key currencies in any realignment—the dollar skidded again in heavy trading to its lowest since the yen was "floated" at the end of August. The dollar dropped to 321.40 yen, down more than 12 per cent from its old official value of 360 yen.

'Group Of 10' Dollar Talks Begin Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When administration officials enter crucial negotiations with the United States' chief trading partners in Washington this weekend, they will have the support of Democratic and Republican congressional leaders for an agreement to devalue the dollar.

The congressional leaders met with President Nixon for one hour and 15 minutes Wednesday. When they emerged from the White House cabinet room, they said Congress will approve devaluation by raising the official price of gold whenever the administration asks for it.

"We think it is a step in the right direction (and) beneficial to the U.S. economy," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House Republican leader, said he believed the Congress would "respond accordingly" if the negotiations show progress.

The weekend meeting will involve finance ministers of the 10 richest nations of the non-Communist world.

Nixon announced Tuesday after meeting with French President Georges Pompidou in the Azores that the United States would work toward devaluation of the dollar.

Wednesday, Treasury Department officials made clear the Nixon decision to accept devaluation was "very much a package" with a lowering of foreign trade barriers and an allied sharing of overseas defense costs as part of a general realignment of world currency values.

The officials said the package will be the main point of bargaining at the "group of ten" meeting Friday and Saturday at the Smithsonian Institution.

If all goes well, Mansfield said, the negotiations may be "wrapped up" this weekend with final agreement on a new world monetary system that the United States hopes will help reverse its balance of payments deficit.

Devaluation is expected to be as much as 8 per cent. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has promised devaluation will be made through a "direct request to the Congress." It is expected to be sought sometime next year.

The dollar will remain as "good as it was" after devaluation, Mansfield said. He said it was essentially a bookkeeping tactic and that there would be little or no impact on domestic prices, except for imported goods.

Burglary 'Conspiracy' Trial Set

Three men accused of trying to burglarize the La Camembert restaurant in Tamalpais Valley last month must stand trial in Marin Superior Court.

After a preliminary hearing Tuesday, Judge David Menary of Marin Municipal Court ordered the men to appear on Jan. 10 in Marin Superior Court to face trial.

Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City; Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, and Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael, were arrested Nov. 29 by sheriff's deputies, who said the trio was crouched behind the restaurant shortly after midnight with nylon stockings on their heads.

All three are charged with attempting to burglarize the restaurant and conspiring to commit theft. In addition, Adams is charged with concealing stolen property, and Stringer and Jackson with possession of marijuana.

110,000 Empty Slots In Colleges

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A decrease in freshman enrollment has left as many as 110,000 empty places in America's 1,500 colleges and universities, but minority group enrollment increased dramatically. The carnegie commission on higher education said in a report Wednesday that the economic recession and a poor job market were possible reasons for the 1971 freshman rollback.

Despite the total drop, there was an increase in the proportion of black, Spanish-surname and women students, the report said.

The enrollment of black students in four-year institutions increased by 15 per cent and the enrollment of Spanish-surname persons by 25 per cent. Freshmen women increased by 2 per cent, the commission said.

Estimates were based on questionaires sent to 444 four-year institutions which reported 40,600 unfilled freshman places, more than half at private colleges.

"This drop in freshman enrollment in four-year institutions follows slowing down in the rate of increases in freshman enrollment in 1969 and 1970 and probably reflects, at least in part, the influence of economic recession," said Dr. Clark Kerr, chairman of the commission.

The report, which included both public and private schools, said some of the competition for freshman came from two-year colleges, which showed an 8 per cent increase in total enrollment, a big percentage of which was minorities.

Among graduate students, where enrollment was up slightly, there was a 35 per cent increase in blacks and a 26 per cent jump in Spanish-surname student enrollments. The number of women increased 9 per cent compared with 4 per cent by men.

Kerr said that where enrollment increases were reported, registrars attributed them to expanded programs and increased student interest in particular subjects. Where enrollments declined, registrars cited the economic situation and decreased job opportunities.

Major undergraduate academic and professional fields reportedly losing enrollments were engineering, down 17 per cent; ethnic studies, down 12 per cent; and education, down 9 per cent. Gaining enrollments at the undergraduate level were social work, nursing, urban studies, city planning and forestry.

Frankie Laine Will Aid Seventh Step

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Singer Frankie Laine said Wednesday he will conduct radiothons and telethons across the country in the next several months to raise funds for the 7th Step Foundation, an organization which aids ex-convicts.

Proceeds will benefit the San Francisco chapter, Laine said. There are 32 chapters nationally, about half of them in California. Persons released from prison are counselled, given shelter and helped to find employment.

Quentin Guard Denies Charges

A newly hired San Quentin guard, charged with smuggling dangerous drugs and alcohol into the prison, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

He is Samuel Thomas Jr., 28, of Richmond, who was hired by the prison in September and arrested as he reported to work on Dec. 1. He is charged with bringing alcohol, benzedrine and Seconal into prison and possessing dangerous drugs within a prison.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court set a preliminary hearing for Thomas on Dec. 28.

Stop Smog Group Loses Ground On Penalty Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A campaign to fine industrial polluters and force them to shut down during breakdowns of smog controls lost more ground yesterday.

The Stop Smog Committee and North Richmond Neighborhood Council had made headway in their campaign last month when they convinced an ad hoc committee of the advisory council of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to forward their proposals to the council.

The council, however, sent them right back to the ad hoc committee, saying further study was needed before acting on the proposals which, in effect, demand a reversal of district regulations and policy.

The ad hoc committee on upset and breakdown, meeting yesterday for the first time since the council returned the issue to it on Nov. 23, in turn kicked it back down to the staff for "more detailed information."

Committee member Charles W. Graham, utility manager for the Dow Chemical Co. in Pittsburg, who consistently has opposed the citizen groups' proposals, said "we need facts first to act."

The target of the proposals are district regulations which now allow industry to continue operations during a breakdown of smog controls or upset of processing. It has been district practice to impose no fine or other penalty on the industry creating pollution if the industry shows it was accidental and not due to negligence.

Committee member Walter Toney, director of the Berkeley Parks and Recreation Department, has been supporting the citizen groups' campaign, but agreed to the indefinite postponement yesterday pending the staff information.

The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said he could not estimate for a week how long it will take the staff to gather data asked by the committee. The data includes an itemized report of every breakdown or upset for four months last year, with engineering estimates of the additional pollution each caused.

Toney has been pushing a proposal somewhat more moderate than the citizen groups want, asking only that the burden of proof of violations shift from Callaghan to the industry. Present regulations leave Callaghan "too much leeway," Toney said.

Graham argued that "more violations don't necessarily produce better air conditions," but Edward Groth III, a member of the advisory council, noted that violation notices did not necessarily result in a penalty, "so why not make all upsets and breakdowns violations?"

The district's supervising inspector, Thomas Brennan, reported that a rundown survey of 1,032 upsets and breakdowns reported in 1970 by major industries found 407 lasted less than one hour, 233 were one to four hours, 386 were four hours to a week, and six took longer than a week to repair.

He did not know how many of the 1,032 resulted in violations notices.

Toney, demanding details on how many of the reported malfunctions resulted in violation notices by district inspectors, said "the issue here is the proper management and function of the district."

Callaghan added that his own judgement was the target of the citizens groups' proposals.

Another reason was offered by Groth, who said the "aesthetic impact" of breakdowns was the issue because they produce such visible pollution.

The chairman of the advisory council, Edward I. Murphy of the San Francisco Planning Department, said he will advise district directors that the committee needs more time to review the upset and breakdown procedures. The board of directors had asked that the committee's recommendation come before them on Jan. 5.

Danes Face Reaction To Salmon Overkill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has sent President Nixon legislation which would allow him to stop all fish imports from Denmark if that country continues to disregard international quotas on its catches on Atlantic salmon.

Denmark exports $10.5 million worth of fish to the United States each year. The Senate Commerce Committee, which originated the legislation, said action was needed because unrestricted catches are threatening salmon in the North Atlantic.

Army Closing Two Centers At Fort Lewis

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI)— The Army will close the Ft. Lewis infantry and personnel centers, which were opened in 1966 to meet troop demands of the Vietnam War.

Officials said Wednesday a reduced number of men entering the Army and a cutback in the need for overseas replacements led to the decision to shut down the center.

The base, a key center during World War II, said nearly 300,000 infantrymen have graduated from the training centers during the past five years, including 230,000 who completed basic training and 67,000 who went through a special, nine week Vietnam-oriented advanced course.

The closure will affect about 3,000 military personnel and 52 civilian federal employes.

Students Collect Ton Of Food For Needy

More than a ton of canned goods was collected in a drive that ended yesterday at Terra Linda High School.

The mountain of canned food — 2,860 pounds — was to be picked up today by Marin Economic Opportunity Council workers for distribution by EOC to needy persons at Christmas.

The drive was sponsored by Interact, a student service organization sponsored by the Terra Linda Rotary club.

According to guidance counselor W. Scott Hayes, faculty advisor to Interact at the high school, fourth period classes at the school competed in the drive, with a class party promised to the class that brought in the most cans.

The competition, which began Monday and ended yesterday, was based on weight of cans, rather than the number of cans, Hayes said.

He said he expected contributions to continue, even though the class competition ended yesterday, and said he thought the total would be more than 3,000 pounds.

Earth Wired For "Tilt" Warning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Earth is being wired to read "tilt" like a pinball machine.

A "tilt-meter" will soon be lowered more than 5,000 feet down an abandoned oil well in the Baldwin hills district by Dr. Ta-Liang Teng of the California Institute of Technology.

Some scientists believe the earth tilts slightly before earthquakes and a study of the tilting might provide information that would help develop a method of predicting quakes, Teng said.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

Going Steady

If you take a look at the average roll of film shot by the amateur photographer, the problem that shows up most often is unwanted movement. With the fast films and shutter speeds available today, that usually means not that the subject moved, but that the camera did.

Whenever possible, the serious photographer will always give himself the advantage of a tripod . . . the one way to be sure you won't get camera motion or "jiggle" that will show up in the picture.

There's a tendency always to go for the very lightest and smallest tripod, just because it's easier to carry, but the experts will tell you just the opposite: buy a tripod that is heavier and bigger than you think you need. It'll do a better job of helping you go steady.

Tripods, gadget bags and other photographic accessories make ideal gifts for the enthusiastic camera fan. Right now our displays are overflowing with great gift ideas. Come in and shop for Christmas at

Cuba Admits To Capture Of Ship

MIAMI (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's government admitted in a Cuban Radio broadcast today that it captured a Miami-based cargo ship in the Bahamas and warned that its gunboats will "go any distance from our coast" to seize "pirate ships."

"The entire responsibility for this situation belongs to the government of the United States as principal author and inspiration of such acts of banditry," said the broadcast monitored in Miami.

The broadcast said the 1,400-ton freighter Johnny Express, owned by Cuban exiles and flying the Panamanian flag, was captured about 120 miles from the eastern coast of Cuba Wednesday. The Johnny Expresshad radioed that it was being attacked by Cuban gunboats and many of its crewmen wounded by machinegun fire.

"One of our Cuban naval units that stands guard against pirate ships that have harrassed our territory at the service of the CIA captured the ship Johnny Express when it refused to obey an order to heave to for boarding," the Cuban Radio broadcast said.

The broadcast said that a pirate launch attacked the "humble village of Sama" on Cuba's eastern coast on Oct. 12, killing several persons and severely wounding others, including a little girl whose leg had to be amputated.

The broadcast said this was one of a dozen similar crimes committed against Cuba by pirate ships.

"Cuba will not hesitate to act at any distance from our coast where these pirate ships are operating and under whatever flag or camouflage they are carrying out their crimes against our nation," the broadcast warned.

Cuban Radio said the Johnny Express was being escorted to a port in Oriente Province.

Jose Villa, captain of the Johnny Express, had issued a dramatic call for help before his radio went dead. Villa, 55, a naturalized U.S. citizen living in Miami, said he and three other crewmen were badly wounded by gunfire and he pleaded for help from the U.S. Coast Guard.

"I'm dying, Chico (boy or buddy). Tell them to come quick," He said. His words were interrupted by the sound of gunfire.

"The deck is full of blood from the wounded," Villa cried. "We've got dead and wounded." It was impossible to get an exact account of the casualties before the radio went dead.

The Coast Guard dispatched a plane and helicopter to the scene to aid the wounded but re-called them after receiving word the freighter was being escorted to an unnamed Cuban port where Cuban authorities would care for the wounded.

The Coast Guard and the Defense Department in Washington made it clear that the only American interest was aiding the injured, since the Johnny Express flies the Panamanian flag and the incident happened outside U.S. waters.

The attack occurred two miles northwest of Little Inagua Island in the Bahamas, more than 100 miles from the eastern coast of Cuba.

Villa was the only American citizen aboard. The other crewmen were nine Dominicans, two Haitians and two Spaniards.

Forgery, Check Charges Denied

Robert Lee Smith, 38, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of forgery and passing a bad check.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 28 for preliminary hearing.

Smith was arrested by Novato police Friday and accused of passing several checks totalling $278 at the Roger Wilco market and the Regan Shell Service Station in Novato.

He was charged with three counts of forgery and one count of passing a bad check.

'Top' Poker Player Out Of Retirement

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—John H. Moss, described by many as the best poker player in the world, has won preliminary approval to become the cardroom manager at the Horseshoe Club in Las Vegas.

The State Gaming Control Board recommended Wednesday that Moss be licensed for the job. Moss, who comes from Texas, said he had retired for a year but had "become old" doing nothing and he wanted to get back in action.

$20,000 Aid To The Needy

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—The gambling industry has pledged to donate $20,000 for the poor and needy at Christmas.

The Nevada Resort Association pledged the money Wednesday to the Ad Hoc Committee for Christmas Food for the Needy. The pledge boosted the total commitment to $25,000.

The money will be used to buy a thousand food vouchers which when used, including discounts, will be worth $28,000 or about $28 each.

Parking Meter Theft Case Guilty Plea

Solomon Marquez Jr., 31, of San Francisco, accused last February of trying to steal $400 in parking meter money from Sausalito city hall, has pleaded guilty to grand theft.

Marquez admitted the theft on Tuesday in Marin Superior Court before Judge E. Warren McGuire. The judge set Jan. 17 as the time to sentence Marquez.

Ferry To Be In Operation By Tomorrow

The ferry Golden Gate which developed rudder trouble yesterday should be back in service tomorrow, according to the general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Dale W. Luehring said today that buses had been substituted for all ferry runs since the rudder trouble was discovered on the 3:25 p.m. trip from Sausalito.

The skipper managed to dock the boat safely in San Francisco after the steering mechanism failed to respond by making adjustments in the speed of the twin engines.

Luehring said the trouble was in the shaft and a newly designed shaft was being installed today which should make the rudder more efficient.

He expected the work to be done today but said the ferry probably wouldn't sail until tomorrow.

Multiple Warhead Missiles Installed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Air Force has finished installing 150 multiple warhead missiles — called MIRVS — at Minot AFB, N.D.

Each Minuteman III missile has three warheads which are launched as a cluster but which can then be sent independently against separate targets.

Tiburon Annexation Foes Revive Group

Residents of three fringe areas of Tiburon who successfully fought annexation to the city Oct. 19 met again last night to plot strategy against Tiburon's latest annexation bid.

According to Trudy de la Fontaine, co-chairman of the old Strawberry Anti-Annexation Committee, about 25 residents of Bel Aire, Eagle Rock and Strawberry met at the Strawberry community building to map plans.

The Tiburon City Council voted Monday to ask the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission for permission to annex 608 acres of technically uninhabited land to the city, including 411 acres in Strawberry.

If the commission gives approval, the city must hold a hearing. The annexation will be approved if the owners of less than half the assessed valuation of the land involved protest.

Mrs. de la Fontaine said the group renamed itself the Strawberry Area Community Council and pledged not only to fight annexation but also to take an active role in planning of the area.

She said another meeting will be held at an unspecified date in January when new officers will be elected and final battle plans formulated for the confrontation at the local agency formation commission meeting Jan. 12.

Pending election of officers, Mrs. de la Fontaine said she, Lois Bahn and Pat Jeremiah will continue to serve as co-chairmen of the citizens group.

Watchdog subcommittees to keep an eye on the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the county planning commission also will be named at the January meeting, said Mrs. de la Fontaine.

Wood fiber materials account for about 60 per cent of the urban waste produced in the United States, says National Geographic.

Year-Round Plans Due Joint View

The parks and recreation commissions of Corte Madera and Larkspur have set a joint meeting to discuss a year-round joint recreation program.

The Corte Madera commission last night scheduled the meeting for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 19 at Corte Madera Town Hall, according to Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation director.

Talk of combining recreation programs has been circulating in the two town's for years, but so far only the summer programs have been combined, she said.

In other action, Mrs. Branch said the board accepted the resignation of Shirley A. Walker to devote her time to her seat on the Larkspur School District Board, supported a city-county open space acquisition plan suggested by county Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and asked the town council to acquire a park.

She said the commission wants the town to take over Menke Park, a small park in the Village Square developed by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

U.S. mints at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco will produce a record 9.2 billion coins in six denominations in the fiscal 1972.

GREETING — First Lady Pat Nixon and her daughter Julie Eisenhower greeted one of a group of blind children from Los Angeles who toured the White House yesterday. The children were invited to come to the White House when the two women visited the foundation in June 1969. (UPI Telephoto)

A TALK WITH PAT

White House Tour For Blind Youths

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Feel his hair," said a blind child from California as he ran his fingers over a bust of George Washington in the White House.

"He has a crazy hairstyle."

More than 60 of the blind youngsters from California got a VIP tour of the White House Wednesday which included a talk with first lady Pat Nixon and her daughter, Julie Eisenhower.

One girl, Carol Van Bogelin, told Julie, "you and your mother were just great."

"But we love you," Julie said.

When the inspection tour of the mansion was completed, the children gathered in the state dining room for cookies and punch, and to sing Christmas carols accompanied by the U.S. Marine Corps choir.

A gingerbread house was a popular attraction for the visitors. Eager fingers felt carefully the thick icing which comprised the roof, and the cookies which were imbedded in the gingerbread.

An aide explained the refreshment table to two girls.

"It's a white tablecloth with red velvet ribbon trimming," and the aide drew the fingers of two children over the materials so they would know what they were "seeing."

The group arrived in Washington late Sunday and their White House tour was the climax to a typical tour of the city's sights.

The 62 blind young persons from the Foundation for the Junior Blind in Los Angeles were escorted by one staff member for every four children. The expenses of the trip were paid by donations to the foundation, with the Lions Club contributing generously to meet the cost, and District 22 of the Lions clubs in Maryland paying for expenses in Washington. One estimate of the cost ran up to $3,500 to $4,000 for rooms, meals, and buses.

When the young people left the White House, Santa Claus in a bright red velvet suit and with a curly white beard and hair, was at the door to bid them goodby and present them with presents —key chains wrapped in red and blue Christmas paper and with gold presidential seals on the packages.

The children seemed assured and adept at threading their way through the crowded refreshment room. They were happy and eager to tell how much they had enjoyed their trip to the nation's capitol and to the White House.

One had a placard with the picture of two small boys, one black, the other white, embracing. The legend was: "The blind are also color blind."

They also enjoyed singing for Mrs. Nixon, Christmas carols and selections from the musical comedy, "Fiddler On The Roof."

" A feeling of joy and peace came over me when we sang," one girl told the First Lady.

Guidelines On Police Microfilm

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Berkeley City Council has voted unanimously to impose a stringent set of guidelines on the content and use of a new police microfilm record system.

The system, financed by a $64,000 federal grant, is designed to provide police quickly with a suspect's record.

The council's trio of self-described radicals had protested that the new record file would become a catch-all for rumors and unproven charges.

The council Wednesday voted guidelines to include only crimes of which an individual has been found guilty or to which he has pleaded guilty.

The council held that "data from trips, rumors, secondhand allegations or information provided by police undercover agents that has not been substantiated by official criminal justice proceedings."

In addition, any person with a record on file must be permitted by police to examine his entry, the council ruled.

Great Lakes Gale Warnings Are Issued

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gale warnings were issued for the Great Lakes early today as high winds ripped eastward toward New York state.

The winds came in the wake of a violent storm that struck the South and Midwest Wednesday, killing two persons and injuring at least 107. The storm headed for southeast Canada today but left a trail of heavy property damage in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky.

In New York state Wednesday night, wind gusts reached 70 miles per hour and downed power lines and tree limbs. However, no injuries were reported.

The National Weather Service posted high wind warnings today for Western New York, eastern Lake Ontario and the Finger Lakes region.

Deputies in Genesee County, N.Y., said power crews were working throughout the night to repair downed power lines. "We have hot wires all over the place," one deputy said.

Southern Missouri counties lashed by Wednesday's storm have been declared in a state of emergency by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. Police sealed off the debris-littered streets of Republic, Mo., and patrolled downtown Hurst, Tex., to prevent looting. Property damage in Missouri was estimated in the millions of dollars.

In Maine and New Hampshire, travelers warnings were in effect today for a hazardous combination of snow and freezing rain. A band of varied precipitation stretched from Maine to Massachusetts.

Elsewhere in the nation, light showers were scattered along the central Gulf Coast today and light snow fell in the western Mountains and from the northern plains to the upper Great Lakes. A few showers dampened the extreme Pacific Northwest.

Merchants in Twin Falls, Idaho, said they are out of shovels and having a hard time keeping winter tires and chains in stock because of a series of snow storms which hit the city. It has been snowing in Twin Falls for three days.

Beauty Queen Loses Privilege

LONDON (UPI)—Lucia Petterle of Brazil, who won this year's Miss World contest, has lost the right to use her title for advertising, the director of the contest said Wednesday.

"In view of her wild outbursts on her departure from London, it is very difficult for me to sign a contract on her behalf," Julia Morley said. "She has given us every indication of being unsteady."

She said this meant, in effect, that the 22-year-old beauty queen would not be able to use the title commercially, although she would officially remain Miss World.

Berkeley City Council Appointment Controversy

BERKELEY (UPI) —The City Council's new member, a housewife who describes herself as "absolutely liberal," says she identifies with the council's lone woman radical.

Mrs. Susan Hone, 33, was appointed to the council in a surprise move Wednesday night, breaking a bitter radical-conservative deadlock that had left a seat on the council vacant for eight months.

Liberal Mayor Warren Widener, who usually votes with the three radicals, sided with the four-man moderate--conservative block to elect her. One of the radicals promptly denounced him as a "pig."

The radical bloc of Mrs. Ilona Hancock, D'Army Bailey and Ira T. Simmons protested the action, charging the council now was "heavily weighted to the conservative point of view."

Mrs. Hone said Wednesday she could "identify with Mrs. Hancock" as well as Widener and moderate councilman Ed Kallgren.

"They're basically supportive of programs I am in favor of. The three of them are asking the right questions."

Mrs. Hancock said she was willing to work with Mrs. Hone.

However, she refused to speculate on how Mrs. Hone might align herself in future council votes.

"That's hard to say," she said.

Mrs. Hone, a University of California gra ate active in Democratic Party affairs, is married to attorney Michael Hone. They have six-year-old twins, Mac and Lisa.

Bill Would Foil Car Repair Swindles

EDITOR'S NOTE

What were the 1971 legislature's accomplishments and failures? This is the fourth in a series of articles answering that question. It concerns consumer protection.

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's 10 million car owners are swindled by mechanics each year out of an estimated $250 million, and perhaps as much as $1.5 billion.

In Southern California, for example, operators of eight service stations between San Bernardino and Las Vegas were recently charged with ruining tires, fan belts and radiators on motorists' cars to sell them unneeded parts.

Under consumer protection legislation passed this year and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, those operators could be put out of business, fined and jailed if found guilty of such practices.

The auto repair bill, by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was part of a gamut of consumer protection measures enacted during the 1971 legislative session. They affected items ranging from charcoal briquettes to waterbeds and regulated door-to-door peddling and funeral parlors.

Beilenson's bill, which he has carried for the past three years, was termed by Reagan the "toughest and most significant consumer protection legislation of the year."

It requires some 40,000 repair dealers to be licensed after July 1 under a new watchdog state Bureau of Automotive Repairs. Violations of "accepted trade standards" could mean the loss of a dealer's license. Jail terms and fines were provided for in certain cases of fraudulent practices.

Another measure affecting automobile drivers, a proposal for "no-fault" car insurance, was killed in the legislature.

The bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, was rejected by the Senate Judiciary Committee despite claims by its supporters that it would save motorists $50 million a year. Under no-fault insurance, a person collects benefits from his own company regardless of who causes an accident.

Another automotive measure by Beilenson also died in a Senate committee. It would have required cars sold in California after 1973 to be capable of withstanding a headon crash at 50 miles an hour without injuring its occupants.

In other consumer areas, credit card holders received additional protection against billing errors, deception and sex discrimination when Reagan signed a bill by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park. Song introduced the bill after a personal squabble with a credit card company over a billing error.

Reagan also signed a bill by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, to give "city slickers" stricken with "land fever" up to 14 days in which to reconsider a contract they signed for the purchase of a "second home" lot.

Other measures signed by Reagan include:

A bill by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, requiring that packages of charcoal briquettes carry a warning that unless there is proper ventilation when they are burned they can cause death.

A proposal by Assemblyman Robert E. Badham, R-Newport Beach, requiring application of state safety standards to waterbeds.

A bill by Fenton allowing buyers three days in which to cancel purchases made from door-to-door salesmen.

And a bill by Beilenson requiring funeral directors to provide a list of prices and fees.

Some measures which failed to win legislative approval included:

A bill by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, requiring a 30-day warranty on television, car and other repair work.

A proposal by Beilenson requiring markets to display the price per pound or pint of packaged foods.

A measure by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, lowering the state's maximum annual interest rate from 18 to 12 per cent.

Library Story Hour Age Limits Required

Miriam Martin, children's librarian, said the limitation was necessitated by the size of the library's children's room, where the program will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Council For Truce In Greenbrae Row

The Larkspur City Council asked last night for a 10-week cooling-off period in the hassle over proposed formation of a county service area to finance community landscaping in Greenbrae. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 1.)

Although the council appeared ready at first to support creation of the taxing district in the 1,200-home community, it ultimately changed its mind in the hope residents can get together to deal with the problem themselves.

Opponents of the service area who appeared at last night's council session accepted the challenge, but Kermit V. Speeg, president of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association, left the meeting in disgust.

Speeg, citing citizen apathy and the community's financial inability to maitain street median strips, earlier told the council: "Don't listen to three or four people who are here tonight, but let 1,200 decide."

The property owners association won approval from the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to form the taxing district, and the matter was to be heard by the board of supervisors Dec. 28.

Opponents had promised to obtain enough voter signatures to force an election on the issue.

But the council, which has veto power over the service area, asked the supervisors to delay voting on the plan until March. It acted in the wake of opponents' complaints that the service area would pile another layer on the taxing bureacracy and that the association should be given more time to see if it could handle the landscaping chores itself.

Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. took this as an offer of help from the dissidents — who included former association president Bert D. Inman, former Larkspur Councilman Henry Brocco and Frank V. Pistolesi of 201 Via La Paz — and said it was up to them to show leadership.

"I accept," said Inman.

Speeg, however, didn't think the plan would work, and said all nine members of the association board probably would refuse reelection when 1972 officers are chosen Feb. 9.

He said the board was convinced a service area was the only solution, noting between $12,000 and $14,000 was now obtained each year for landscaping from property liens, while about $20,000 was needed to do the work.

Pistolesi said the association should "give it a good try" with the funds it has, despite a warning by Councilman William G. Fleckles, a Greenbrae resident, that there would be no way of absorbing inflated costs in the future.

Still, Fleckles supported the cooling-off period, saying it also would afford time to determine whether a state law could be passed giving Greenbrae special taxing powers without county involvement.

At the last council meeting, Fleckles has asked for a legal opinion on whether the city could contract with the community to do the work. Asst. City Atty. Peter B. Brekhus said in an opinion presented last night that city involvement would be merely proprietary, and therefore beyond its authority.

A city council-Greenbrae committee which had looked into the matter since the last meeting concluded the issue probably should go to a community vote. The council was about to endorse that procedure by approving the service area's formation until it changed its mind.

In other business last night, the council voted to send a letter to the county asking that funds earmarked for the Miller Avenue extension in Mill Valley — since deferred — be transferred for improvements to East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between the city limits and San Quentin's west gate.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst told the council the county public works department formerly had said the Miller Avenue money would go toward East Sir Francis Drake work if the Mill Valley project were delayed.

More Charges Hinted In Kerner Scandal

CHICAGO (UPI)—The indictment of U.S. Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner and four others could be the beginning of further grand jury charges against at least a dozen other Illinois politicians and race track officials involved in the state's race track scandal.

Investigators said today a federal grand jury in Chicago and a Sangamon County grand jury in Springfield are still looking into dealings involving the purchase of race track stock, conflicts-of-interest and possible bribery.

Kerner, former governor of Illinois and author of the "Kerner Report" on ghetto living conditions and rioting in the late 60s, was indicted Wednesday for bribery, mail fraud, tax evasion, perjury and conspiracy in connection with the buying and selling of race track stock.

A key to the investigation's success was Mrs. Marjorie Lindheimer Everett, who was praised by federal authorities for her co-operation.

"The community owes her a debt of gratitude," said U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson in announcing the indictments.

It was believed Mrs. Everett provided the most important information in stock deals and payoffs allegedly engineered while William S. Miller was chairman of the Illinois Racing Board under Kerner's governorship. Miller was one of those indicted with Kerner.

Mrs. Everett is a former chief stockholder of Arlington Park and Washington Park racetracks in Chicago.

Guilty Plea To Petty Theft

John Lin Motta, 19, of San Rafael has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to petty theft and burglary.

Three Rugs Taken From Warehouse

Three rugs valued at about $350 were stolen yesterday or Tuesday from the Marin Carpet Service warehouse on Simms Street, San Rafael police reported today.

The burglar entered the building by prying back the metal sheeting on the north wall, officers said.

Judge Fails To Beat His Speed Ticket

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Although winning praise for his eloquence, Butte County Superior Court Judge Lucian B. Vandegrift has lost in a bid to argue his way out of a speeding citation.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Mannino this week found Vandegrift guilty of speeding on a Sacramto street Nov. 12. Police said Vandegrift was clocked by a radar unit as going 47 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Vandegrift argued his own case before Mannino, who said later he did not know Vandegrift was a fellow judge.

"I thought his testimony in court was professional and displayed a great deal of expertise, but I didn't know who he was until after I found him guilty," Mannino said.

Vandegrift, former secretary of the State Human Relations Agency, contended he was speeding merely to test his vehicle's battery.

Mannino gave Vandegrift a suspended sentence and waived the $62 fine that normally would be attached to such a speeding violation.

"I gave him the same treatment as anyone else," Mannino said.

Battery Denied On Dogcatcher

Henry Yale Banquer, 25, of 833 Marin Drive, Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges that he resisted a Marin County Humane Society officer and committed battery on him.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 15 as the date for a pre-trial offence conference.

On Dec. 6, animal control officer Leo E. Rupp Sr. said he tried to pick up a dog on Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley when Banquer grabbed him and threw him to the sidewalk, freeing the dog.

Farm Bureau Presses Tax Ballot Petitions

Marin County Farm Bureau members are circulating petitions to get a new Watson tax initiative to limit property taxes on the state ballot next year.

The proposal would limit taxes to 1.75 per cent of assessed valuation, reported Alfred L. Poncia, bureau president.

The local drive is part of a statewide farm bureau effort to get petitions signed in the next three weeks, he said. The proposal by Philip E. Watson, Los Angeles County assessor, is a revised version of the Watson initiative which was defeated at the polls in 1968.

Directors also supported Marin County's interim ordinance on grading and excavation, but opposed review of applications for permits by a three-member committee, Poncia said. Directors felt that review by the county public works department would be sufficient and faster, he reported.

Yule Contest To Be Judged

Peacock Gap Homeowners' Association judges will inspect entries in the annual outdoor Christmas lighting contest Monday evening, the board of directors decided at its meeting Tuesday night.

Cash prizes will be awarded winners.

The board also decided to change its regular meeting date to the second Monday of each month.

State's Yule Tree Lighted by Reagans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's official Christmas tree was turned on Tuesday night by Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan in brief ceremonies outside the Capitol that included a group of young carolers.

Bundled up against the cold, the smiling governor urged his wife, Nancy, to push the button lighting the 30-foot high living blue spruce before "we freeze to death."

Talamantez Denied A Change Of Venue

San Quentin inmate Louis N. Talamantez, 28, accused of assaulting another inmate on March 12, 1970, can receive a fair trial in Marin, a Superior Court judge declared yesterday.

Judge Henry J. Broderick said he will deny the request for change of venue made by Talamantez and his attorney, G. Douglas Vaughn.

Talamantez and Vaughn argued on Dec. 9 that citizens of Marin have been prejudiced by the widespread publicity linking Talamantez with the shootout inside the prison last Aug. 21 when three inmates and three guards were killed. Because of this publicity and newspaper articles headlining the cost of San Quentin trials to taxpayers, Vaughn argued that Marin citizens would be biased against Talamantez in the 1970 assault case involving another inmate, Gonzalvo Hernandez.

The judge disagreed. He said publicity thus far on Talamantez and his connection with the six San Quentin inmates indicted for the Aug. 21 prison uprising have not turned the community against individual inmates to the point where they cannot get a fair trial.

Talamantez's trial on the 1970 assault is scheduled for Jan. 17.

Doctors Against Barbiturate Curb

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Medical Association (AMA) today shrugged off claims that abuse of barbiturate drugs is escalating because there are too many on the market.

The AMA said slapping controls on their legitimate use would be "a disservice to patients who need them."

The AMA also denied charges —voiced by many doctors—that physicians prescribe the highly addictive drugs too freely and thus keep millions of doses within easy reach of thrillseekers, particularly teenagers.

While there are "bound to be some cases of inappropriate prescribing," the AMA said in a statement prepared for a Senate hearing, the problem is bascially one of "street abuse" in the drug subculture over which added controls would be "ineffectual."

"To add to the present restrictions on barbiturates so as to reduce medical overuse would be a disserve to patients who need them ...," the AMA said. "Placing more rigorous controls on prescription of barbiturates and other sedative drugs would add to the cost of health care and would likely lead to the abuse of other substances."

Doctor-witnesses at the opening day of hearings into barbiturate abuse before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee Wednesday called for curbs on the "enormous overproduction" of such drugs by U.S. pharmaceutical firms—either voluntarily by the industry or by law if necessary — to counter abuse.

Even President Nixon, in a speech to the AMA in June, estimated that half of the 5 million doses of barbiturates produced annually are diverted to illicit markets.

"The claim that billions of doses of barbiturates are diverted annually into the black market for street use, however, has never, to our knowledge, been documented," the AMA said.

The statement was presented by Dr. Henry Brill of West Brentwood, N.Y., a member of the AMA's Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence.

Earlier, Dr. Sidney Cohen, a psychiatrist who heads the center for study of mind-altering drugs at the University of California in Los Angeles, testified the use of barbiturates was "the latest and worst aspect of the drug scene."

"People get robbed by heroin addicts and that's a big deal," Cohen said. "Or a 'speed freak' commits a murder and that hits the papers. LSD people fly out windows and that's spectacular.

"But addicts on barbiturates die quietly in some remote alley or motel room, and that isn't spectacular at all."

Theft Suspect Faces Hearing

Dale Luther Johnston, 22, of 329 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, accused of burglary and receiving stolen goods, faces a preliminary hearing on Dec. 21 in Marin Municipal Court.

Johnston was arrested by San Anselmo police on Oct. 6 and charged with burglarizing the George T. Sheridan home at 119 Floribel Avenue in San Anselmo last Aug. 16. He also is charged with five counts of receiving stolen property between June and October of this year.

He pleaded innocent to all counts on Nov. 15. Last Tuesday, Judge Robert A. Smallman set the preliminary hearing for Dec. 21 to see if evidence is sufficient to order him to trial in superior court.

Spouse's Delay Gets Job Done

DEXTER, Mo. (UPI)—Karen Tidwell said she reminded her husband repeatedly to get on the roof and straighten their outside television antenna, which was bent by a windstorm last week. He kept putting the chore off, she said.

Wednesday another storm raked the area and when the Tidwells inspected their property for damage today, they found the antenna had been bent again by the wind —in the other direction.

"It was as straight as can be," Mrs. Tidwell said.

Honored French Researcher Dies

PARIS (UPI)—Professor Antoine Lacassagne, awarded the United Nations prize for his work against cancer, committed suicide today at the age of 87, police said.

Lacassagne, director of the Curie Research Institute, was France's best-known cancer researcher. His work in the late 1950s revealed the role of hormones in both causing and checking certain forms of cancer.

Police said Lacassagne jumped out of his fourth floor apartment window into the street after leaving a suicide note.

BUT REAGAN VETO CERTAIN

Demo Remap-Muscle Vow

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Democratic legislative leaders vowed today to use all their muscle and pass reapportionment plans virtually certain to be vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and end up in court.

The decision came as talks between Assembly Republicans and Democrats over a possible compromise collapsed Wednesday after a week of negotiations.

Republican Assembly leader Robert Monagan of Tracy said, "We've got to the end of the road in our ability to work out something with the Democrats. We have exhausted everything we can think of that would lead to an agreement."

Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, Democratic floor leader, and Assemblyman Kenneth Cory of Garden Grove, Democratic caucus chairman, said they would proceed with reapportionment plans to increase the Democratic majority in the Assembly and preserve the thin Democratic margin in the Senate.

The Democratic proposal for the lower House is designed to boost their current margin from 42-38 to at least 44-36 and is the same plan which failed to win passage earlier.

In the Senate, the redistricting bill has been modified from the previous "bipartisan" version. It would now maintain the 21-19 Democratic majority and create a Chicano seat in East Los Angeles.

Both houses are scheduled to act Friday on reapportionment.

Meanwhile, the state Reapportionment Commission, convened by Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, held its first session in state history Wednesday and was faced with a State Supreme Court lawsuit in which the legislature contended the panel was unconstitutional and sought to halt any further action by it.

The two minority Democratic members, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson C. Riles, pushed through a requirement that would give them a greater voice in approval of any redistricting plan adopted by the five-member commission.

Approval would require four votes, including one Democrat, instead of three to approve a plan. Three members of the commission are Republicans.

Monagan, who will be on vacation when the legislature reconvenes Friday, said the Democrats seem to feel that "they might just as well go to court" and have the judiciary decide the sensitive political issue.

He said that because of the breakdown in negotiations with the Democrats, it would serve no purpose for him to remain in the Capitol.

Monagan said Reagan will veto a 44-36 plan, a move certain to throw the entire issue into the courts. But Monagan added that the governor said "He will sign a bill that we (Republicans) recommend to him that is 42-38 and that does not have any other unusual problems, such as unusual configurations."

"The governor's attitude is somewhat changed," Monagan said, referring to Reagan's statement earlier this month that he would not agree in advance to sign any reapportionment bill—even on recommendation of GOP legislators— until he thoroughly examined it firsthand.

But Cory said, "It could be a lot worse. It seems a moderate way to handle the changes that have taken place in the population.

"The Republicans want to take the first pick," he said. "They want their 38 and say if we can figure out some way to carve out the other 42 for ourselves, that's fine. They want 38 solid seats with shots at about three or four of our guys."

Prison Search Fails To Uncover Convict

Odds that convicted murderer Jacob Zitzer, 27, made good an escape from San Quentin seemed higher today when extensive searching inside the prison still failed to produce him.

Zitzer and two other convicts placed lifelike dummies in their cells Monday night and then attempted to go over a wall in the industrial section of the prison with a handmade rope, which broke. Two ladders were also found propped up against the wall.

His accomplices were quickly captured inside the prison after an alarm was sounded when movement was seen in the dusk and the ladders spotted.

A prison spokesman said today that he believed Zitzer had jumped from the top of the wall to freedom since someone had reported seeing movement on top of the wall.

"I don't think he would have jumped back into the prison," the spokesman, Keith Hayball said.

Rumors of Zitzer, who had served seven and a half years of a maximum life sentence, having been seen in San Francisco and Marin have not been confirmed.

Navy Financing Medical Study

Complete scholarships are available for men and women students accepted for the Navy's 1972 medical and osteopathic student scholarship program, according to Harry C. Wiggs, San Rafael recruiter.

Those in the program will be commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve and receive full pay and allowances in addition to tuition and fees. After graduation and internship, doctors must serve on active duty for either four or five years.

Applications may be submitted between Jan. 1 and March 15 to Chief Wiggs at 910 D Street, San Rafael.

Hospital Building Bonds Outlined

The Petaluma Hospital District Board heard last night that two methods could be used to finance construction of a new 99-bed hospital.

District Administrator Joseph E. Horner said financial consultants advised the board to sell either joint authority bonds or nonprofit bonds.

Horner said that under the joint authority bonds, the district would join with the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors in selling bonds with the new hospital leased back to the district for operation. Under the nonprofit bonding, the district could form a nonprofit corporation alone or with another governmental agency for the sale.

Horner said he expects the board to reach a decision on financing in January.

Judge Vetos Permit On Kentfield Project

Plans for a housing project for the elderly at 217 Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield ran up against a legal obstacle yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Henry J. Broderick ruled against the County of Marin which issued a use permit for 102 units of elderly housing where a Dominican priory now exists. Katharine Branson School tried unsuccessfully to open a boys' campus there last year.

When the Marin County Planning Commission and the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved the housing project, to be built by Catholic Social Services of Marin, a group of Kentfield residents headed by Louis F. Hawkins appealed to superior court.

The county granted the use permit on grounds that the development is a type of institutional housing which would be in the public interest.

"Regardless of the worthiness of the charitable and philanthropical considerations involved, this apartment is not an institution within any accepted sense of that term," said Judge Broderick. "Nor can the decision of the county supervisors be supported upon the theory that the contemplated activity is a public service use. While the use is undoubtedly charitable and philanthropic, it is not a public use but rather a private use of the Catholic Social Services of Marin."

The judge said he will order county supervisors to rescind the use permit.

Women Injured In Novato Crash

Two Novato residents suffered minor injuries at 11:15 p.m. yesterday when their car crashed through a fence on Atherton Avenue in Novato, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The driver, Marsha Ann Gasperoni, 21, of 2011 Hatch Road, was treated at Novato General Hospital for a cut shoulder. Debbie Gasperoni, 15, of 1107 Elm Road, suffered scrapes and bruises and also was treated at the hospital.

The patrol said the women's car was eastbound on Atherton Avenue when it skidded off the road, went through a barbed wire fence and overturned.

Tree Party Set For Tiburon

An old fashioned Christmas carol sing and tree decorating party will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today at the Strawberry community building for Strawberry residents.

Sponsored by the Strawberry Recreation District, the party will feature visits from Santa Claus and Phil the Mouse, who will give away candy to children.

Recreation manager David Robert asked residents to bring lights, tinsel or other ornaments to decorate two large Christmas trees.

Motorcycle Crash Hurts Young Driver

An 18-year-old Tiburon youth was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with back injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident in Corte Madera yesterday.

Corte Madera police said Bruce Stanton of 172 Leland Way was injured about 9:45 p.m. when his motorcycle overturned on San Clemente Drive near Paradise Drive.

Tam CSD In Support Of Land Plan

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have endorsed a plan now being considered by county supervisors which would permit the county to share in the cost of open space land which Marin cities wish to acquire, director Glenn Lambacher reported.

He said the board, at its Tuesday meeting, also asked the community services districts and park and recreation districts also be included in the city-county open space acquisition program.

Under the plan the county would pay half the cost of open space acquisition of Marin's 11 cities, he said.

The services district board also voted to give up its efforts to acquire the Wheelwright property, about 40 acres of wooded, hilly land above Northern Avenue.

Lambacher said the district has been trying to work out arrangements to acquire the land for park use since its formation in 1968. But he said owner George Wheelwright, who offered to dedicate the land to the district about three years ago has apparently changed his mind.

"It now looks like the land will never be donated, so we have decided not to pursue the matter further," Lambacher said.

Editor Of San Diego State Paper Booted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The editor of the San Diego State College newspaper, The Daily Aztec, was fired by the Associated Student Council Wednesday night.

The council claimed editor James Greene was insensitive and incompetent. Greene said the action was taken because of racist attitudes and because the council wanted to impose government controls on the press.

The new editor is Bruce Haynes, a first semester staff member. He and Greene will be paid $12 an issue each.

Greene, who had served four semesters on the Aztec, said charges of racism against him were false and pointed out a check of back editions showed nearly half the front page inches had been devoted to minority or radical-political cause coverage.

The council also recommended that a minority member be named to the daily aztec editorial staff.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Amtrak, which has asked Congress for $170 million to continue running the nation's passenger trains, pays its president $125,000 a year — twice what a cabinet member makes, according to Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif.

Tuna Boat Talks Held In Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Charles A. Meyer has ended a weeklong visit to Ecuador during which he sought a solution to fishing problems between the two nations.

Ecuador has seized 50 American tuna boats and fined them $2 million so far this year on grounds they violated the country's claimed 200-mile territorial waters limit. In retaliation, Washington has suspended military aid to Ecuador and the House has voted to end all aid.

The United States recognizes only a 12-mile fishing limit.

Meyer planned to head back to Washington today. Prior to his departure, however, a joint U. S.-Ecuadorean statement was expected on the outcome of Meyer's talks with government officials.

While in Quito, Meyer has held talks with President Jose M. Velasco Ibarra and Foreign Minister Rafael Garcia Velasco.

Government sources said the legality of Ecuador's territorial waters claim was not discussed but simply an interim solution to the fishing dispute, possibly U. S. purchase of fishing licenses "under protest."

12 Given Reprieve On Welfare Payments

Twelve welfare recipients gained a one-week reprieve from review of their eligibility for welfare payments when Marin County supervisors decided this week to leave them on the welfare roster at least that long with no questions asked.

Supervisors normally check general relief extension cases each week to determine if the recipients are still eligible and usually about half are rejected. But on Tuesday, for the fourth time this year, the supervisors, so that they could speed up their meeting and leave to attend other functions, agreed to give blanket approval to the welfare roster and take up the eligibility of the 12 cases next week.

The cost to the county, meanwhile, was estimated by some to run into the hundreds of dollars though the exact figure was not available yesterday. The cost can be calculated, the Independent-Journal was told by the department of social services, but department officials with that responsibility were either "out of the office" or "tied up" in meetings.

The other occasions this year when the supervisors granted extension without weighing eligiblity were: Jan. 19 for four persons, Feb. 23 for 15 persons and Oct. 26 for nine persons.

Forgery Case Guilt Admitted

Paul Sam Miletich, 43, of Santa Rosa, has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of signing another person's name to a credit card slip with intent to defraud.

When Miletich pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor count on Tuesday, two other felony counts were dismissed on the recommendation of the district attorney.

Judge David Menary set Jan. 14 as the date for sentencing.

Miletich was arrested on Nov. 22 by San Rafael police and accused of using someone else's credit card to make purchases from Graham Lumber Co. in San Rafael on Oct. 25 and on Nov. 22.

That TV Tower Atop Mount Sutro

We in Marin have allowed some things to be done to our skyline of which we can't be exactly proud.

Some hilltop buildings several stories high, permitted in both city and county jurisdictions, may be fine buildings in themselves but don't improve the over-all vista.

Then there was the small forest of unsightly poles atop San Rafael Hill for television and radio transmitters, which fortunately — thanks both to city insistence and private initiative — were replaced a few years ago by one large but less obnoxious tower.

And the Air Force lights on top of Mount Tamalpais have long brought complaints from citizens.

BUT NOTHING MARIN has permitted can compare with what is being done to the view across the Golden Gate by construction of a 980-foot television tower atop Mount Sutro.

There already is a 600-foot TV tower on Mount Sutro. It is of small diameter, however, sticking up like a needle. It is possible to ignore it.

It will be next to impossible to ignore the new tower. In fact, it's next to impossible already, although it is less than halfway up. It's big — any way you look at it. And it doesn't appear to have been designed as a work of art.

Marinites who drive across the Golden Gate Bridge, or even up and down the highway in Southern Marin, can scarcely have failed to notice it.

SAN FRANCISCANS CAN scarcely have failed to notice it, either — but you wouldn't think they had from reading the San Francisco newspapers or watching the San Francisco television stations.

San Francisco's two newspapers and four TV stations devote quite a few column inches and quite a lot of air time to reports about the environment. They have been known to campaign against "environmental pollution" as far away as Humboldt County and the Sierra Nevada.

But there's been hardly anything about the Mount Sutro tower in the San Francisco newspapers. And even less on the TV stations.

An outfit called the Environmental Law Society at University of San Francisco is trying to stop the tower by court action, claiming its building permit is illegal. But you won't find much about that in the San Francisco newspapers or on the TV stations either.

WE GENERALLY FIGURE that what San Franciscans allow to be done to their city is their business and they're stuck with it.

However, in this case, we're stuck with it too. That tower is going to spoil our landscape. We can't escape it.

We suggest to the San Francisco press and television media that saving the environment, like charity, should begin at home.

Changed Meanings

Have you thought about how our increased knowledge of pollution has subtly changed the meanings of certain words in just a decade? Words like detergent, phosphates, freeway, gasoline engine, electric generator, haze, smoke, mercury, swordfish, horsepower, industry have a slightly unpleasant connotation today which they did not have before. Even the sacred cow of motherhood has come under a shadow recently.

We wonder what meanings will be altered this next decade.

Pakistan's Blundering March Into Disaster

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The division of the Indian subcontinent into India and Pakistan has been described as history's most expensive social experiment. Today it seems well on the way to becoming one of modern society's greatest failures.

The story of India and Pakistan always has been one of superlatives, the greatest, the most, the worst.

A brochure put out by the United States once described Pakistan as "one of the major success stories" in the history of the U.S. aid program.

WHEN FORMER President Mohammad Ayub Khan resigned under pressure on March 25, 1969, with the words, "I cannot preside over the destruction of my country," he did not realize that it already was too late, that Pakistan already was on the way to a dissolution that now seems inevitable.

Under his successor, President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, each step has seemed only to make the end result more certain.

In elections a year ago, the Awami League led by Sheik Mujibar Rahman of East Pakistan won a majority in the national assembly. He accused the Pakistan central government headquartered in the west of exploiting the east as if it were a colony and demanded autonomy within a federal framework.

INSTEAD OF SEEKING a political settlement, Yahya Khan arrested him on a charge of treason, held him incommunicado, and in East Pakistan sought a military victory.

Out of this came the demand from East Pakistani rebels for complete independence and escalation of the struggle to the third war between India and Pakistan since their independence.

Yahya Khan, it seems, gambled and lost on his belief that either the big powers or the United Nations would prevent or halt quickly any outbreak of open hostilities with India and thus permit him to continue his efforts to settle the East Pakistan rebellion as an internal matter.

HIS MOST RECENT move is to declare an end to his one-man rule and establishment of a coalition government.

To head this government he has called upon an East Pakistani named Nurul Amin without any real political base, and Zulfiker Ali Bhutto, a 43-year-old, ambitious West Pakistani leftwing politician who once served as Pakistani foreign minister.

It was only a matter of weeks ago that Bhutto himself threatened to depose Yahya Khan either by coup or civil war.

Bhutto was held to bear a major responsibility for the violence that swept West Pakistan just prior to Ayub Khan's departure in 1969.

IGNORED BY ALL is the hapless plight on estimated 20 million displaced persons in East Pakistan and another estimated 10 million who fled to India as refugees.

As the tide of war sweeps over East Pakistan's sea and airports, the $100 million effort of the United Nations Relief agency has come to a virtual standstill.

Commission Substitutes Whim For Legal Rules

As a resident of Larkspur, I am responding to a recent letter concerning the rejection by the Larkspur Planning Commission of the submission by the Larwin Co.

I consider the action by the planning commission to be illegal —and clearly undemocratic.

The Larwin Co. changed its original plan to meet all objections of both the planning staff and the Architectural Review Board, and adapt the suggestions of the city's planning consultant. The submission, as finally presented, fulfilled all legal and design requirements. It was rejected solely because of the personal views of the majority of the commission.

If such action is permitted to stand, Larkspur will be changed from a community operated under law to a town run by the whim of our officials.

I urge our councilmen to uphold the law as it now stands and vote to reverse the undemocratic action of the planning commission.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

(On Nov. 10, the Independent-Journal reprinted an editorial from the Oroville Mercury-Register entitled "Trouble Seems To Follow Virginia Franklin Around."

(Mrs. Virginia Franklin, a social studies teacher at San Rafael High School, subsequently wired Dan K. Beebe, Mercury-Register editor, demanding retraction of what she claimed were two mis-statements of fact in the editorial. The Mercury-Register on Dec. 1 ran an editorial entitled, "Correcting a Previous Editorial." Mrs. Franklin after that wrote the Independent-Journal: "I do not wish any more than an acknowledgement that the Oroville Mercury retracted the two statements I questioned in my telegram to them."

(The Dec. 1 Oroville editorial follows:)

VIRGINIA FRANKLIN, who as a high school teacher in Paradise gained national notoriety several years ago due to an incident in her class involving a boy and a tape recorder, has told us that our editorial of Nov. 3 was incorrect and damaging to her . . .

Mrs. Franklin questioned two sentences in our editorial: 1. "She was turned down by 62 boards of education," and 2. "She called the Time magazine man in and dramatically exposed the boy in front of everyone."

The incident involving Mrs. Franklin occurred about nine years ago . . . (The editor) has located one of the two copies of the court reporter's official transcript of a trial in Butte County Superior Court in which Mrs. Franklin's testimony regarding the tape recorder incident is given in full. Studying this we find that it was a Life man, not a Time magazine man that was in her class room at the time, so we gladly make that correction. We find also that Mrs. Franklin was not the one who was responsible for his presence there. The Life editor and his photographer had come to Paradise to prepare a feature concerning trouble in the community revolving around Mrs. Franklin and her class . . .

THE FOLLOWING is from the court reporter's transcript. Mrs. Franklin was being questioned by her attorney. (The setting has Mrs. Franklin seated in her classroom behind Ty Blount, the boy involved — a seat that happened to be vacant. The Life men are there. The students are staging a "mock congress." . . . There is a rap on the "window" and Mr. Russell, the principal, beckons to Mrs. Franklin):

"I went outside to see Mr. Russell and he said, 'I think Ty Blount has a tape recorder with him.' Now I had talked to Mr. Russell about the tape recorder . . . so Mr. Russell said to me, 'Here is a pass for Ty Blount. Send him to the office now. Don't let him leave his books in the locker. I am going to ask to see his book.' . . .

"I gave Ty the pass and he didn't budge . . . I was quite concerned about this . . . I sat down and looked for the first time . . . at the tape recorder book . . . I just wanted to reach out and grab it very badly . . . I had the ambition to grab the book myself, but I thought I'd better not, and the bell rang.

"In the meantime I forgot all about Life magazine being in the room. I was absolutely glued to that textbook . . . and it was frightening . . . and the bell rang . . . He was reaching to pick this up, and I suppose it was psychological for me to reach across and open it and Life magazine was on the spot and photographed it . . . I didn't plan it. I didn't talk about it. I didn't know what I was doing . . ."

Whether this was dramatic, the reader may judge.

AS FOR NO.1, turn to page 419. Mrs. Franklin had resigned her Paradise job where she had tenure and been promised a position in Berkeley High a year hence, but when the time had elapsed and she went to Berkeley to inquire they did not hire her. Her lawyer then asked her whether she had submitted applications to other schools. Her answer:

"Approximately 65 schools on the high school level and approximately nine in the junior college."

Q. Out of all the applications you have submitted, how many interviews did you receive?

A. At the most, five.

Q. As a result of the five interviews, were you employed?

A. No. Yes, pardon me, part-time. (Merritt Junior College, Oakland — night school.) . . . I have one class I am teaching two nights a week for $8 an hour . . .

The reporters for the newspapers compressed all this into two words: "turned down." That was the inference. The lawyer for the plaintiff was content with this inference for he was asking damages of $300,000. He had said in his opening statement that he would prove his client, as a result of her experience in Paradise, had not been able to obtain employment. In those days competent teachers had teaching positions. However, the record does not show that Mrs. Franklin was "turned down" so we retract that statement . . .

Her account of what happened cannot be challenged. It was accepted by the superior court judge. There was no jury. The case was not appealed.

Budget Fantasy Based On 'Full Employment'

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon again is preparing a federal budget with a "full employment" balance. That is another way of saying the government will spend a lot more money than it collects.

The full employment budget concept, developed as a theoretical exercise by economists in the late 1940s, enables the President to talk about balancing the budget at the same time he tries to spur the still sluggish economy with deficit spending.

"THE ADMINISTRATION is again this year committed to a full employment balance," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said recently.

That statement fits in neatly with Republican party orthodoxy that the government should live within its means.

Contrast the rhetoric with the balance sheet: In the fiscal year that ended last June 30, the government spent $23.2 billion more than it took in. For the current fiscal year, the deficit is officially estimated at about $28 billion. Unless the economy picks up dramatically, the budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 will show a projected deficit that probably will top $10 billion.

A $28 BILLION DEFICIT this fiscal year would be the largest since World War II. For last year, this year and next year together, the deficit would be the largest for any three-year period except for 1943-45.

Some economists believe the full employment budget is a more useful tool than the dollars and cents figures in analyzing the effect of federal spending on the economy.

In theory, it works like this:

Assume the present tax system would produce about $250 million in revenue during the forthcoming fiscal year if the economy were operating at full blast and unemployment was no more than 4 per cent. Assume also that the economy did not heat up to capacity and actual revenues totaled about $235 billion.

Under the full employment budget concept, the government could spend up to $250 billion without living much beyond its means. Spending of that magnitude would cause an actual deficit of $15 billion, but the theory is that when the economy is plagued with unemployment, some deficit spending is a useful tonic. When the economy is operating at full blast the budget should be balanced.

ONLY ONCE SINCE 1960 has government revenue exceeded spending. That was in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1969, a year divided equally between the Johnson and Nixon administrations.

The economy was at full employment at the time so the $3.2 billion actual surplus was also a full employment surplus.

Since then, unemployment has increased and the budget has plunged into the red. But the full employment concept has permitted the administration to continue talking about balanced budgets.

After the last fiscal year ended with a $23.2 billion deficit, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and Management and Budget Director George P. Shultz said:

"For the third year in a row, a full employment balance or surplus has been achieved in the fiscal year 1971 after three successive years of full employment deficits totaling more than $40 billion."

This fiscal year, even the full employment balance has gone by the boards. Shultz told Congress in September that a full employment deficit of about $8 billion was expected. That is far below the actual deficit of $28 billion that is now projected.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Legislators Hire Help On How To Legislate

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Apparently the heat from home is beginning to burn the leadership in the State Legislature — and that is the one fire the vote-conscious politicians want to put out pronto.

As the legislature dragged on through its 11th month in session without even complying with the constitutional obligation to reapportion its own and the state's congressional districts, the complaints from home grew in stridence and volume.

So on Nov. 24 (before they started feuding), Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Los Angeles, and Senate President Pro Tem James Mills, D-San Diego, announced plans for a study of the legislature aimed at finding ways "to make the best possible use of the time and talents of the 120 men and women in the Assembly and Senate who have been sent here by the voters of their districts."

THIS STUDY is going to cost the taxpayers some $150,000. The Joint Rules Committee has authorized the expenditure and two outside consultants have been retained, in spite of the fact the legislature already has a full stable of professional consultants, drawing from $1,000 to more than $2,000 a month.

In a joint statement, Moretti and Mills said: "In 1966 the voters of California passed Proposition 1A, telling the legislature to work full time, and without the constraints of time limits on the sessions.

"This is the fifth year under those changes and the Joint Rules Committee has decided this is an appropriate time to examine our operations. We may find that some of the old ways worked better."

That Rules Committee decision to contract for an outside study was not unanimous. Assemblyman Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach, for example, said the study isn't necessary. "What's needed is a leader who isn't afraid of making decisions," said Burke.

RECENTLY THREE other members offered ideas on making the legislature "more efficient" and their conclusions won't cost the taxpayers a dime.

Sen. Lou Cusanovich, R-Los Angeles, who has served in the legislature since 1958, said no session should run over 200 calendar days. He complained of the late hour of 3:30 p.m. for convening the Senate. By the time there's a quorum, some members want to go home. He would like to see a 9 a.m. starting time in the upper house.

Assemblyman Craig Biddle (R-Riverside) suggested the legislators' tax-free living expense allowance of $30 per day be cut off after July 30. That should speed things up.

And Assemblyman Bill Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, proposed to limit the sessions to seven months by constitutional amendment. He already has announced plans to introduce legislation to this effect in 1972.

BY THE END of November, this legislature had spent more than $20 million for its operation. The cost for each day in session is approximately $11,000.

Moretti and Mills said: "More than 5,200 pieces of legislation were introduced this year, and there is no reason to expect that workload to decrease significantly in the future. Consequently we must search for ways to improve our operations before we become hopelessly bogged down by the volume of work."

In 1957 the legislature handled some 7,426 measures and adjourned on June 12. Ten years ago, 5,148 bills were considered during a 120-day session, which ended on June 16.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By LARRY MOWELL

Redwood's Women's Libbers More Serious Than Male Chauvinists

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction may be a valid scientific observation, but it sometimes gets a little bent out of shape when applied to human relations.

Redwood High School's resident women's liberationists, Women on the Move, has been sponsoring speeches and otherwise deporting itself as a group seriously interested in improving the lot of women.

It got an opposite reaction, but there was nothing equal about it. A group calling itself the Student Male Organization of Chauvinists (SMOOCH) announced its formation in the school's bulletin. The organization billed itself as a champion against the encroaching forces of women's liberation.

The girls are serious; the boys not so serious, according to associate principal Jack R. Baat. "They really did it as a joke to irritate the women," he chortled.

He reported that having suitably irritated the foe, the boys seem to be laying down the standard. No more skirmishes are planned, he said.

OVER IN KENTFIELD School District, the staff recently completed an evaluation of a team teaching program for combined seventh and eighth graders at Adeline E. Kent School. It has all the bromides of educational reports including statements about nurturing curiosity and interest. But it also contains a delightful section of quotations from children about the first two months in the program this school year.

"You are tricking me into liking school," charged one pupil. Another offered a rather low opinion of last year's program. "Last year if I had a choice between picking up the litter on the Miracle Mile or coming to school, I would have chosen to pick up trash; this year, I think I would have to say I would have to come to school."

Some are apple polishers. "I think this program is the best I have ever had. I think you teachers are very good teachers and I like you all very much. That's all I really can say right now. If I come up with any suggestions, I will be sure to let you know."

A few want changes. "So far this school is pretty good — but the thing I don't like is two periods of P.E. And I don't like math at all. Another thing I don't like is after lunch having all four of the hardest subjects."

A LOT ARE SENSITIVE to special treatment. "It's unfair to the eighth graders that we (7-8 combo) get all this stuff, like field trips and so many electives." "I was talking to one of my friends in the 7-8 and she said that she did not like it because it was so relaxed and she said it needed more discipline when she herself turns around and treats teachers bad and talks back."

"The relationship between the seventh and eighth is better. Last year the eighth graders acted like the seventh graders weren't good enough for them. This year I think we're treating them more like people and not like low-class, stupid, idiotic, immature things that come here 'cause they passed the sixth grade," concluded one eighth grader.

Sierra Club Wants Five-Year Delay On Alaska Oil Pipeline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Sierra Club urged a five-year moratorium yesterday on any construction for the transAlaska oil pipeline because of the "potential for major disasters."

The conservation organization issued its own analysis of an Interior Department task force's report on the proposed 700-mile pipeline which would carry oil from the Alaskan North Slope to the port of Valdez, where tankers would be loaded.

"The task force's doubts about the pipeline make it absolutely clear that after three years of study, the Alyeska Co. still does not know how to safely carry out the project," said club executive director Michael McCloskey.

"Basic questions about the danger of ruptures, the extent of erosion around the pipeline, and leakage and spills have not been answered," he told a news conference.

"The lack of answers confronts us with the potential for major disasters. It is clear that the time has come to defer this project until we know how to protect Alaska's environment."

The club's analysis, prepared by Dr. Eugene Coan, an assistant to McCloskey, was based on a review by a 60-member committee appointed by the Interior Department of the Alyeska consortium's 29-volume report on the project. The scientists' 47-page evaluation was leaked to the club, which said the department is expected to release its environmental impact statement by about Jan. 15.

Coan said the inadequacies highlighted in the task force report include lack of study of earthquake fault zones; the need for better monitoring and detection of oil leaks; uncertainty of the effect on Alaska's permafrost; problems of river crossings; and insufficient understanding of the dangers of glacial lake flooding and of avalanches.

He urged a five-year moratorium on any construction while adequate alternatives are found. Coan also said further investigation should be made of a Canadian route which would avoid many of the environmental hazards of the Alaskan pipeline.

"A five-year moratorium appears to make more sense than either pipeline route," Coan's report concluded. "The technical problems of North Slope oil development are severe.

"The nation's last great wilderness is at stake, and it can never be replaced. There is no national security need for the oil during the next five years.

"The most logical and sensible action would be take this five-year moratorium to review alternative energy sources, re-examine our oil export-import laws, improve our technology and only then make our decision."

There'll Be No Extra Charge For Stopover In Washington

WASHINGTON — "Can I help you, sir?"

"Yes, I'd like to buy a round-trip ticket to the Azores."

"How long were you planning to stay?"

"Two days. I have to meet with a Frenchman named Georges Pompidou."

"We can arrange that. Your last name, please?"

"Nixon."

"First initial?"

"R like in Richard."

"Very good."

"NOW FROM THE AZORES I have to go to Bermuda to see Edward Heath of London."

"Why don't you fly directly to London, sir?"

"No, it has to be in Bermuda, and by Dec. 20."

"All right, sir. We can fly you to Lisbon and then you change planes and we'll have you in Bermuda on the 20th. Will that be all?"

"No, from there I have to go to Key Biscayne to meet with Willy Brandt. I should be there on the 28th of December."

"That shouldn't be any trouble. We have two flights a day from Bermuda to Miami. Will you be staying in Key Biscayne?"

"Of course not. From Key Biscayne I have to get to San Clemente, Calif., to meet with Eisaku Sato of Japan on Jan. 6."

"LET ME LOOK at my schedules here. You're in luck. There's a flight from Miami to San Clemente on the night of the 5th. It should get you there in time for your meeting."

"That's fine. Now one more thing. Can you get me from San Clemente to Peking by Feb. 21?"

"What state is that in, sir?"

"It's not a state. I want to go to Peking, China."

"Oh, I see. Hmmmnnn. There doesn't seem to be any plane leaving from San Clemente to Peking, China. Let me look in the new schedules. Pekin, Ill., Pekin, Ind., Pekin, N.Y., Pekin, N.D. — dear, me, no Peking, China. I'll check if there is anything leaving from Los Angeles. Ah, yes, here it is. You fly to Hong Kong and take a bus to Canton, which connects with a plane for Peking."

"HOW MUCH IS IT family plan?"

"How many of you are going?"

"My wife Pat and Henry Kissinger."

"Is Henry related to you, sir?"

"No, but he's like a son to me."

"We're sorry, he'll have to pay full fare. It will be $4,000 round trip, plus tax."

"Can I fly now and pay later?"

"Don't I get a discount for going in the winter?"

"No, but you're allowed a free stopover in North Korea on the way back."

"I DON'T WANT a free stop in North Korea. I have to go to Moscow after I go to Peking."

"Well, why didn't you say so? You can fly back to the United States via Moscow and save $33."

"I don't have to go to Moscow until May."

"My goodness, you have a bit of time in there between Peking and Moscow. Where would you like to spend it?"

"IT REALLY DOESN'T matter. Do you have any suggestions?"

"Let me look at my travel brochures a moment. Would you be interested in visiting Washington, D.C.?"

"What for?"

"It's the nation's capital. There are many things of interest there. There's the Lincoln Memorial, the National Gallery, and they have a new tourist attraction called the Kennedy Center."

"I'd better check it out with my wife."

"Why don't we put you down for Washington between Peking and Moscow? If you change your mind, we can always write you out a new ticket."

Two Nabbed In Building By Police

Two Santa Rosa men were arrested in Petaluma yesterday on suspicion of burglary.

Booked into city jail were Ronald Edward Chappelle, 27, and a man tentatively identified as Dale Ross Ferguson, 24, a parolee. Officers said he refused to identify himself.

Sgt. Joseph Finnerty said officers found a door open at the Downey Tire Co., 246 Petaluma Boulevard North, shortly before 2 a.m. The two men were reportedly found hiding inside the building. Officers said bolt cutters had been used to remove a lock from the rear door.

While officers were inside investigating the burglary, a patrol car parked on the street was struck and nearly demolished by the car of a curious passerby. Police said the driver, Everett Satori, 59 Rocca Drive, Petaluma, also struck another parked car. He was not injured.

Belvedere Council Asks New Park

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission has recommended creation of the city's second park between the new Tiburon bicycle path and Lagoon Road.

Commission Chairman George L. McCoy said the 50 by 160-foot area adjacent to the Belvedere city limits could be planted with grass, although future appropriations would be required to finish the park.

Community park, the city's only recreation area, is located adjacent to the city hall and fire station on San Rafael Avenue.

The park recommendation still must be approved by the city council.

The commission, meeting Tuesday, also urged Belvedere residents to buy live Christmas trees and donate them to the city after the holidays. The trees could be dropped off at the Belvedere corporation yard, McCoy said.

RIDING HIGH

It's no bumpy sleigh for this Santa as he alights from a helicopter to greet children of the Dominican College garden school in San Rafael. Santa (actually Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher, who has a child at the kindergarten and prekindergarten school) swooped down on the children in front of the college library the other day with greetings of the holiday season. Pilot of the helicopter was Lou Hurley, parent of another child at the school.

Ridge Link Proposed For Varied Traffic

An ambiguously worded sentence in yesterday's Independent-Journal story on the San Rafael Planning Commission seemed to say the Marin Countywide Plan would limit traffic on a proposed road from Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda to buses and emergency vehicles.

In fact, the preliminary plan calls for a general purpose road, but some groups have favored limiting the road to bus and emergency use.

Army Man's 30-Year Tour Ends

At recent retirement ceremonies at Fort Baker, Terry was presented with the Army's Meritorious Service Medal by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Fye, commanding general of the Sixth Region, U.S. Army-Air Defense Command.

Terry, who entered the Army in June 1941, served in infantry, engineer, signal and air defense units in Europe and the U.S. During World War II, he served in Ireland, England, Sicily and Italy.

He and his wife, Katherine, have lived in Petaluma since 1969 when he came to Fort Baker following an assignment in Europe. The couple, who reside at 436 Domer Avenue, plan to remain in Petaluma, along with their son, John, a student at Santa Rosa Junior College, and daughter, Laura Anne, a junior at Petaluma High School. Mrs. Terry has been a member of the Petaluma Newcomers Club's publicity committee for the past two years.

Park Wilderness Ban Is Now Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed a bill designed to bar high-rise buildings from state parks and establishing a state park "wilderness" concept in California for the first time.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, also provides for the first time "state vehicular recreation areas" for off-the-road vehicles such as dune buggies.

Written into law under th measure are requirements that ecological problems be considered in the development of areas within the state park system.

Sausalito Due Visit From Santa

The visit arranged by the Sausalito Youth Center after extended negotiations with the "Arctic Circle Chamber of Commerce," will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a tour through town.

He will arrive at Vina Del Mar Plaza about 10 a.m. and remain until 3 p.m., or until he runs out of candy canes, toys and apples.

To Hear Report

The Larkspur School District board will hear an interim report on proposed district goals and objectives and discuss topics for a teachers' conference at 8 p.m. today at the school district office.

Budget Cut Expected To Hold Tax Rate

A headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal erroneously said a tax rate hike is expected in the Tamalpais High School District next year.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said a proposed budget of $10,050,396 will probably be trimmed to keep the tax rate at this year's level, $1.88 per $100 assessed valuation.

VOLUNTEERS AT MARIN HOSPITAL

Four Men Amid A Bunch Of Women

If hospital volunteer work provides satisfaction and a closeup view of medicine for women and girls interested in health careers, why, one wondered, could it not have the same appeal for men and boys?

Four Marin men wondered, too, and are now working as regular volunteers at Marin General Hospital. They may have sounded the death knell for the term, "Pink Ladies."

Paul and Bob are full-fledged In-Service Volunteers, serving patients, assisting the hospital staff and making lab and pharmacy deliveries.

RICK AND MAURICE also are members of the Book Cart Branch and deliver books to patients, Maurice on Saturday afternoons and Rick on Sundays. While the older volunteer serves alone, Rick is part of a two-volunteer team — the other half is a Junior Pink Lady.

Paul, 18, son of Mrs. Mona Dubman of Kentfield, wants to become a surgeon, and his courses at the College of Marin are aimed at this goal. He enjoys his association with health care at Marin General.

Bob, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Disher of Terra Linda, hopes to continue his education and finally work with mentally retarded children.

Both began their association with the hospital as part of the Play Therapy program in the Pediatrics Department, and both started last June.

The play therapists help the nurses in pediatrics by entertaining the young patients, and by helping with the therapy the children need to aid their recovery.

Paul and Bob, when things are slow in pediatrics, assist in the volunteer office, selling newspapers to patients and visitors, delivering packages, answering phones — doing any of the services provided by volunteers.

On his own, each asked Mary Miller, coordinator of volunteer services, if he could go through the training offered the female volunteers, with the goal of becoming part of the program.

Mrs. Miller agreed, but decided it would be easier for them to undergo their training in the same group.

Now they have completed the training and both now serve full four-hour shifts.

RICK, THE son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pilara, is looking ahead to a career as a biologist, and just decided on his own to stop in the volunteer office at Marin General Hospital and ask Mrs. Miller if there was something he could do.

Maurice Seaman also "just turned up" at Marin General, looking for ways he could serve. A soft-spoken senior citizen, he has traveled widely, and brings patients and interest to his stint with the book cart.

Mrs. Miller is unable to keep the pride out of her voice when she talks about the foursome. "They are a great bunch," she says, "and we thoroughly appreciate having them."

Marin's 1971 Christmas Seal Family

"Carolyn is our spark plug," says her father, Leonard Kristensen of Fairfax, whose family has been named Marin County Christmas Seal Family for the 1971 campaign.

Carolyn, 19, and the eldest child in the family, is a nursing student at the University of San Francisco, and through what she calls "influencing without argument," she feels she has helped set her family on the route to better health.

The Kristensens are increasingly concerned with air pollution and the environment.

A superintendent at a sheet metal company in San Francisco, Mr. Kristensen finds that his fellow workers are cutting down on smoking and they are beginning to think seriously about following his lead in bicycling, both for better health and to cut down on air pollution from automobile use.

Mrs. Kristensen, the only smoker in the family, has set herself a two-cigarettes-a-day allowance. Busy this month with her volunteer work as chairman of the Festival of Trees, she feels she may soon abandon even the two.

ALSO ATTENDING USF is Carolyn's 18-year-old sister Charlene, who hopes to become a doctor, Leonard Jr. is a student at Marin Catholic High School, Cheryl, 13, attends White Hills School, and Collette, 9, is a student at Manor School.

All are aware of preserving the environment. Their big interest in environment and ecology began when the high schools set up survival centers last summer. "Don't throw out cans and bottles," Carolyn told her family. "I'll take them to the center."

She also decided to revive an old bicycle belonging to her sister to ride to classes she was attending at the College of Marin. She later became the owner of a 10-speed bicycle of her own.

When Carolyn left for college in San Francisco, she found it was more difficult to get around on a bike in the crowded city than in Marin. Her father offered her a car to commute, but she refused, and when at home in Marin on weekends and holidays, she still depends on her bike for trips up and down the Fairfax hills.

WHEN THE two older girls went off to College, the recycling continued, with Cheryl and Collette taking over the tieing of paper bundles, squashing of tin cans and removing of labels from bottles.

The Kristensens feel that by working toward something, life can be improved for all, and hope their example will help clean up the environment and aid good respiratory health.

As the campaign family, they hope to aid the annual Christmas Seal campaign to fight emphysema, tuberculosis and pollution relating to respiratory health, by proving that all ages can help.

Be Careful With The Tree

There are sprays on the market for fireproofing a Christmas tree. Nevertheless, don't let that lead you into a false sense of security.

Hang as few electric lights as possible since overloading the tree with them creates too much heat. Be sure to examine the cords and discard those that are frayed.

If you keep your tree outdoors, make sure the lights are designed for outdoor use. Rain can cuase short-circuits in strings of lights not specifically made for outdoor use.

FTC Ruling Irks Apparel Makers

The Federal Trade Commission's ruling that permanent labels have to be attached to apparel has given manufacturers a kick in the pocketbook, they claim.

The FTC ruled that after July 3, 1972, all apparel and hosiery must bear permanent labels with washing and cleaning instructions. Manufacturers say that will cost them more money and headaches, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Some knew it was coming and prepared, but others are feeling bitter, the apparel trade newspaper said.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Bride's Question: Should She Send Gift-Givers Yule Cards?

DEAR RAP:

We had one of those super big weddings last June. I sent personal thank-you notes to about 300 people. We truly appreciated all those lovely gifts, but here's my question:

I read in some etiquette book that the bride and groom should send Christmas cards the first year of marriage to everyone who gave them wedding presents. It seemed very thoughtful and nice, and I tried — but I struck out with morning sickness. Writing makes me nauseous — even more than usual.

Is it really necessary to remember (with holiday cards) so many people who are more our parents' friends than ours? We're awfully grateful and we don't want to slight them, but — HOW CAN I?

DEAR HCI:

I know a couple who followed this etiquette edict about Christmas wishes to wedding gifters, and not only ended up with writers' cramp, but the following year discovered they were on about 300 card lists. When you start something, it often boomerangs.

So don't start it. — HELEN

DEAR HOW:

Christmas cards are for your own special friends, and try to hold the list down. It grows fast enough without searching in etiquette books for extra ways of increasing it. — SUE

NOTE FROM BOTH OF US:

We think Christmas cards are vastly overdone. Why send greetings to someone you see almost every day and to whom you can wish a "Merry Christmas" in person? Why "remember" near-strangers, just because you somehow got on their lists?

A card, we believe, should mean, "I'm thinking of you and I care." So it needs a personal note (very short if you wish) or at least your written signature, not just a printed name with nothing added to show it's from a friend.

Anyone for agreement? — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

Here's a suggestion for the person whose friends have everything. Give them Christmas presents of volunteer work. Find out what the friend's favorite charity is, and then offer to work free for that charity for X number of hours — as a gift to him or her. Get up some sort of certificate that shows your promise in writing.

If you can't spare the time, you can always donate to Care or UNICEF or other worthy causes in your friend's name.

It's got to be such a hassle, trying to find the right gift. Of course, this wouldn't work for everyone, but it would help solve a lot of Christmas shopping blues — because you'd know you were doing something that really helps. — W.S.B.

DEAR GENERATION RAP:

This is an answer to "Joey," whose sister is blackmailing him with pictures of him he doesn't want his parents or friends to see.

My sister had three pictures of me: 1. With a girl kissing me; 2. In the bath tub (1 and 2 are separate pictures by the way); and 3. of me smoking.

Well, I borrowed a friend's camera and waited patiently until I got the same kind of pictures of her. Then I showed them to her and said I'd make a trade.

We both tore up the pictures and burned the negatives. There's always a way, if you think about it long and hard enough. — EVAN

The Wives Club has been conducting a membership drive. The club members have a number of activities during the year including luncheons, tours, fashion shows and family get-togethers. They meet every Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Punjab room at the NCO Club.

They also participate at USO luncheons at four other Air Force Bases and give birthday and Christmas parties for patients in McDougal Cottage at Sonoma State Hospital.

COMMODORE'S COCKTAIL party will be held at Tiburon's Paradise Harbor Yacht Club on Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. for members. Social chairman Mrs. Dick Morse made the decorations. Mmes. Ron Hill, Burt Richardson and Rudolf Rudiger arranged for the hors d'oeuvres.

THE MILL Valley Cooperative Nursery School will stage its second annual fund-raising puppet show and Christmas party Monday and Tuesday at the Mill Valley Golf Clubhouse.

Shows will be presented each day at 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

A new script written by the children's mothers this year deals with favorite puppet characters and their efforts to convince a friend that Santa Claus is real and that Christmas is a special time of the year. The finale includes songs and audience participation.

Mrs. John Begley is show and party chairman. Puppeteers will be Mmes. Gene Gaffney, Ellie Fairchild, Floyd Heckman, Lee Lynch, Tony Marelich, Hayden McAfee, Stephen Roberts and George Stucky.

After the shows, handcrafted gift items, including hand puppets created by the mothers, will be sold. Cookies will be distributed and Santa Claus will visit with Children. A photographer will be on hand to take "Santa and me" photographs.

GARY MOWELL of the Novato Parks and Recreation Department is planning several programs for youngsters during the holiday season.

The girls gym at Novato High School will have a teen drop-in from 1 to 4 p.m., Dec. 20 through Dec. 31 for basketball, ping pong, table games, music and skill events.

A holiday basketball tournament for seventh and eighth-grade boys will be held, beginning Monday. Boys may register at San Jose, Hill and Sinaloa Junior High Schools in Novato and Our Lady of Loretto Church.

All elementary schools with the exception of Loma Verde will be open from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., beginning Dec. 20. A variety of games, Christmas crafts and other activities based on the Christmas theme will be held for 6 through 12-year-old boys and girls.

A CHRISTMAS party and meeting will be held by officers and members of San Rafael Assembly 195, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, at 7:30 p.m. tonight. The gathering will be held at Masonic Hall in San Rafael. Gail Campbell's birthday also will be celebrated.

The girls will bring food and gifts to the meeting for their Christmas family.

MRS. R.E. BOESEL JR.
MS auxiliary president

Belvedere Woman New President

President of the San Francisco Multiple Sclerosis Auxiliary is Mrs. Richard E. Boesel Jr. of Belvedere.

The auxiliary's purpose is to provide a program of service, education and research and to share in the ultimate conquest of multiple sclerosis, according to Virginia Boesel.

Members bring home cooked meals to patients at the Lagunda Honda Home in San Francisco once a month and have bimonthly parties for patients in members' homes in both San Francisco and Marin. They also visit patients at homes and raise funds for rehabilitation and recreation programs and for wheelchairs, hospital beds and lifts.

The auxiliary is looking for members who can aid in the projects, says Mrs. Boesel. She has been a member for three years and previously served as vice-president and chairman of Lagunda Honda parties.

Mrs. Boesel is a native of New York City and a graduate of Pembroke College of Brown University. She and her husband, vice-president of CBWL Hayden, Stone, Inc., investment company, have lived in Marin for three years with their children, Doug, 17, Dave, 15, John, 12, and Betsy, 10.

Ecology, tennis and bridge are her interests.

Other officers of the auxiliary are Mmes. James Munro Walker of San Rafael, vice-president; Dean Woodman of Therton, vice-president; Ulf Hamilton of San Francisco, secretary.

Christmastime Safety Tips

Never use candles as christmas window lights. Keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back from electric lights, and remember to turn off all Christmas lights at night and when everyone is out of the house.

On Christmas morning, pick up gift wrappings immediately after presents have been opened and place them outdoors in a trash can. Or if you wish to save them, fold them and put them in a safe place, away from heat and fire. The time to take the tree down is when the needles begin to fall. Discard the tree outside the house — never burn it in the fireplace or incinerator.

Use Care In Picking Wood For Fireplace

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council urges selectivity in the kind of wood used in the fireplace. Soft woods are more likely to throw dangerous sparks and also coat the chimney with tars and resins.

At Christmas time, burning large amounts of holiday wrappings in the fireplace can create roaring flames which could quickly ignite the soot and resins clinging to the chimney and cause a serious fire.

Check Yule Lights For Electrical Bugs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Check sets of electric lights closely before putting them on the Christmas tree, suggests the National Fire Protection Association. Look for worn insulation, broken plugs, loose bulb sockets.

Repair the damaged parts or discard the set and use in its place a new one— provided inspection shows the replacement set in good working order. Use only sets with Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) or Canadian Standards Association (CSA).

The Slimmer Look

Ski sweaters are slimmer, some in short hugger forms to go with racer length parkas, others tunic length and cabled, with belts or lace front closures. All are designed to offer endless mix, match and layer combinations to the skier.

New Procedure

BLAZE DESTROYS NOVATAN'S TRUCK

Flames engulf a new truck belonging to Leroy A. Winters, 36, of 1605 Center Road, Novato, on eastbound Highway 37 east of the Petaluma River Bridge. Winters, operator of a glass and upholstery shop, was delivering a load of plastic upholstery material to Fairfield at 9:30 p.m. yesterday when the blaze began, possibly from a cigarette flicked into the open rear of the truck. Winters and his wife escaped unharmed, but watched their truck burn for 20 minutes before Novato and Sonoma County firemen summoned by passing motorists reached the scene. Damage was listed as "more than $1,500."

Muir Beach Votes Curbs On Water

Directors of the Muir Beach Community Services District voted last night to limit new water connections in the district to domestic use, with a few exceptions, Chairman Bruce E. Harlow reported.

Muir Beach is served by its own well which the district operates, he said, and the board believes the well can produce "just enough water to serve our residential needs." He added the board thinks granting water for commercial use would seriously tax its system.

Commercial operations which have already applied for water will receive it, according to Harlow. For example, he said Charles Felix, who plans to build an English pub at Muir Beach, will be granted a connection.

In addition, the board voted to exclude recreational uses from the new water regulations, believing that enough water is available to serve recreational needs in the area. "If the state beach needs a new drinking fountain or something like that, we will be able to supply the water," Harlow said.

Grant Awarded For Park Land

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal matching grant of $2,091,000 has been awarded to the state of California for acquiring additional land for the Annadel Farms State Park in Sonoma County, north of Santa Rosa, according to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The money, allocated from the Land and Water Conservation fund, will help the state Department of Parks and Recreation buy 4,100 acres of wooded lands.

The state must put up an equal amount to match the federal grant.

Chickens Killed By Epidemic

FONTANA (UPI)—An outbreak of Newcastle disease has killed 10,000 chickens, and farmers planned to destroy an additional 12,000 today in an attempt to halt the epidemic.

The contagious flu-like virus is usually fatal to birds but does not affect humans.

This is the fourth confirmed outbreak of the disease in the Fontana and Lancaster areas in the past eight weeks.

Stanford Fund Pinch Told By President

STANFORD (UPI) —It is a myth to think Stanford is "a rich institution and has no real financial problem," according to the school's president.

Richard Lyman told the Stanford Club of Palo Alto Wednesday, "we would hardly be seeking ways to reduce our budget commitments by $6 million from our budget base by 1974 if we were as rich as we are assumed to be.

Tomales FFA Team Second

A two-member team from the Tomales chapter, Future Farmers of America, has finished a close second in a sectional quiz on agricultural cooperatives in Petaluma.

The team of Mike De Rutte and Marty Albini was topped by a team from Santa Rosa by less than a point, according to Earl Smith, FFA advisor at Tomales High School.

Albini ranked third in individual scoring and the team received a silver plaque in the Tuesday competition, sponsored by the Agricultural Council of California.

Priest Is Acquitted In Auto Death Case

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Rev. John Joseph Dunn, 53, a Roman Catholic priest, was found innocent Wednesday of charges of murder by auto in the deaths of two teen-age girls.

Dunn, 53, admitted he had several drinks the night of the Feb. 16 accident, but said he was not intoxicated. His car struck another car, killing Debra Ann Woods, 17, and Lynda Ann Lambert, 18.

Train Derails, 2 Hurt Slightly

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—Seven cars of a 10-car Amtrak passenger train went off the tracks four miles east of Bonners Ferry early today. Two of the 137 passengers aboard were injured slightly.

The seven derailed cars were on the rear of the train. The passengers were moved to the three standing cars and taken to Spokane after the two injured persons were dropped off at Bonners Ferry for treatment at the community hospital.

The two injured persons were identified as Ann Kreins, 71, Havre, Mont., and Frank Mattix, 62, Markham, Ill.

Cause of the derailment was not known immediately.

HOLIDAY HANGOVER CURES?

Medics Declare Sleep Is Best

WASHINGTON (UPI) —You can't really cure a hangover, you can only outlast it. If you live long enough.

How's that for a sour note as each passing day remorselessly brings closer the Christmas wassailing and New Year's carousing?

Sour or not, it seems to be true.

Bertie Wooster always said his valet, fellow named Jeeves, had the perfect hangover cure. It consisted of this and that and something else.

But P.G. Wodehouse, the great humorist who created Bertie and Jeeves, is, alas, a humorist, not a medical scientist.

And the medical scientists say that neither Jeeves' formula (whatever it was) nor any other that has been scientifically tested will produce an instant cure for a big, bad hangover.

But in case, quite by accident, you do drink too much on Christmas or New Year's, what can you do next day to get a bit of balm and surcease from pain?

Aspirin and a little solid food, if you can take it, may help. Sleeping it off is better, if you can.

But all this is still a matter of surviving, not curing, your hangover.

Steak sauce and tomato juice or beer, white wine, or half-and-half, with beaten up raw egg. (Doesn't work.)

Black coffee, of course. Mugs of it. (If you've tried it you know it doesn't really help.)

Ice bags, cold showers, breathing pure oxygen —if you can get it. (Old wives' tales, according to the National Institutes of Health.)

Raw oysters, chili peppers, vitamins, various drugs. (No scientific proof that they help at all.)

Prussic acid; a pistol shot in the head; decapitation. (Those are extreme "cures," and the medical community does not recommend them.)

Dr. Gertrude Maengwyn-Davies, professor of pharmacology at Georgetown University here, has concluded after much research that the one best way of getting over the miseries of a hangover is to "sleep it off." Some vitamin B1 may help.

So, how about preventing hangovers? A brochure recently issued by the national institutes of health suggests:

Drink sitting down and relaxed. You'll get tight less quickly than if you drink standing up.

"If you choose to drink, the best way to avoid a hangover," according to the NIH, "is to drink responsibly —sipping slowly, with food in the stomach, under relaxed social circumstances, and paying attention to your responses to the alcoholic beverages so (that) intoxication is avoided."

What is seems to boil down to is that the time to prevent a hangover is the night before.

Marinites Accused In Series Of Burglaries

Two Marin residents, suspected of receiving stolen goods taken by the carloads in San Francisco, were booked in Marin County Jail yesterday.

John Ackbarri, 33, of 1104 Ruhlman Lane, Novato, and Ruchell Louis Fisher, 21, of 15 La Brea Way, San Rafael, were picked up at the city prison in San Francisco where they had been questioned in connection with San Francisco burglaries.

They were held in Marin jail in lieu of $10,000 bail each and were to be arraigned today in Marin Municipal Court.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said San Francisco police went to Ackbarri's home last Oct. 14 and found furniture stolen in San Francisco between April and September.

According to Thomas, a railroad car was burglarized at 233 Industrial Street on April 9 and quantities of furniture stolen. Then on June 29, a truck and trailer was burglarized on Mission Street and about $20,000 worth of furniture and equipment stolen. On Sept. 26 a truck loaded with $20,000 worth of property was stolen on Golden Gate Avenue.

Thomas said some of these stolen items were found at Ackbarri's home.

Widening Easement Granted

The Marin Community College District board last night granted an easement to the county to allow widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The board had long disputed the widening project of the county Public Works Department, but agreed to go along with it last month after learning the county might sue to obtain the narrow easement.

The county has agreed to pay $1,300 for the easement and a bus stop shelter that will be removed.

In a related matter, the board postponed to Jan. 5 a public hearing on whether it should concur in the sale of a portion of the Phillips Petroleum property on the corner of Drake and College Avenue. The district has an option to buy the lot, but the county wants part of it for the widening project.

The Marin Community College District board also:

APPLICATION — Applied for $71,636 in state funds for educating poor students and for staffing the Center for Independent Study for 1972-73.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of account clerk Lesley Cardy.

The donation came from R.H. Garzoli, owner of Novato Roofing Co. and De Mello Roofing Co. in San Rafael, Ghirardo said.

Thus far in the campaign, there have been 244 donors with an average contribution of $211, he reported.

Motorcycle Borrower Fails To Come Back

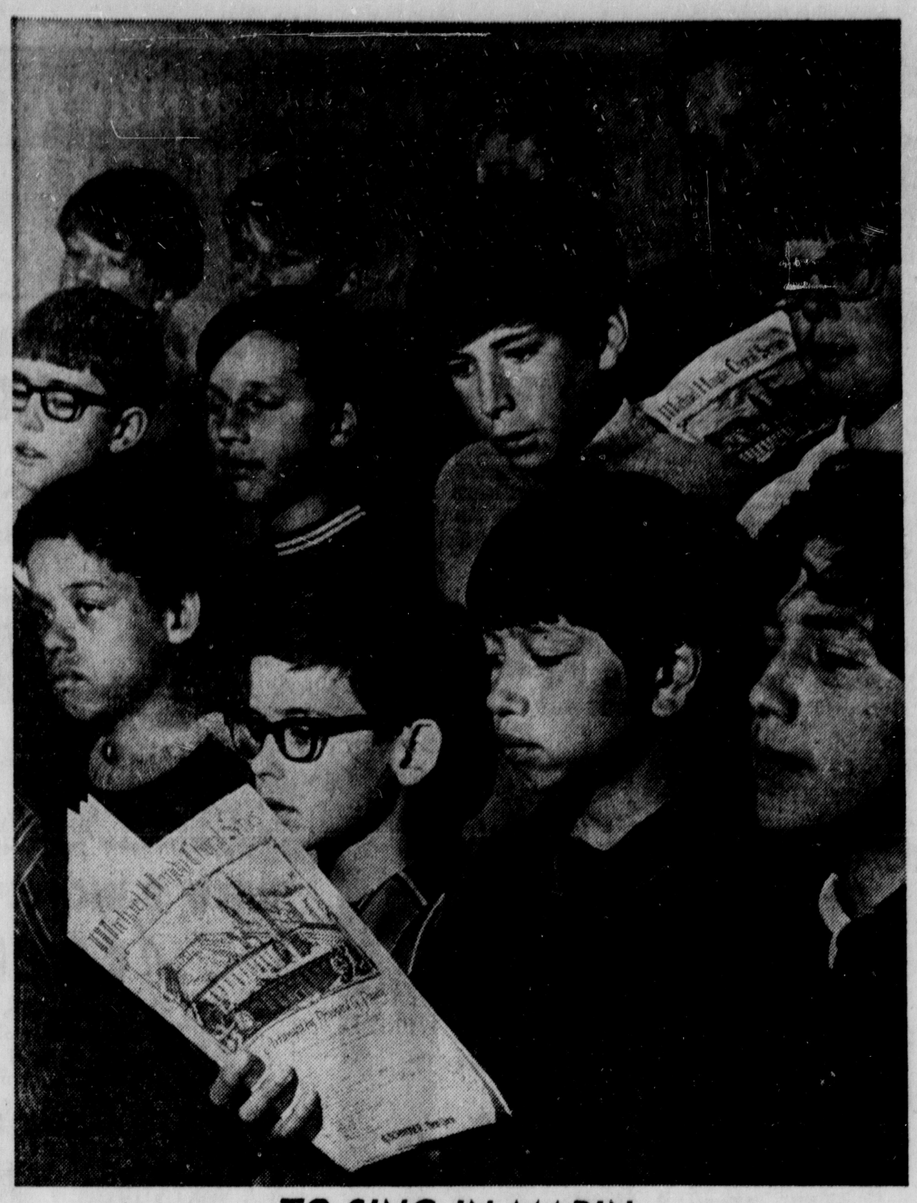
Police said the motorcycle, a 1971 Honda CB 350, was taken at 4 p.m. The vehicle had been left at the shop by its owner, Robert S. Morgan of 393 Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae, police said.



TO SING IN MARIN

Members of the 40-voice San Francisco Boys Chorus get ready to reherse for the "Concert at Christmas Time" to be presented at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Fine Arts Building Theater at College of Marin, especially for Marin's children.

Crackdown On Street Artists

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Police Department planned to resume its crackdown on street artists again today.

An injunction has kept police from arresting street artists the last two months, pending a trial on the constitutionality of the city peddlers' licensing law.

But Superior Court Judge Charles Perry ruled Tuesday that the ordinance is not unconstitutional, as had been asserted by the Street Artists Guild.

The guild had contended that sellers of art objects did not need a license since expressions of art were protected under the First Amendment of the Constitution.

Prostitutes Aid In VD Research

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Health officials and a brothel owner in Nevada agree that a drug used experimentally by prostitutes to prevent venereal disease was highly successful.

The program, which started in September, officially has ended and State Health Officer Dr. David Carr said Wednesday "it definitely has reduced" VD.

The drug, Progonasyl, was tested by 185 girls working in the various houses of prostitution in Nevada's rural counties.

Ex-Sally Stanford Employee Acquitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former employee of Sally Stanford was acquitted by a superior court jury yesterday of burglarizing the Sausalito restaurateur's Pacific Heights home in July 1970.

Hardy Cleveland Harrison, 42, was accused of taking nearly $14,000 from a safe in the home, but said the money was his. Harrison said he had kept the money with Miss Stanford for safekeeping.

Harrison told the jury of nine women and three men that he and Miss Stanford were like "mother and son" prior to the alleged theft. He had once operated the parking lot at Miss Stanford's Valhalla restaurant.

Novato GOP Women Elect

Joyce Miler of 1 Brassie Court has been elected president of the Novato Republican Women's Club, succeeding Esther Scminbor.

Mrs. Miler, who served as chairman of ways and means during the past year, was installed at a luncheon Tuesday at Nero's restaurant.

Genieve Grundstrom was installed as first vice-president; Virginia Gallagher, second vice-president; Dorothy Hoover, corresponding secretary; Madeline Lang, recording secretary, and Cameo Phillips, treasurer.

BART Supported On Link To Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Airport access has accepted unanimously recommendations that the Bay Area Rapid Transit system be extended into San Mateo County at least as far as the city's airport.

English Fine Ex-Marinite Over Pistol

I-J Special Report

LUTON, England — A Vietnam War veteran from Marin, facing trial in Texas on a charge of attempting to kill a police officer, today was fined $225 for entering England with an illegal pistol.

Dennis Marnell, 27, of San Geronimo, had pleaded guilty in a British court to having a pistol with him when he arrived last week on a charter plane from Los Angeles at Luton Airport.

He said, however, that the gun was dismantled and that he had no intention of using it in England.

At the time of his sentencing, his attorney described Marnell as one of the most decorated veterans of the Vietnam War, with 22 medals, including the Silver Star and four Purple Hearts, to his credit.

Marnell had been held in custody since his arrest after a police sergeant told the local magistrate he had jumped $4,500 bail in Fort Worth, Tex., to avoid prosecution on the attempted murder charge.

John Brady, chief prosecutor in the district attorney's office in Fort Worth, said today he intended to ask the Department of State to find out whether England will deport Marnell.

He said Marnell's trial would be reset for after Jan. 1, and if the veteran fails to show up, his bail will be forfeited. He also said if Marnell remains in England, he would consider pursuing extradition.

Marnell, who calls himself a Communist, had been scheduled to go on trial in Texas in October for allegedly shooting at a Texas narcotics officer, but proceedings were postponed when he entered a San Francisco hospital for treatment of shrapnel wounds suffered in Vietnam.

The shooting, which occurred in November 1970, grew out of a drug raid on a Fort Worth residence.

Narcotics, Pot Charges Denied

Jerry Ray Wade, 21, of San Rafael pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges that he had heroin for sale and possessed marijuana in a Bermuda Palms motel room on Monday.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 28 as time for a preliminary hearing.

San Rafael police and Marin County drug agents said they found 14 balloons and a plastic bag containing suspected heroin, along with a bag of pot in Wade's room.

Wade also faces trial next Feb. 14 on a charge of credit card forgery. He was arrested in San Rafael on Oct. 27 on that charge.

OUTINGS, VOLLEYBALL

Angela's Jail Days More Varied Now

I-J Special Report

PALO ALTO — In contrast to a more austere life while in the Marin County Jail, Angela Davis is now being taken on outings to a women's jail where she has played volleyball and visited with other inmates.

Lt. Donald Tamm of the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Department said today that Miss Davis has been taken twice from her basement cell in Palo Alto to the jail in Milpitas for exercise and companionship.

Her chief attorney, Howard Moore Jr. said she spent three hours there one day last week, "exercising and visiting with other people for a change — having coffee with the girls." She went again on Monday, Lieutenant Tamm said.

Sheriff's officials declined to describe details of the 24-mile trips because of security, but said they were in order to carry out court orders that the former university instructor be given fresh air and exercise.

They indicated Miss Davis had commented favorably on her new situation but declined to quote her.

Meanwhile, it was announced yesterday by the presiding judge of Santa Clara County Superior Court, that a 64-seat courtroom in San Jose has been chosen for her trial, scheduled to begin Jan. 31.

The room was chosen because it links directly by tunnel to the county jail next door, where Miss Davis is to be moved soon.

It has not been decided yet whether to remodel a portion of that jail, which has no facilities for women, or to transport her daily to her trial.

Miss Davis was moved from Marin Dec. 2 on a change of venue motion. She had spent almost a year in jail at the Civic Center awaiting trial on murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges stemming from the August 1970 shoot-out.

Her January trial date was chosen as a compromise between an earlier one requested by the prosecution and a later one asked by her attorneys.

Airline Granted Permission To Fly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state Public Utilities Commission Wednesday granted Valley Airlines "temporary authority" to operate flights between Oakland and four other California cities.

The grant stipulated the authority will last until next Nov. 30 unless the airline shows to the commission it has the resources to handle the traffic on a permanent basis.

'24-Hour Theory' Will Be Tested

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—A French scientist who proposes to live in a dark cave without clocks to test a theory that man does not function naturally on a 24-hour cycle has postponed the test one month.

Michel Siffre, 32, who was to enter the cave in far southwest Texas today, said the postponement was caused by a generator failure.

Narcotics Raid In Border City

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Police arrested 14 persons and seized marijuana and dangerous drugs worth $500,000 Wednesday.

Twelve agents raided three locations and gathered up 3.5 ounces of uncut heroin, 6.3 pounds of pure cocaine, three million benzedrine tablets and 464 pounds of marijuana.

Police also seized 27 counterfeit $100 bills. The suspects, all believed to be Mexicans, were turned over to the federal district attorney for prosecution.

Pot Possession Guilt Admitted

Albert S. Hoppert, 40, of Tiburon, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana.

He appeared yesterday before Judge E. Warren McGuire and admitted having marijuana at his home on Leland Way last July 1. Other charges against him — cultivating pot and having a device for smoking pot.

The judge set Jan. 17 as time for sentencing.

Hoppert was arrested July 1 by Marin County Drug Abuse agents, who said they found marijuana plants thriving in Hoppert's garden.

Jane Fonda Gets Nod From Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda and her anti-war theater troupe planned to return to Japan today with permission to stage at least four more shows satirizing the Vietnam War.

The Japanese Ministry of Justice Tuesday agreed to issue Miss Fonda and her 25-member troupe visas for theatrical performances.

The troupe, known as "Free Theater Associates" (FTA), performed twice in the Tokyo area during a six-day visit earlier this month.

Novato Baseball Gets Feminine Touch

By RALPH CHATOIAN

News item in yesterday's I-J: A Novato woman fighting for women's rights on the baseball diamond won a concession from the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission and now girls can play in the city's Farm League.

If there are not enough girls to form a separate girls league they'll be mixed in with the boys in the program for 9 to 12-year-olds.

"Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," said M. Elizabeth Smith. Two girls played in the league last year as an experiment, then came the ban, and now the lifting of the ban.

I immediately went after what newspaper people like to call a "reaction story." I didn't have to go far.

"Hey Rick," I called out to my 9-year-old son. "How did you like playing in Farm League this year?"

"It was just great, Dad," said he.

"Now girls can play on your team. How's that make you feel?" I needled.

"Oh, no!" he shrieked, "Not girls."

"Oh, yes!" I answered. "Do you still want to play in Farm League next season?"

"Some girls were playing in the league last season but I wouldn't want any on our team," he said. But I'll still play. That was fun."

I think the Novato program was great. It was low key, without the pressure of the serious, super organized Little League. All kids got to play, each getting to swing the bat an equal number of times. The Novato girls are lucky to get a chance in this program. Another home run for the Women's Lib movement.

TWO NOVATO players were the best defensive men on the Sonoma State football team. After being named to the All-Far Western Conference second team, senior end Rick Smith was named "Outstanding Defensive Lineman" by the Sonoma State team and sophomore cornerback Bob Sears received the "Outstanding Defensive Back" award.

IN THE latest news release from the Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union, was a help wanted ad for an age group swimming coach needed by Jan. 1, by the Marin Aquatic Club. Applicants should get in touch with Don Swartz at P.O. Box 865, San Rafael.

BASKETBALLS FOR KIDS will be the Warriors' early Christmas presents Saturday night at Oakland Coliseum Arena. It will be basketball night when the Warriors go against the Detroit Pistons. Every youngster, 16 and under, who purchases a reserved seat for the game will get a free basketball.

The Warriors' game against the super red-hot Lakers in Los Angeles tomorrow night will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, at 8 o'clock. The Lakers will be trying to stretch their new NBA consecutive reeord to 23 in that game against the Golden Staters.

Rondon Stops Baird in 8th

Champion Slices Up Game Foe

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Vincente Rondon of Venzuela knocked out challenger Doyle Baird of Akron, Ohio, in the eighth round Wednesday night to retain his World Boxing Association light heavyweight title.

"He's a good tough middleweight but the best thing for him to do is retire," Rondon said of the Akron foundry worker. Baird, 33, was two and one-half inches shorter and five pounds lighter than the champion.

"The light heavyweight class is just too much for Baird," Rondon said through his manager and interpreter Felix Zabala. "He is a game fighter but he cuts off easily."

Baird had come out fast, trying for a quick knockout in the first round. But while the 170-pound challenger threw a lot of punches in the first three

BY POLL

Fox Selected Top Manager

ST LOUIS (UPI) — Charlie Fox, who guided the San Francisco Giants to the Western Division Title in the National League this year, was named manager of the year by the Sporting News Wednesday in a poll of the 24 major league managers.

Close behind in the balloting was Bob Lemon, who piloted the Kansas City Royals to a second place finish in the American League West. A three-way tie developed for third between Earl Weaver, whose Baltimore Orioles captured a third consecutive American League pennant; Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics which captured the American League Western Division Title, and Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox.

The 50-year-old Fox has been a member of the Giant organization since 1942, starting as a catcher with Bristol in the Appalachian League and appearing in three Giant games. He then entered the Navy and never returned to the majors as a player. After his discharge in 1946, Fox played briefly at Manchester and then took the reins as manager of that team. He then went back to Bristol to both catch and manage, moved to St. Cloud and Sunbury, managing and catching for those teams also.

He served as a scout for the Giants for seven years and then managed Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League.

In 1965, he was brought up to the parent club as a coach and in May 1970, was named manager.

Last season, the Giants grabbed the division lead six days after the season opened and held it all the way, although going to the wire against the Dodgers the final two weeks. The title came despite the lack of a 20-game winner or a .300 — or even .290 — hitter, and the lowest team fielding percentage in the Major Leagues.

IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Foster To Defend Title Against Kelly, Poverty

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — World Light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster will face two foes.

First, the slender slugger will be battling his life-long antagonist — poverty, and secondly, he will be defending his half of the disputed title, shared with Vicente Rondon, against Brian Kelly.

Regarding his first foe, Foster pointed out he has been out of boxing before. And, according to Foster, his retirement in years past was tantamount to poverty.

He did not enjoy being poor, thus he returned to boxing and won a piece of the crown.

"Three years ago, I couldn't get a loaf of bread without paying cash and there were a lot of times I didn't have the money either," Foster said on the eve of his championship fight with Oklahoma challenger Kelly tonight.

Foster had quit the ring at the age of 24 after five years as an "in and outer" and took a job in Baltimore in a bomb factory. Retirement wasn't all that much better than the ring, so the Albuquerque, N. M., fighter gave up his job and returned to boxing.

Tonight's match in Oklahoma City will be the first world championship boxing contest in Oklahoma history. Challenging the 6-foot-3 champion will be Kelly, winner of his last 23 fights.

Kelly also has retired from fighting once, two years ago because of an elbow injury.

Tests Crimp Stanford Practices

STANFORD (UPI)—Final examinations are putting a crimp in the Stanford football workouts for the Rose Bowl encounter with undefeated Michigan Jan. 1.

"For the second day in a row, many of the players had to miss our drills because of the exams," said coach John Ralston Wednesday night. "But most of them are over now and we expect to knuckle down to some serious work with most of the squad on Thursday."

Running back Jackie Brown and receiver Miles Moore reported for the first time to the third Rose Bowl workout Wednesday. Ralston said all three of his quarterbacks were throwing the ball "fairly well" during a 20-minute scrimmage pitting the top offensive teams against the first two defensive units.

Warriors To Host Philadelphia 76ers

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors try to end a six-game losing string tonight against the Philadelphia 76ers, a club which figures it can make the playoffs.

Coach Al Attles of the Warriors hopes his team has had a chance to regroup since losing to Seattle in their last game last Friday.

"We were not playing badly but neither were we playing too well," said Attles. "When you've stopped moving well and your shots are not dropping in, the trouble is compounded.

"We've been drilling to combat the problem both ways. We want to move more and we've been working to hoist our shooting percentage."

Philadelphia is currently in third place in the NBA's Atlantic Division East, 2 1-2 games behind second place New York. Since the acquisition of center Bob Rule from Seattle, the 76ers have been playing fine basketball.

"We have a legitimate title chance for the first time since Wilt Chamberlain left (in 1968)," said All Star forward Bill Cunningham.

Teamed with Rule and Cunningham is Bill Bridges, obtained recently from the Atlanta Hawks. Rule has been averaging 18 points a game since coming to Philadelphia while Bridges is pulling down 13.6 rebounds a game.

All of the Warriors are healthy and rested. They need to be that way because they play three nights in a row. The Warriors are at Los Angeles Friday and return to Oakland for a game with the Detroit Pistons Saturday night. Every youngster, 16 and under, purchasing a reserved seat for the Piston game will receive a free basketball.

Joe Ellis won the $100 Quaker Oats Award as the Warriors Unsung Hero for November. Clyde Lee was the October winner.

Lamonica Gets Call Vs. Denver

OAKLAND (UPI) —As far as coach John Madden and the Oakland Raiders are concerned, the season is far from over.

Madden squashed rumors Wednesday that he might give seldom-used Ken Stabler a shot at quarterbacking the Raiders against the Denver Broncos in the season finale at the Oakland Coliseum Sunday. Stabler replaced an injured Lamonica in the first Denver game and the southpaw from Alabama tossed one touchdown pass and ran for another in a 27-16 victory.

But Madden says veteran Daryle Lamonica will open at quarterback Sunday.

"This is pro football and you play with your best to win every game," said Madden. "We've played 19 games this season and had plenty of scrimmages in training camp. If we haven't seen our young people by now, we're never going to see them."

Rozelle Refutes Rogers' Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Congressman Paul Rogers' charge that the National Football League was "testing the legal waters" of closed circuit television for future telecasts of its title games was called "absolutely ludicrous" Wednesday by pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle.

In an exclusive interview with the UPI Editorial Board, Rozelle said last Saturday's closed circuit telecast of the Baltimore-Miami game in Miami "confirmed my judgment that closed circuit is not a big thing for pro football." Rozelle said the closed circuit telecast was attended by only 3,900 persons despite a seat-capacity of 30,000.

"I think the Ali-Frazier fight gave many people misconceptions about what can be done on theater TV outside of just an unusual one-shot event," said Rozelle. "I think that Rep. Rogers and a great number of people are quite misinformed about both our testimony before Congress and also about the proposed FCC guidelines that will undoubtedly pass in some form."

The proposed FCC guidelines stipulate that an event that has been carried in free TV in an area for two or three years cannot be made available for closed circuit TV without first being offered to home TV. Rozelle said there were "no loopholes" to the proposed law.

"For many reasons, including the FCC guidelines, I see no basic change in our TV policy," Rozelle said. "I think the Ali Frazier fight led a great number of people to erroneous conclusions as to what can be done in other sports on theater TV."

Charles Finley Promises Raise

OAKLAND (UPI) —Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics baseball team, says lefthanded pitcher Vida Blue will get a "substantial raise" over his 1971 salary of $14,750.

Finley said he was awaiting word from baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn on 1972 contract guidelines. Right now, nearly all pay boosts are limited to 5.5 per cent by the national pay advisory board.

Determined Detroit Team To Face 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Detroit coach Joe Schmidt says his Lions will be giving the San Francisco 49ers everything they have Sunday.

"We are coming out there to win," said Schmidt. "It would be a lot better for us to finish 8-5-1 instead of 7-6-1."

Despite missing cornerback Dick LeBeau and possibly tight end Charlie Sanders (sprained arch) and middle linebacker Mike Lucci (thigh) coach Dick Nolan of the 49ers figures the Lions will provide formidable opposition.

"The Lions have a lot of people with a lot of ability," said Nolan. "Steve Owens is going for 1,000 yards and (quarterback) Greg Landry's not only a thrower but a good runner. They put in running plays for him for just that reason."

Owens needs only 24 more yards to become the first Lion ever to rush for 1,000 yards. Landry can break Tobin Rote's quarterback rushing record of 523 yards by gaining 19 yards on the ground against the 49ers.

Schmidt said wide receiver Earl McCullouch apparently has shaken off a rib injury and will be ready to play Sunday.

A win by the 49ers or a loss by the Los Angeles Rams to Pittsburgh Sunday would give San Francisco the championship of the NFC West. However, a loss by the 49ers and a win by Los Angeles would put the Rams in the playoffs instead of San Francisco.

HOUSTON AIDE SAYS

Notre Dame Defender Heads Pro Draft List

HOUSTON (UPI) — Defensive end Walt Patulski of Notre Dame and quarterback John Reeves of Florida will probably be the first two players selected in the upcoming pro draft, the owner and general manager of the Houston Oilers said Wednesday.

Owner Bud Adams said if the Oilers get to pick second in the draft they would select and trade Reeves, who broke Jim Plunkett's NCAA passing record this year.

The Oilers entertain the San Diego Chargers Sunday in the Astrodome and if the Chargers win, the Oilers will have the second worst record in the National Football League and hence the No. 2 draft pick.

Last week the Oilers played Buffalo, the team with the first pick, and Oiler general manager John Breen said he talked with officials about the draft. Breen said the Buffalo officials said they would select Patulski first.

Adams said Huston, if it got the second pick, would go with Reeves. He said the Oilers could then trade Reeves and possibly Lynn Dickey, a quarterback drafted last time, for an offensive back or lineman.

"You could probably get three offensive linemen for Reeves," Adams said. "There are several teams wanting quarterbacks and there aren't that many good ones available this year."

Adams said he liked Nebraska's Jeff Kinney better than any other college running back and preferred Robert Newhouse of the University of Houston over Alabama's All-American Johnny Musso.

Breen said Bob Moore of Oregon would be the first running back drafted by the pros.

Adams also said coach Ea Hughes' timing was bad in the firing of offensive backfield coach Walt Schlinkman this week.

RONDON

minutes, he landed only one solid blow, on the side of Rondon's head.

Rondon slowed down Baird in the sixth and seventh rounds before belting him at will in the eighth.

A right chop to the head dropped Baird in a neutral corner for an eight count at 1:14 and he was sent across the ropes for another eight count at 1:49 in the eighth.

With blood flowing from multiple cuts on his face, Baird staggered to his feet and Rondon floored him for the last time with a solid left hook.

"He kept hitting me with that right chop," Baird said later. "Every time I tried to counter with the left ... bang, there he was again with that hard right to the head."

It was Rondon's 23rd straight victory. He is now hoping to meet Bob Foster. A bout in San Juan, Puerto Rico, has been submitted to the WBA for approval.

"We have talked with Foster for the past three weeks and have sent the offer to the WBA," said Zabala. "We will fight anywhere and hope to meet Foster on Feb. 18.

"If Foster, who is the number one challenger, doesn't want to fight, we will have to fight Mike Quarry," Zabala added.

Griffin had breezed through the first six rounds of the scheduled 10-rounder, but Brown caught him with a hard right to the jaw and sent him to the canvas for an eight count. Griffin got up but was decked again and the referee stopped the bout at 2:37 of the seventh round.

Frank Kolovrat, 150, Cleveland, ran his unbeaten streak to 18 in a unanimous six-round decision over Sammy Maul, Dayton, Ohio, and Mike Harris decisioned Ray Carrington in a battle of Cleveland light weights.

Minor League Seeks Spots In NHL Growth

SEATTLE (UPI)—Bill MacFarland, president of the Western Hockey League, is hoping the National Hockey League will consider all six WHL teams as a package in any future expansion plans.

He said this was in lieu of possible acceptance of one or two teams at a time from the WHL. The six cities in the WHL are Salt Lake, Seattle, Denver, Phoenix, San Diego and Portland.

The board of governors of the NHL meet Jan 29 in Minneapolis and reports circulated in Seattle they will consider some of the WHL cities for possible NHL expansion franchises. At present, the NHL has 14 teams.

CHARLOTTE TOOMBS

Female Basketball Referee Makes Debut In Texas Contest

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Charlotte Toombs isn't exactly a proponent of women's liberation, but the Texas Tech University junior feels there's a place for her in a previous all-male domain.

Wednesday night Miss Toombs tied back her black tresses, put on the regulation trousers and black and white striped shirt and became the first woman in Texas to referee a sanctioned basketball game.

"I'm a little nervous," she said after the intramural contest between two Reese Air Force Base teams. "Some of my friends said the eyes of Texas were on me tonight."

Miss Toombs called the game exactly one month after she paid her $10 dues to become a member of the Southwestern Basketball Officials Association. At 21, she is at the minimum age required for a basketball official.

She has been assigned to referee three more games tonight in Rawls, Tex., and will be one of the referees at a High School tournament in Salton, Tex., Jan. 21-23.

"Before tonight's game I received telephone calls, letters and telegraphs from throughout the state," Miss Toombs said. "Everyone seemed interested."

She said no one was willing to hire her until a news story and her picture were published Dec. 6.

"Since then everyone wants me," Miss Toombs, who is an English major at the West Texas School, said. "I've had offers from Dallas and Houston. The response has just been fantastic."

Two Goalies Achieve Assists

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Merely stopping other people from scoring doesn't seem to be enough for some goaltenders.

Ken Dryden of Montreal and Gilles Villemure of New York, two of the better goalies in the world, joined the scoring ranks Wednesday night when they picked up assists, which must be some kind of record in itself with goalies getting credit for two points in one night.

Dryden, in fact, tied a National Hockey League record with his third assist of the season, a mark first achieved two years ago by Bernie Parent, then with Philadelphia, as the Canadiens beat the Los Angeles Kings, 3-1.

Dryden helped set up the first goal when he cleared a shot by Jean Potvin onto the stick of Jacques Lemaire, who in turn dropped a pass to Frank Mahovlich. Mahovlich fired a 45-foot slapshot in the opening minutes of the game.

Villemure earned the first assist of his NHL career as New York whipped the Flyers, 6-2. Villemure started the Rangers to their fifth goal when he passed the puck to Rod Seiling, who fed Jean Ratelle. Philadelphia was caught in a line change at the time, and Ratelle, who had skated to the ice just a moment before, was in clear against goalie Doug Favell.

The Chicago Black Hawks maintained a four-point bulge over Minnesota in the West by nipping the Buffalo Sabres, 2-1, while the North Stars were snapping a four-game losing streak with a 4-1 decision over the St. Louis Blues. In the other game played, Toronto edged Pittsburgh, 3-2.

Dryden almost had his fourth shutout in addition to the assist but Eddie Joyal scored for Los Angeles with 7 1-2 minutes left in the game. Jacques Lemaire and Marc Tardif were the other Canadien marksmen.

BOB TUCKER

New York Giant Takes Catching Lead From 49er

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tight end will lead the National Football Conference in pass receiving for the first time this season. The only question is which one.

Bob Tucker of the New York Giants holds the lead with 51 receptions and San Francisco's Ted Kwalick is in hot pursuit with 49 as they enter Sunday's regular season finales, according to official statistics released by the League today.

Tucker has gained 675 yards with his receptions, averaging 13.2 yards per catch while Kwalick has picked up 632, an average of 12.9 a reception.

Gene Washington of San Francisco and Roy Jefferson of Washington, both wide receivers, are tied for third at 43 receptions each.

Roger Staubach of Dallas had the passing title wrapped up. In the ratings system used by the league based on percentage, percentage of interceptions, touchdowns and average yards gained, Staubach has seven points compared to 18 1-2 for runnerup Greg Landry of Detroit.

Rookie John Brockington of Green Bay holds a commanding lead in the rushing race with 1,032 yards, well ahead of runnerup Willie Ellison of Los Angeles, who has 977.

Washington's Curt Knight, with 107 points, will try to hold off Bruce Gossett of San Francisco and Errol Mann of Detroit, both with 94, for the scoring title.

The battle for the American Football Conference passing title will be between youth and age this Sunday.

The youth belongs to Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins and the age to Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs. According to official league statistics released today, Griese is the conference's No. 1. passer with a 10-point rating and Dawson ranks second at 10 1-2 points.

Griese holds the edge in the TD department with 19 to Dawson's 15 and in interceptions, throwing only nine as compared to Dawson's 13. But Dawson has thrown for 2,504 yards to Griese's 1,967.

Rozelle Nixes Game Betting

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rozelle is a highly sensitive man, sensitive in this case having to do with that super quick capacity of his for picking up impressions rather than any noticeable tendency toward being thin-skinned.

This is rather understandable inasmuch as Pete Rozelle makes his living by being commissioner of the National Football League, and it is equally understandable why he would be, and is, highly sensitive about Howard Samuels' operation.

HORSE RACES

OTB has made it possible to place bets on horse races legally without going out to the track. Until last Monday OTB's principal revenue resulted from bets covering flat and harness races taking place on New York tracks. Tropical Park was added Monday by OTB and Laurel is due to get its first play today.

Howard Samuels, who has done a fine job with all this, would like to do much more. He says he'd like OTB to take bets on pro football, baseball, Jai Alai, tiddledewinks or whatever.

NOT DISTURBED

He's not disturbed about any future legalized gambling on baseball, Jai Alai or tiddledewinks but he is upset about any such operation that would involve pro football games.

"Do you think OTB has a chance with pro football?" Rozelle was asked Wednesday during an exclusive question-and-answer session with the UPI Editorial Board.

"Certainly," he said. "That's why I'm so concerned."

Rozelle originally objected to Samuels' plan because he felt it would "enlarge the scope" of bets being made on pro football games already and because he also felt "this thing can only chip away at the integrity of our sport . . ."

Samuels said Rozelle was being "naive."

'NAIVE'

"If I'm naive, then I'm spending $200,000 of the owners' money every year fruitlessly," says Rozelle now. "Sure, some enforcement officials are for legalized gambling on pro football games. They say 'legalize it.' I don't blame them. It gets them off the hook. Now they don't have to worry themselves about illegal gambling. But we don't want to be the fall guys."

Pete Rozelle's awareness is forever evident, the same way it was some time back when he had reason to believe he was going to enjoy a game at Yankee Stadium in more or less anonymity.

One of the Mara family, which owns the New York Giants, felt Rozelle would like to sit off by himself, so he arranged for a special box on the other side of the field. The box had four seats in it and since Rozelle came with a friend of his, two of the seats were empty.

DRIFTED

Only for a while though. Two youngsters eventually drifted into them and from their general conversation it became obvious they had bet $5 or $10 on some of the games.

"They'd see the scores being posted on the board and make certain remarks," Rozelle relates. "Pittsburgh would be down, 7-0, and one would say to the other, 'look, they're going into the tank already.' I took about as much of this as I could, then turned and said to one of the boys, look, you're sitting in my seats, and I don't mind, but I don't care for the general tone of your conversation about teams doing this and doing that, and I'd appreciate if you didn't continue that sort of talk."

Both youngsters were quiet for some time.

Until the gun went off ending the ball game. Then one of the boys tapped the commissioner on the shoulder and went . . . Pow!

$50,000 Women's Net Tourney Slated

DALLAS (UPI) — Women's tennis, long riding in the back seat while their male counterparts took the limelight, will have a $50,000 tournament of their own next spring —the Maureen Connolly Brinker International.

The rich tournament, a charity affair whose proceeds will go to a foundation named after the late Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly Brinker, a threetime Wimbledon champion who was struck down by cancer, has been set for March 6-12 at the T Bar M Racquet Club.

The foundation provides financial aid to promising young tennis players and development programs.

Evonne Goolagong, the 19-year-old Australian whiz ranked No. 1 in the world, will be a contestant and will be in the same tournament with the bright United States prodigy, 16-year-old Chris Evert, for the first time.

A Winning Record For Marin Cagers

By LEW CODDINGTON

With almost a month of non-league basketball gone buy, it's fair to ask how Marin County teams are doing in comparison to their rivals throughout northern California.

The answer is: not half bad. The MCAL is 21-16 against all foes. It's 0-1 against the East Bay, 1-0 against the Peninsula, 6-4 against San Francisco, and 14-11 against everybody up north.

Admittedly, those figures are a bit stacked. Redwood and Tamalpais, two regional powers, are a combined 9-1 against the auslanders and have left nothing but blood and wreckage up and down the Peninsula.

On the other hand, the Drake Invitational Tournament was a mismatch, with powerful Napa and Petaluma going 4-0 against the MCAL's mortals.

Removing all those games, you are left with the middle-rank MCAL teams going 12-11 against the middle-rank teams from elsewhere. A representative showing.

"The basketball you play up there (Marin) is as good as anywhere around here," said Washington High coach John McGrath earlier this year. His team, a good one, lost to Redwood and beat San Rafael.

Actually, the East Bay seems to play the best ball, at least judging from the last two Tournaments of Champions, both won by Berkeley High.

Marin County's favorite victims this year have been Healdsburg and Analy of Sebastopol. San Marin and Drake beat Analy; San Rafael, San Marin and Terra Linda beat Healdsburg. Lincoln of San Francisco is Redwood's private property, victimized by the Giants twice in a week.

Metz' Trojans are the league's best defensive team, giving up 35 goals in six games, or 5.8 a game. His team is scoring at an 11.8 clip, and is the only team in the league to double its opponents' total.

Redwood has the highest scoring team, 15.0, but is giving up 9.7, due to its small pool. San Rafael ranks third in scoring at 10.5 and second in defense at 7.7

Novato has given up as many as it has scored, 10.0, but has made its goals count and is tied with San Rafael and Redwood for second behind Terra Linda. San Marin, which has split six games and owns an upset over Terra Linda, is scoring 9.2 and yielding 10.0

The figures reveal that Tamalpais is playing tough water polo despite its 1-5 league record. The Indians have scored only nine less than they've given up all year, 58.67.

BACK TO HAUNT — San Rafael's basketball victory over Armijo was a sweet one for Bulldog coach Mike Diaz, who prepped at the Fairfield school. In fact, he beat his own ex-coach, the veteran Ed Hopkins.

"We've played six or seven times in the 10 years I've been at San Rafael," said Diaz. "I think I'm one or two up on him."

PLATOONS — Diaz surprised a few people when he put in five substitutes at once late in the first quarter against Armijo. "I'm still trying to see which players function best as a unit under game conditions," he said.

Could this be the start of two-platoon basketball in Marin County?

LIKE FATHER, ETC. — When Redwood played Lincoln, it set up an interesting conflict in the Payne family. Dave Payne plays for Redwood; his father, Don, coaches at Lincoln.

POINT PINNACLE — Marin County teams have gone to the post 54 times so far, and on 15 occasions, a player has scored 20 points or more. At least one man from each team has done it.

Will Garner of Tamalpais hit 20 five times in his six games, and has the season high for a Marinite, 28. He is averaging 22.0.

Motorcycles Triumph

Chris Speck scored 25 points to lead Motorcycles Unlimited to a 74-48 victory over the Trotters last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation adult softball league game.

BOWLING TIPS
By MARION LADEWIG

Women bowlers who find it difficult to generate sufficient speed might try a higher backswing, if this can be done without any loss of control. If you swing the ball back above shoulder height, you will naturally move the ball down the lane more quickly. You won't have to force the ball down — gravity will cause it to swing forward more readily.

Trio Aids Celtics' Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Celtics are demonstrating that strength in numbers is still a vital factor in playing winning basketball in the National Basketball Association.

The Celtics have a super star in John Havlicek but showed again Wednesday night they can win without an outstanding performance from him when they defeated the Seattle SuperSonics, 112-100, and took a 2 1-2 game lead over idle New York in the Atlantic Division.

Don Chaney and Jo Jo White scored 22 points each and Dave Cowens added 21 plus 14 rebounds for the Celtics. Havlicek wound up with 20 points but made only one basket in the first period. Spencer Haywood led Seattle with 20 points and Don Smith and Dick Snyder had 15 each.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 35 points and John Block had 24 to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 122-108 triumph over the Buffalo Braves.

Dick Van Arsdale scored 31 points as the Phoenix Suns defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 127-108, and Elvin Hayes and Stu Lantz had 28 each as the Houston Rockets downed the Atlanta Hawks, 117-115, in overtime in the other Wednesday night games.

49ers Picked By 6½ Over Lions

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco 49ers were tabbed 6½-point favorites over the Detroit Lions in their game Sunday in Candlestick Park, according to Harrah's Racebook in Stateline, Nev.

Other pro odds include: Los Angeles over Pittsburgh by 7, Baltimore over New England by 14½, Miami over Green Bay by 7, and Dallas over St. Louis by 16½.

No odds were listed on games not having a bearing on the playoffs.

In other football news:

DENVER — Lou Saban, general manager of the Denver Broncos, says the National Football League team may have a new coach within the next two months.

Saban, who stepped down from the coaching job last month, said no decision had been made yet on filling the position.

Among those still in the running, Saban said, is Jerry Smith, currently serving as interim head coach. "Jerry is still very much in it," Saban said.

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — A wealthy, middle-aged widow who has become an avid football fan has willed the University of Miami $1 million to be used for football scholarships.

Attorney Starr Horton, a former Hurricane football player and a director of the university's athletic foundation, revealed the endowment Wednesday, but declined to name the generous widow.

"The lady doesn't want any publicity," Horton said. "My client has always loved football, and she's become a big University of Miami fan since becoming a permanent resident here."

HOLLYWOOD — Joe Kapp, who gave up pro football this year following a contract dispute with the New England Patriots, has signed to make his acting debut, it was announced Wednesday.

The former all-pro quarterback will co-star as an Indian in a two-hour television movie, "Climb an Angry Mountain," with Fess Parker. The movie also is a pilot for a TV series titled "Elisha Cooper."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The Tennessee Vols begin one-a-day practice sessions today in preparation for their clash with the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis Monday night.

The Vols were on the practice field for three and a half hours Wednesday as they began workouts. Both morning and afternoon sessions were held, coach Bill Battle said, to rid the team of problems caused by inactivity.

"I like to think we are the team to beat," Landry told his regular mid-week press luncheon Wednesday. "Fact is, you have to think so about your own team, whether everyone else does or not."

Boxing

LOS ANGELES — The vacant World Boxing Council lightweight title will be settled in a rematch of Mando Ramos of Los Angeles and Pedro Carrasco of Spain here Feb. 18.

Promoter Aileen Eaton of the Olympic Boxing Club Wednesday announced the 15-round fight to be held at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The WBC vacated a Ramos-Carrasco title bout at Madrid Nov. 5. After scoring four knockdowns, Ramos was disqualified by referee Samuel Odubote of Nigeria and Carrasco was declared the winner in the 11th round.

SPORT SHORTS

Moyer's title was not on the line.

Baseball

OAKLAND — Jerry Adair, who set three major league fielding records as a player for the Baltimore Orioles in 1964, Wednesday was hired by the Oakland A's to serve as their first base coach in 1972.

Adair, who will celebrate his 35th birthday on Friday, replaces Jerry Lumpe as A's first base coach. Lumpe resigned his post to return to college in hopes of completing his education and landing a major school coaching post.

A Double Loss

Terra Linda High School's Class B basketball team lost to Kenilworth Junior High of Petaluma, 43-39 and the Terra Linda freshmen lost to Slater Junior High of Santa Rosa, 68-56, yesterday.

THE SKI SCENE

Chance To See If You're Good

By CHARLIE COANE

Have you ever had the urge to flash through the gates on a ski race course and burst across the finish line to a roar of the crowd? You then would glance anxiously at the officials and await your time and see it posted on a board. "I'd make a fool of myself," you say.

Well, you now have the opportunity — to race and not make a fool of yourself. Even if you haven't mastered the stem christie or are just an "advanced beginner," you can enjoy the NASTAR (National Standard Race).

In a nutshell, NASTAR enables the recreational skier to race through a modified giant slalom course set on a moderately pitched hill to establish a handicap for himself and perhaps win a gold, silver or bronze medal.

Here's the procedure: Anyone can enter by signing up at the NASTAR desk at a ski area which participates in the program. Two dollars will give you a starting number and a bib. The race usually begins in late morning. Let's say you have number 16. This means 15 racers will go before you. Each racer goes down individually and all are electronically timed. You'll even get the 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 countdown to begin your descent! When you reach the bottom, you can check with the officials to see how well you did. For $1 you can try again. Keep the bib.

If you finish the course, you will receive an official NASTAR card (with your handicap) in the mail.

Medals and handicaps are determined by area pacesetters who establish a "par" for the course on that day. Each pacesetter has a handicap that he established at a NASTAR pacesetter's competition held at Vail, Colo., Nov. 29 - Dec. 2. A handicap is the percentage slower that a person is than the fastest pacesetter in the country, or "Mr. Zero." Pepi Stiegler, ski school director at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, topped all competitors for the third straight year.

All pacesetters now have handicaps of 1 or more. When a pacesetter runs a course, his time is then decreased by whatever handicap he is (or percentage slower than Stiegler) to establish the "par" on that day.

Thus, all areas across the country can have an equal standard and your handicap, based upon "par," can be compared on an equal basis with someone in Vermont or Michigan.

Let's say Mr. Pacesetter at your areas has a 10 handicap and runs the course in 30 seconds. Theoretically, "Mr. Zero" would have run that course on that day in 27 seconds, because he's 10 per cent faster than your Mr. Pacesetter. So 27 is "par" and that is your guideline. Our handicap is then whatever percentage slower you are to 27 seconds. If you run the course in 54 seconds, your handicap is 100, and you'll receive a card stating 100 handicap.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded according to age, sex and handicap. For men up to 40 years old, a 10 handicap or less will win a gold medal, 25 a silver, and 50 a bronze. For women in the same age bracket, handicaps of 15, 30 and 55 will win the gold, silver and bronze medals respectively. Men over 40 need 20, 35 and 60 for the medals, and women over 40 need 25, 40 and 65.

Race as often as you like. And don't be afraid to get a group of friends together and have at it. My handicap? It's a 17. A gold medal this year will be very difficult indeed — especially for men under 40. In fact, many area pacesetters will not be under 10. I have a friend who carded a 218 last season and another who raced twice and did not finish (DNF) — so anything goes.

Alpine Meadows and Bear Valley were highly successful in NASTAR, ranking second and third nationally in participants. Dodge Ridge, Heavenly Valley, Mt. Shasta and Snow Summit also handle NASTAR. Twoyears ago, 25,000 people ran the NASTAR. Last season: 60,000. This year they're hoping for 100,000.

Ryan To Head Yacht Club

Robert C. Ryan of San Rafael has been elected 1972 commodore of Loch Lomond Yacht Club, succeeding Dr. C. J. Peetz of Corte Madera.

Other new officers are James E. Howard, vice commodore; Henry Serra, rear commodore; Richard J. Naylor, treasurer; Robert W. Blakeslee, secretary; Eric Nelson, port captain; Robert Sitzman, sail fleet captain; Edward Windfeldt, power fleet captain.

Serving as directors will be Dr. Peetz, William Waller and James Dunn.

Terra Linda Splits

Terra Linda High School's freshman basketball team defeated Napa yesterday, 44-35, while the "B" team lost to Napa, 56-38. Both Terra Linda teams now have 4-1 records.

Unbeaten San Diego State Wins

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Unbeaten San Diego State has sounded an early season warning to other members of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The Aztecs may be a tough basketball team to handle in the conference which features such teams as Long Beach State, Pacific and Los Angeles State. San Diego State rolled to its seventh straight victory Wednesday night by dumping North Dakota State 86-69.

Sixteenth-ranked Long Beach, meanwhile, had a tougher time than expected in subduing Loyola of Los Angeles 73-67 to run its record to 4-1. Chuck Terry scored 17 points and picked off 15 rebounds for the 49ers and teammate Ed Ratleff added 16 points.

There's no place like home for the University of Pacific Tigers who notched their 27th straight win in Stockton with an easy 84-64 clobbering of shorter Portland University. It was the first home game of the season for the Tigers who opened with a 2-3 road record.

Five players hit double figures for UOP, topped by 6-10 center John Gianelli's 22 points and 18 rebounds. The senior pivot missed only three of 11 shots from the floor as the Tigers outrebounded the Pilots 67-49 and outshot Portland 45 to 31 per cent.

Ricardo Parks topped the Pilots with 13 points and teammate Ken Hettrich added 12. Portland is 1-3.

In other games, Doug McAdam scored 17 of his game-high 28 points in the second half to pace Occidental to its first win of the season in five starts, a 96-91 edging of Lewis and Clark. Doug Skille scored 25 points and Don Pollard contributed 23 for the Pioneers who are now 2-2.

Nevada-Reno plays at Duquesne tonight.

Doug Dickey Winner

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida coach Doug Dickey entered the 1971 football season with an overall collegiate coaching record of 53-19-4 for a winning percentage of 736.

Novato Woman's Soap Firm Sought By East Bay Company

Now negotiating to acquire Helene's Formulas, Inc., owned by Mrs. Helene Fly of Novato, is Bio-Ecology, Inc. of Hayward.

Mrs. Fly, a cosmetics specialist for many years, has recently been manufacturing a clear glycerine soap called Nature's Way and has been expanding her marketing area by leaps and bounds. She plans to continue as the manufacturer of this product, even if the company takes over the operation. She hopes to remain in the Novato area.

Bio-Ecology, organized last June, presently has three basic product lines —biodegradable cleaners, "natural" cosmetics and vitamins. It is organized into two independent divisions.

The consumer sales division runs a direct sales organization similar in concept to that of Avon Products or Shaklee Products. Sales are made throughout the country by distributors who operate Bio-Ecology stations and manage local sales forces.

The company's products are also packaged under other labels and offered through conventional retail channels by its commercial sales division.

SAN RAFAEL MARINE SURVEYOR Jim Marmaduke is giving up this occupation entirely and returning to his former business of yacht brokerage in which he was previously engaged for about 10 years. He will be located at Lowrie Yacht Harbor, San Rafael as Jim Marmaduke, Yacht Broker. He has been doing marine surveying for the past six years.

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT H. Bruce Mininberg has moved his office from 35 Mitchell Boulevard to larger quarters in La Plaza Building, 4340 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park.

The lease was handled by William Hoey Co.

HOSPITAL CORP. OF AMERICA, parent company of Ross Medical Corp., has elected C. George Mercy of Novato to its executive committee. He is vice president of the company's West Coast operations and a director.

Dr. Ira H. Degenhardt and Leo H. Strauss of San Rafael have been elected directors of Hospital Corp. Dr. Degenhardt is a director and Strauss is senior vice president of Ross Medical.

CORTE MADERA insurance agent Stryker Warren is now associated with West Coast Life Insurance Co. His office continues at 645 Tamalpais Drive.

WITH HEAVY SHOPPING continuing right up to Christmas, it still is not too late to follow a few of the suggestions offered by members of the Bay Area Consumer Protection Coordinating Committee.

Plan ahead.

Make up a shopping list with prices. Watch advertisements and shop around to take advantage of any bargains.

Include an allowance for miscellaneous and extra items — but once you've arrived at your holiday budget, stick with it.

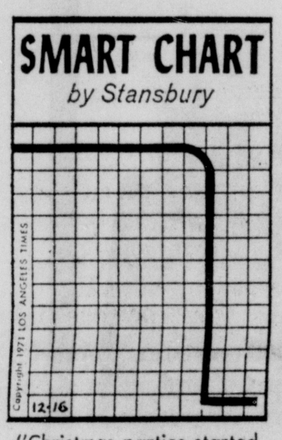
Mark the word "safety" across your shopping list, whether you're buying toys, power tools, garden implements or sporting goods.

Patronize reputable firms. Stores that use "bait 'n' switch" sales techniques during the year do so even more in December.

If you aren't sure of a store's policy on returning merchandise and you think an item may have to be exchanged, it's wise to get a written statement.



"Christmas parties started earlier this year."

Wall Street Confident Over News

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were strong in heavy trading through the first two hours today.

Analysts noted a growing confidence about business prospects for next year, as well as belief that forthcoming international monetary negotiations in Washington will lead to a new realignment of currencies.

Prices also gained in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were UIP Corp. fractionally higher on 41,000 shares, Kaiser Industries also slightly higher on 30,000 shares, and Champion Home Builders steady on more than 25,000 shares.

The news background also provided incentive for investors.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Wednesday that industrial production in November registered its biggest gain since last spring. It was regarded as cheering news to the Nixon administration which has said 1972 will be a good year.

IBM, the strongest spot on the New York Stock Exchange, rose 8 1-8. Corning Glass gained 6, Honeywell 4 1-2, and Burroughs, Natimas, Du Pont, and Walt Disney 2 or better.

Among the issues up a point or so were White Motor, Getty Oil, Eastman Kodak, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, Control Data, Magnavox, Zenith, and Levitz Furniture.

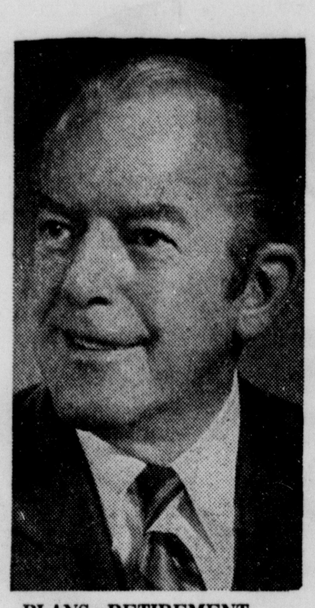
CHRISTMAS COMES TO NORTHGATE

Cold and frosty weather has set in, though not quite to the extent suggested by this scene at the fountain in the Northgate Mall. What nature has failed to accomplish man has done with Christmas decorations, giving the appearance of snow-like crystals, for the pleasure of shoppers and youngsters.



PLANS RETIREMENT — James J. Maloney of Peacock Gap will retire Jan. 1 as vice president of McKesson Liquor Co., a division of Foremost-McKesson, Inc. He joined the company, now the largest liquor wholesaler in the world, 31 years ago as a salesman. There is a possibility he will remain in the liquor industry in a consultant capacity.

Mutual Fund Listing Sometimes Not Given

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you advise how to find a price listing on Mutual Fund for Investing in U.S. Government Securities? I have been informed it is listed as MFD Gvt S or Mut FIUS Govt. but neither listing appears in this paper. — J.O.

A. I have noted two other listings for this fund: Fd U S Gvt Sec. and U S Gvt Sec. It is currently listed with asset value per share about $10.70. Your paper may not carry this particular fund, however. With approximately 450 load and 150 no-load funds now in business most papers attempt to print quotes only on a selective list of the most widely held funds.

Q. We are retired and want to invest $2,000 in U.S. Steel (NYSE) for its high dividend. If times become prosperous wouldn't this be worth considerably more in a few years? I.J.

A. U.S. Steel's reduced annual dividend rate of $1.60 a share at current price levels provides a yield of only 5.7 per cent. Thus if income is your major concern, you could do better elsewhere. As far as the possibility of cyclical recovery is concerned this premise has many supporters on Wall Street.

Consumers have been reducing strike-hedged steel inventories rather than increasing orders for new supplies. The 12.5 million tons of stockpiled steel have been reduced faster than anticipated suggesting a build-up in demand, which should generate recovery next year.

In the September quarter, Big Steel reported its first deficit in a strike-free period since the depression. Had the company not reduced its pension fund contribution the loss would have been almost triple the reported figure. However, if the Price Commission okays a boost for flat rolled steel prices to help offset the 15 per cent increase in employment costs, good gains could be seen in 1972 earnings. Share price recovery would be a logical expectation in an improving economic climate.

Novato Sets Record Building Permit Pace

Marin County building permits took a high turn last month, with the total valuation reaching $9,212,473 or 151.7 per cent above November of last year, according to figures supplied by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

For one community, Novato, it meant a new monthly record, surpassing its previous record last February. Builders rushing to beat the city's new bedroom tax on homes accounted for $2,952,905 within the corporate limits and another $648,565 in unincorporated areas. Almost the entire amounts were for residential permits, with Boise Cascade Building Co. and Condiotti Enterprises the big builders.

Mill Valley, in second place, also had a flurry of new permits totaling $2,274,345 for combined incorporated and unincorporated areas. But whereas Novato's residential building was for single family dwellings, Mill Valley's permits (largely residential) were for apartments and multiple units.

Fairfax attained a respectable figure of $1,430,270 in permits — all residential and miscellaneous. The Tiburon peninsula accounted for $462,282, about two-thirds residential and miscellaneous. San Rafael was below its October total by nearly 50 per cent, ending up with $426,299. About half of this was residential.

In other communities Larkspur recorded $376,200, mostly residential; Sausalito $69,232, 50 per cent residential; Corte Madera $57,650 all residential and miscellaneous; Ross $54,000 in miscellaneous permits; San Anselmo $51,578 mostly residential and miscellaneous; and Kentfield and Greenbrae $18,500, all miscellaneous. West Marin and other unincorporated areas reported a total of $390,647, largely residential.

Cumulative total for the 11 months now stands at $90.6 million, 90.7 per cent higher than last year's $47.5 million.

HOLIDAY WOE

The sign outside a residence at 100 Hawthorne Way, Santa Venetia, said it all yesterday after a thief made off with outdoor Christmas decorations. Although there was no one at the home — listed as the residence of Dale E. Robertson — to explain what actually had happened, it was obvious holiday spirits were dampened in one small part of Marin.

Two Robbed In Road Underpass

Two men complained to sheriff's deputies that they were threatened and robbed last Saturday night while walking through the Marin City underpass.

Hugh M. Miller of 1 Drake Avenue, Marin City, said he was walking from Sausalito to Marin City about 7:50 p.m. when two men about 20 years of age stopped him. He quoted them as saying, "Give us your money. Don't move or you'll be sorry." Miller said they took 42 cents, all the money he had.

That same evening, Mark Jeffrey Conlan, who lives on a boat at 240 Redwood Highway near Waldo Point, said he too was accosted by two young men, who knocked him down, kicked him in the face, and went through his wallet, taking $4.70.

Forgery Case Set For Trial

Debra Sheryl O'Bayley, 20, who gave her address as the Marin Open House in San Rafael, must stand trial in Marin Superior Court on check forgery charges.

After a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court, she was bound over to superior court to plead to the charges on Dec. 27.

Miss O'Bayley, arrested by San Rafael police on Nov. 17, is charged with forging $30 checks at Loch Lomond Pharmacy and at Northgate Drugs in San Rafael on Sept. 30.

Important News About the News Media for Advertisers and Agencies

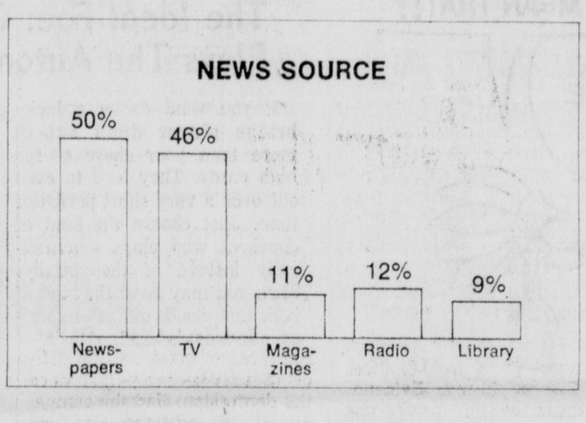
Today as never before, Americans need information—about events, about people, about products. Read how they use the news media to meet this need.

In March, 1971, Opinion Research Corporation was commissioned to find out how Americans gather the information they need to conduct their daily lives.

Here, from a nationwide sample of 2,023 men and women age 18 and over, are some of the key findings of that research.

1. When people want to find out about news they are very much interested in, they rely on the newspaper more than any other medium.

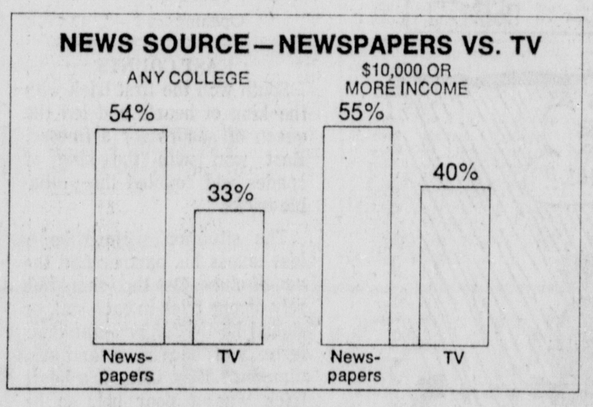
Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Suppose there is some news you are very much interested in. Where would you be most likely to find out all there is about it?" Here's how people answered:



Clearly, newspapers are America's prime medium for news. Only television comes close, and as we shall see, television does not come close among your best customers.

2. The newspapers' lead over television is greatest among the people advertisers want to reach most.

Asked the same question about news, people who had attended college named newspapers over television by a substantial 54% to 33% margin. Those with incomes of $10,000 or more gave newspapers a 55% to 40% advantage over television. Thus:



The high-spending 30-49 age group chose newspapers over television by 56% to 45%. Even among the 18-29 age group, supposedly "the television generation," newspapers were named as the news source for 46% of the sample compared to 40% for television.

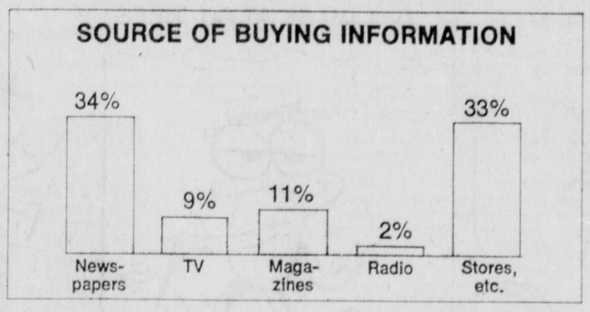
In fact, television led only among those with less than a high school education (55% to 43%), those with incomes under $5,000 (53% to 43%) and those age 50 or over (51% to 48%).

Your best customers, then, rely very heavily on newspapers for their news. But that's not all. Read on.

3. When people are ready to buy, they turn to newspapers for the facts they need by more than 3 to 1 over any other news medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "When you are ready to buy something, where are you most likely to find the kind of advertising that gives you the facts you want to know?"

Here's how people answered:



Obviously, when people actually start shopping for something in your product category, your advertisement had better be in the newspaper.

4. The most desirable prospects prefer newspapers over television even more strongly as a source of advertising information.

Among those with at least some college, newspapers outscored television by 27% to 4%.

People with incomes of $10,000 or more named newspapers over television by 30% to 6%.

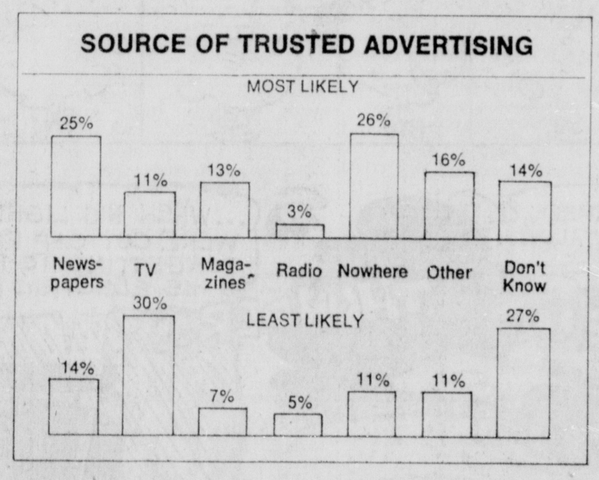
Among young adults (ages 18-29), newspapers led television by 28% to 6%.

Even among television's "best customers" (low-income, low education, age 50 and over), newspapers had a better than 2½ to 1 advantage.

No question about it. The more desirable the customer, the more likely he or she is to be looking for your advertisement—literally looking for it—in the newspaper.

5. People trust advertising in newspapers far more than in any other medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Where are you personally most likely to find advertising that can be trusted? And where are you least likely to?" Here's how people answered:



Trust in advertising is concentrated in newspapers, while distrust is even more strikingly concentrated on television. With today's growing need for believability, advertisers who use newspapers to carry their messages are getting an important advantage over television.

6. Key demographic groups trust newspaper advertising overwhelmingly compared to television advertising.

Once again, the better-educated, higher-income, more youthful groups give newspapers the widest margin over television.

	Most likely to find advertising that can be trusted		Least likely to find advertising that can be trusted
	Newspapers	TV	Newspapers	TV
Any college:	20%	5%	15%	42%
$10,000 + income:	23%	6%	13%	37%
Age 18-29:	21%	7%	17%	38%

These more sophisticated groups are far more suspicious of television, far more likely to believe what they see in a newspaper advertisement.

To summarize: Americans rely on the newspaper as their most complete, most trustworthy source of information, whether it is news or advertising. And the better the education and income level, the more this is true.

The findings of the Opinion Research Corporation are strongly confirmed by other equally unbiased statistical data.

Simmons '70, for example, reports that 78 out of every 100 adult Americans read at least one newspaper on the average weekday, far more than are exposed to any other news medium. Simmons also confirms the newspaper's leadership among "best customer" groups, too: daily readership is 87% among college graduates, 84% among those earning $10,000 or more, 86% among under-25 married couples.

While television ratings have dropped over the past five years, the newspaper business has never been healthier. In 1970, circulation increased to a record daily average of 62,107,527.

Advertising revenue is growing still faster. In fact, newspaper advertising revenue has consistently outpaced even the massive growth of the Gross National Product since 1945. In 1970, advertisers spent $5,745,000,000 on newspaper advertising, $3,665,000,000 on television, $1,323,000,000 in magazines, and $1,278,000,000 on radio. To put it another way, advertisers spent almost as much in newspapers, as in TV, magazines and radio combined.

Further, preliminary figures show that for the first 8 months of 1971 newspaper advertising revenues increased 6.6% overall, with national advertising up an impressive 12.7%.

As an advertising or marketing man, you might want to take an especially hard look at that last figure. Even national advertisers, wedded so long to the computerized cost per thousand efficiencies of television, are once again realizing that their customers are flesh-and-blood people rather than mere numbers. And that—as the Opinion Research Corporation study shows—the way people use the mass media is at least as important to an advertiser as simple exposure to advertising messages alone.

Retailers, whose advertising must produce traceable results in a day or two, have never forgotten this stern fact. They cannot hide behind exposure figures: they must have sales. That is why department stores quite wisely spend an overwhelming 80% of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

If you are not taking advantage of the newspaper's unique place in your customers' lives and overwhelmingly strong position as the Number One medium for news information and advertising information, let us show you how newspaper advertising can help you.

The complete results of the Opinion Research Corporation's study of the news media and how people use them have been summarized in a booklet, "News About The News Media." Ask your newspaper representative for a copy, or call or write this newspaper.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Ideal Foe: One That Plays The Automatic Game

If you want to be a lucky bridge player don't expect more than your share of the high cards. They tend to even out over a very short period of time. Just choose the kind of opponent who plays automatically instead of thoughtfully. Then you may have the kind of luck that South did not experience in today's hand.

EAST COUNTS

South won the first trick with the king of hearts and led the queen of spades for a finesse. East won with the king of spades and counted the probable tricks.

The situation seemed hopeless unless his partner had the ace of clubs. But then should he rely on one trick in each suit, or should he try for two diamonds instead of one heart and one diamond? East thought a heart trick was a poor bet, so he returned the three of diamonds.

West's ten forced out dummy's queen of diamonds, and declarer drew trumps and led clubs. West got in with the ace of clubs and led another diamond. East thereupon took two diamond tricks, defeating the contract.

POOR CHOICE

We can see immediately that South made a poor choice when he got in a game with an opponent like East. South played his cards badly, and East made the best of the underdog's position. Players like South should choose weaker players as their opponents.

South had the chance to put his game on ice if he had played the right black suit at the second trick. Instead of trying a trump finesse, South should lead clubs to knock out the ace.

NO PROFIT

When West gets in with the ace of clubs, it will do him no good to shift to diamonds. Declarer is in position to discard a diamond from dummy on the third club in his own hand. Only then can he afford to lead trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A 7 4 3
♥ - 7 6 4 2
♦ - K Q 5
♣ - K 8.
What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton enough for an optional opening bid, but you should resist the temptation to bid. You have nine very low cards, no long suit and a difficult hand to describe if you do choose to open the bidding.

Warning Issued On Coin Frauds

Fred Velten, manager of the Golden Gate Coins and Stamps in Town & Country Village, Strawberry, reports that he has many complaints of coin fraud.

Phony California gold pieces cost around eight cents each according to Velten, and are selling for $5 in bars and night-clubs.

If in doubt about any coins, have them appraised by a reputable dealer prior to making such purchases.

In a special effort to curtail potential coin frauds in Marin County, Velten has offered to examine any suspected coins without charge Monday through Saturday in the Village at Strawberry, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Yuletide: Why You Should Be Away

The eternal quest for the unique and different is fast becoming the greatest reason for spending Christmas away from home during the holidays, according to B.J. Talbot of Talbot of Tiburon, the travel service in Strawberry.

"Even though temperatures are hovering in the 80s, people still enjoy the contrast between their mainland homes and Christmas time in Hawaii," Talbot said.

A typical Christmas day may consist of church attendance of the individual's choice — or joining the Hawaiians in their native churches followed by a traditional breakfast, a stroll along the beach and the occasional sound of a ukelele playing Mele Kalikimaka (Merry Christmas).

As the spirit increases and the Christmas dinner hour approaches, one can see a red clad figure with beard flying approaching the beach on a surf board. Who else can it be but Santa Claus — the wool suit is substituted by a bathing suit and Santa is mighty brown for coming from the North Pole.

Sanata's arrival signals the commencement of the festivities with Christmas trees ablaze and good fellowship abounding everywhere. The hotels are decorated with trees and ornaments, and those fortunate visitors that have Hawaiian friends may have the good fortune to be invited to a Hawaiian Luau — a fitting climax to a day's festivities.

Mexico enjoys a growing popularity with the American tourist, particularly during the Christmas season. The shortness of distance and the contrasting way of life affords the visitor an opportunity to enjoy a delightful warm climate, superb beaches at relatively low cost. Those remote places like Zihuatanejo, Puerto Vallarta, and Cozumel all are filled to capacity for a two-week period. The Mexican observance of Christmas coupled with a natural love of Fiesta make Christmas in Mexico a memorable experience.

A TWA flight to Europe can take you to the "Old Country" — London, Christmas Day and Boxing Day and over the Channel to spend New Year's Eve in Paris. You can have the best of both worlds. Enjoy a traditional Dickens Christmas with roaring fires, plum pudding, candlelight buffets, Mad Hatter tea parties. Then over to Paris for New Year's festivities at the Moulin Rouge and Crazy Horse.

Handled properly, this elegant and continental experience with deluxe hotel accommodations and air fares included can be enjoyed for $1,235 per person reports Talbot, the travel specialist at Town & Country Village in Strawberry.

We provide special gifts for your special people. Christmas beauty arrangements for your favorite girls. Plant presents for your hostess gifts. Unique and beautiful tree ornaments and decorations.

Covered Walkways A Major Attraction

Shopping under covered walkways which protect from rain or inclement weather is one of the natural benefits of Strawberry. But there's something more at Christmas time. The Vilalge becomes transferred into a wonderful storyland of Yuletide tales told through the colorful picturebook windows of the many shops.

Most shops will be open every evening until Christmas, and many shops will be open Sundays too.

Waterbed Store Will Open Soon

Aqua-Rest of California will have its holiday opening on Saturday, Dec. 18, at 401 Town and Country Village in Strawberry.

Aqua-Rest will feature a complete line of waterbeds designed for every type of American home and decor. According to manager Michael Knapp, "We believe everyone in America will soon enjoy rest on waterbeds. They are the most comfortable type of bed and can be temperature regulated."

Originally youth-orientated, they now are popular with all ages.

"Aqua-Rest is the first manufacturer to produce a complete unit. Now, it's purchase today and sleep tonight on waterbeds."

Knapp began in the production division of his firm, was promoted to sales, and now is the factory representative for Northern California. He resides with his family in San Rafael. The regional office for Northern California is located at 2130 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Autograph Party Set At Center

Town & Country Village in Strawberry will host a special "Autograph Party" for Phil, The Mouse, fans at 2 p.m., Dec. 23.

Stanton Keeney, the visual creator and narrator for Pixie Productions, will be on hand to autograph first editions of the storybooks of "Phil, The Mouse Who Saved Christmas." Free gifts will be distributed by Phil to all boys and girls.

During this event judging of the many entries in Phil's coloring contest will take place, and the winners will be announced. The judges are Paul Fu, Ethelyn Telford, Ortrun Nierser and Aileen Reis. A $100 savings bond, Town & Country Village gift certificates and other prizes will be awarded winners.

Children may submit additional entries through Dec. 20. Entry blanks may be obtained at any shop in Town & Country Village.

Sony FM/AM desk radio

Touch the front chrome face of Sony's TFM-1849W and hear what happens? It plays FM or AM. Very powerfully too—thanks to Sony solid state circuitry. Now close the cover and the radio shuts off automatically. You'll find ingeniously concealed under the pop-up cover a control panel with a large slide rule dial for easy tuning, and FM, AM selection switch and a volume control dial for adjusting the sound. Plus a built-in FM antenna for drift-free FM and a ferrite bar antenna for AM. Very regal-looking in a rich walnut-like finish with gold accents. Wouldn't he just love one on his desk?

'Bathroom Has Become The Glamour Room Of House'

According to Jean Laudenback of Town & Country Village's Golden Cherub, "The bathroom has become the glamour room of the house."

The new trend is coordination with adjoining rooms whether bedroom, dressing room or hall. Many bathrooms are accented with color to compliment the tile and painted walls.

If wallpaper is used as the point of interest it is wise to choose three or four patterns and color combinations appealing to the individual. By asking your nearest wallpaper dealer to loan you the books of your choice, it is possible to have a reference guide available to take to the nearby bath shop. By examining combinations of wallpaper and stock items in the bath shop, time and money can be saved. No added expense will be involved for special made shower curtains.

Old Dutch And The English Christmas Customs Back Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Old Dutch and English Christmas customs are brought to life again in the beautiful lower Hudson River valley country made famous by Washington Irving.

Rip Van Winkle sleeps and the Headless Horseman rides again in the minds of visitors to three properties restored by Sleepy Hollow Restorations in the tradition of the two cultures that dominated when 13 colonies existed along the Atlantic seaboard.

Phillipsburg Manor, Upper Mills, in North Tarrytown, N.Y., displays Dutch pioneer life in the early 1700s. Van Cortlandt Manor, Croton-on Hudson, is a handsome late 18th Century manorial estate closely tied to the Revolutionary War era. The pleasant years of the mid-19th century are reflected in Washington Irving's home, Sunnyside, at Tarrytown.

Each famous landmark is decorated much as it was in the heyday of its owner and each echoes to Yuletide music as costumed hostesses trim Christmas trees, cook seasonal food and otherwise display the customs of its time.

Each famous landmark is decorated much as it was in the heyday of its owner and each echoes to Yuletide music of Christmastide. Because of their cultural intermingling, some customs will be observed at all properties but each has its individual chracter, easily perceived.

A good way to enjoy the differences and likenesses is to visit the oldest first.

Philipsburg Manor, the oldest, is an ancient stone house, square and simple of architecture, erected about 1680. The owner, Frederick Philipse, was a rugged Dutchman who once was the richest man in all New York. The gristmill near the house, run by water power, was the center of an early and important milling industry.

Santa Claus was called Sinterklaas by the Dutch and many things reminiscent of him include carrots and hay for his patient horse and three oranges to represent gold dowries he gave to three poor, but deserving, sisters.

There is cooking in the kitchens (one for the servants), bread on the table, and cookies and cakes.

Van Cortlandt Manor shows more of the English influence, although the family's origin was Dutch. Huge spiced cookies, shaped like the initials of the Van Cortlandt children, are spread out on the tables of the Old Parlor on the ground floor of the Manor House as they were in many Dutch homes. The hallway upstairs has a kissing bell, fashioned of evergreens with a clapper of mistletoe, as was the custom in old English homes.

Young hostesses play Christmas music on 18th Century instruments while their older associates prepare baked goods in the great beehive oven built into the downstairs kitchen fireplace. Others show arrangements of dry flowers, prepared in advance of winter's coming.

There is a special affection for the season at Sunnyside, reflecting Irving's own concern for the holiday. Even when away, serving his country as a diplomat in London and Madrid, the nation's first great man of letters always evinced great interest in the holiday.

One Christmas, while in Spain, Irving worried about whether his relatives back in the quaint little cottage on the Hudson's bank were remembering the old ways.

"I hope you kept up Christmas in the old style," he wrote his niece Sarah in 1843," and that the cottage was decked with evergreens. You must not let my absence cause you relaxations in the old rules and customs at the cottage; everything must go on the same as it did when I was there."

There are dozens of excerpts from letters and books written by Irving that tell how Sunnyside was decorated. The cottage door is festooned with greens and a Christmas tree, trimmed with cranberry and popcorn strings, sugar plums, tiny candles, and 19th Century ornaments stand in the parlor.

In the kitchen, guests see foods prepared and cooked in the big iron range, cookies baked in the oven. The odor of spiced apples cooking on top of the range greet the visitor even at the front door.

In the three famous landmarks, Christmas became a tradition that borrowed from the Dutch and English according to the flag that flew over New York when each was established.

Choral To Appear At Shop Center

On Dec. 19 at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m., the Walter Thomas Chorale will sing a selection of Christmas carols from around the world at the Town & Country Village shopping center in Mill Valley.

The Walter Thomas Chorale performs music from the past and the present in the most authentic presentation possible and as the composer intended.

Enhancing the natural beauty of the music with attention to accuracy, artistry, and excitement, is the goal for all performing artists within the organization, Thomas said.

Between performances, at 3 p.m., an ice cream party will be held for all children with Phil, The Mouse Who Saved Christmas, at the Village Sweet Shoppe in the Village.

The Strawberry Center — And Its Benefits

But there's something more pleasing at Christmastime — the Village becomes transferred into a storyland of Yuletide tales, told through the picturebook windows of the many shops.

It becomes a gaily decorated trip through a myriad of gift ideas. Most shops will be open every evening from now through Christmas. Many shops also will be open on Sundays.

Four New Shops Will Open Soon

Four exciting new shops which have just opened in Town & Country Village in Strawberry include: Eleanor Green's Dresscotheque, Littlechix, Gigi, Inc., and Alvin Duskin.

Eleanor Green, a dress manufacturer in San Francisco, now features one-of-a-kind dresses for Marin hostesses. She is featuring a line for holiday ocean cruises and Christmas entertaining. All dresses are custom-made from imported fabrics gathered during her world travels.

Littlechix has expanded its North Beach shop to Strawberry. Wayne Klugman and Charles Labue are the owners. They are excited with the response to their Christmas line which includes an array of long dresses in black and black and white along with their suede and furr trimmed coats.

Gigi, Inc., a junior fashion shop, is owned by the Cormans, Heymans, and Meuniers. Mini, or midi, you'll find either at Gigi's along with little bit of Paris. Gigi's hot pants, and boot-length "deau de peche" coats with hoods are leading gift items for the young college set.

Alvin Duskin brings a complete line of dresses of all lengths to Strawberry. Alvin Duskin is owned by Harry Shain, and carries a junior line of clothes sizes 3 to 13. The Strawberry shop carries the full Dukin line plus Hubba-Hubba, Utopia, Wrangler, Ardee, Foxy Lady and Plain Jane.

Alvin Duskin will introduce the Mary Quant Cosmetics line to Marin.

"The leading, popular colors this Christmas in Duskin creations are ultra-violet, establishmint, and caramel," said manager Aileen Reis of Sausalito.

Miss Reis, an artist, attended Tamalpais High School, and trained at the Hubba-Hubba on Polk Street in San Francisco.

Color In Men's Clothes — Demand Began After WW II

Just 300 years ago Europe's gentlemen were strolling about in colorful doublets and breeches set off with lace collars. Since that time color in men's wear has retreated to the mundane decor of a pallbearer.

Men's clothing and colors have been historically a mark of a man's station and indication of his trade. The first break in bleakness came following World War II with an explosive demand for colored sportswear. Vogue for sportswear has brought an inundation of bright shirts, slacks and jackets, and man's desire to express his personal color taste in what he wears.

"Mix and match is the new emphasis," reports Mrs. Zeplowitz of Carlton's in the Village. "It is essential that a man can mix his color combinations anyway he wants without clashing. At Carlton's we must constantly evaluate and analyze color trends."

Most men's wardrobes now include a liberal supply of sweaters, sport coats, sport shirts and T-shirts in keeping with the trend to casual living.

In any event, color in good taste is here. It makes men feel alive and asserts their individuality. With the freedom of color, men now require larger wardrobes. Brighter colors do not lend themselves to the solemn regularity of regulation blues, grays and browns.

A host of new colors and styles await Marin Christmas shoppers in the array of exciting men's apparel stores of Town & Country Village in Strawberry at C. Partan's, Carlton's, Giovanni's and Rawhide Leathers. Qualified sales staffs are always on hand to outfit man in his latest quest for a new personality in our ever changing world.

Old Battle: Seeking New And Different

Every Christmas perplexed shoppers seek the new and different to bestow upon their special people on Christmas morning.

A classic and traditional gift for men is coin jewelry. The leading coin gift for men is cufflinks while women enjoy special necklaces and charms of coin motifs.

While some silver dollar vintages are popular, most coins selected are made of gold in attractive mountings designed to protect the coins and accent their sculptured designs.

The U.S. coin in gold is the most popular with Mexican gold and gold British sovereigns also receiving wide acceptance.

Fred Velten of the Golden Gate Coin Shop in Town & Country Village, Strawberry, indicates that a new, contemporary item is now becoming very popular as a Christmas gift.

These items are the Christmas ingots and medals produced by the Franklin Mint, probably the leading private mint in the world, according to Velten. Private mints issue medals while only goverments mint coins.

The 1971 Christmas Ingot is the second of a distinguished series produced by the Franklin Mint. The detailed "Sleigh Scene," sculptured by Ernest Schroeder, was designed by James Farrell. It is now available at most leading coin shops in the Bay Area.

Rebel Bangla Desh Free, Indira Says

Pakistan Surrender Told; Yahya In Vow

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today announced unconditional surrender of the Pakistan forces in East Pakistan and proclaimed Bangla Desh a free nation. She also issued a unilateral ceasefire on the Western front where a major tank battle was under way.

"Dacca is now a free capital of a free country," Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament whose members cheered, shouted and pounded on their desks at news of the victory. "We have hailed the new nation at this historic moment... We hail the people of Bangla Desh."

Whether Pakistan would accept the Indian ceasefire was not known. Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, in a speech to his nation broadcast by Pakistan Radio at about the same time, said Pakistan would fight on to final victory.

Mrs. Gandhi's ceasefire was proclaimed for 8 p.m. Friday (9:30 a.m. EST). An Indian military spokesman reported what appeared to be the greatest tank battle of the 13-day war was still raging tonight along the southern border of Kashmir and that the Pakistanis had lost 40 tanks and the Indians 15.

But all major fighting in East Pakistan apparently came to a halt and Indian Defense Minister K.B. Lall announced that four members of the Bangla Desh government flew to Dacca today to form a transitional government.

The Pakistani garrison in East Pakistan was estimated at 60,000 to 80,000 men and military sources said loss of the entire garrison meant Pakistan had lost one fourth to one third of the combat forces at its disposal. The Pakistani air force in East Pakistani was knocked out days ago.

Lall said the terms of surrender provided that all Pakistani troops in the East would become prisoners of war. Government spokesmen said the question of repatriation would be one for negotiation between India and Pakistan "at such a time when the aggression against us stops."

The surrender agreement provided that all Pakistani land, air and naval forces as well as paramilitary forces and civil armed forces lay down their arms and surrender to troops under command of Lt. Gen. Jagjit Singh Aurora, the

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Compromise efforts were undertaken today to break a deadlock on foreign aid that has delayed adjournment of Congress. But no immediate solution yet appeared in sight.

As Senate leaders attempted to summon back to Washington half their members who started the holiday early, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said there had been a tentative agreement among senators on a compromise. But in the House, administration spokesmen said the plan was unacceptable.

It would allow aid spending at an annual level of $2.7 billion until Feb. 15, followed by a cutback to a rate of $1.5 billion until the temporary authorization expired March 15.

A vote is set for 11 a.m. EST Friday on a move to stop debate and to force a vote on the issue. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he had sent 50 telegrams to absent senators asking them to return to work.

Assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin said the aid foes were unwilling so far to agree on any compromise on the dispute.

Foreign aid reformers, led by Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, blocked a House-passed resolution to continue appropriations for the foreign aid program until March 15 while Congress decides the future of the program.

Fulbright and other members of his committee feel they got a raw deal from the House when the regular foreign aid authorization bill came up earlier in the session.

The House refused to submit to a vote Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment to the aid bill calling for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina within 60 days. As a consequence, the bill remained in a deadlock as Congress moved toward adjournment.

The continuing resolution—to keep aid alive on a temporary basis—then was moved through the House in an effort to sidestep the issue and give the aid program enough financing to service until Congress settles the issue next year.

Fulbright insisted that if any aid resolution passes at all, it will have to be drastically pared to keep the pressure on the house for a vote on the troop withdrawal next year.

Mercury Drops To A Frosty 25

A lingering cold snap sent temperatures plummeting to seasonal lows today in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties and there was no sign of a thaw.

Novato and Tamalpais Valley both reported an overnight low of 25, with heavy frost. It was 29 this morning in San Rafael and Petaluma. Temperatures recorded at other stations were 30 in Mill Valley, 31 in Larkspur and 33 in Belvedere and San Anselmo.

The National Weather Service said the cold spell would continue tonight.

STRAWBERRY TO RICHMOND

Two Held After Shots, Chase

Two Los Angeles men were captured at the toll plaza of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge today after a 10-mile chase which began when Marin sheriff's deputies interrupted a burglary in the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary were Willie James Hill, 32, and Laurence Alexander Lishey, 30. Deputies said they have reason to believe at least two other men involved in the burglary escaped from the fleeing van sometime during the pursuit.

Five Marin police agencies, including the California Highway Patrol, Marin City and Tiburon sheriff's substations and the Larkspur and San Rafael police departments participated in the pursuit. Richmond police, notified of the chase, set up the roadblock which finally stopped the van at the toll plaza.

Deputies said a silent burglary alarm about 4:40 a.m. tipped them that the C. Partan clothing store in Strawberry was being burglarized. Two officers, Russell Hunt and William Brown, approached the store and saw someone inside.

When deputies challenged the intruder, they said, one man ran out the door, followed by a second. Both jumped into a rental firm van parked nearby, according to officers, who said they fired four times at the fleeing van. Neither man was injured in the gunfire, officers said. Although one tire was shot out, deputies said, the vehicle continued along driving on the rim of one wheel.

The men drove south down Redwood Highway, then turned onto Highway 101 northbound, pursued by Hunt and Russell who had radioed ahead for assistance.

The disabled van next was spotted near Greenbrae and finally halted after a chase over the bridge by at least seven Marin patrol units.

Officers said the men offered no resistance when the vehicle was stopped at the roadblock. Several thousands of dollars worth of suits were found in the van, which had been rented in Los Angeles, deputies said.

Officers said they believed others were involved in the burglary attempt. A witness told them he saw a man jump out of the van and run into the bushes when it was stopped at the roadblock. A search of the area failed to turn up anyone.

Officers also said they did not think that two men working alone could have loaded so many suits into the van in the short time which elapsed between the alarm and arrival of deputies at the store.

Deputies said the store in which Partan Clothing is located has a history of burglaries. Before Partan rented the space more than two years ago, the business that occupied it, Banks Limited, was robbed on at least two occasions.

In today's attempt, officers said the store was entered by prying the front door open with a crowbar.

Hill and Lishey were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Donation To UBAC Drops $2 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blaming the sluggish economy and reluctance among donors to finance new anti-poverty programs, the United Bay Area Crusade reported Wednesday a 12 per cent drop in donations for 1971.

UBAC reported gifts of $15,095,158 this year, down from $17,038,000 in 1970.

This year's fund-raising revenue was the least since 1967 when $14,618,000 was collected. Last year's $17 million was the highest take in the history of the organization, whose roots are in separate crusades conducted in various parts of the Bay Area since 1954. These were combined in the single Bay Area crusade in 1966 upon recommendation of a citizens committee which conducted lengthy study.

UBAC chairman Jerome W. Hull said the smaller contributions would mean that the 200 charities the Crusade helps will experience about a 12 per cent decline in UBAC support.

"The bad shape of the economy, too much unemployment, all the strikes, and the wage freeze hurt our fund raising this year," campaign chairman Lawrence Hoyt said.

He also said some contributors were uneasy about supporting the Crusade's "New Directions" program, a collection of child care, drug abuse and community health centers in low income areas.

Bon Air Project May Be Stalled

By DAVID DIETZ

The Larkspur City Council, caught between another plan for a large apartment development and efforts to revise the community's general plan, indicated last night it will consider imposing a 90-day building moratorium in the city. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 10.)

It was a sudden development, since the matter was not on last night's agenda until Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. brought it up at the start of the meeting.

His proposal to discuss the ban at an adjourned meeting Dec. 28 won quick and unanimous endorsement from fellow councilmen present — Mayor Earl J. O'Grady, William G. Fleckles and Alfred Malvino.

If imposed, the ban would have direct effect on plans by a Southern California developer for what has been termed a "fortress-like" complex of 224 apartments on Bon Air Hill. The city planning commission, against the advice of city staff members, earlier this month rejected the development, proposed by Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills, as too dense, triggering an appeal to the city council.

The council last night also set Dec. 28 for a formal hearing on Larwin's protest, although forewarning a moratorium might be approved first.

Although the council this summer was urged to enact a ban at once in view of pending master plan changes, it decided merely to notify large property owners of the possibility of a

Separate Sanitation Plan Urged

By GEORGE NEVIN

Representatives of eight Southern Marin Sanitary agencies agreed last night that a sanitation district, not the Marin Municipal Water District, should take over waste treatment in the southeast part of the county.

The representatives, members of an advisory committee to Improvement District A, voted 5-3 to recommend that the water district create a new agency to build and maintain treatment facilities in Southern Marin.

Improvement District A, set up by the water district a little over a year ago to study consolidating the eight sewerage agencies, is empowered to work only up to the point of a bond issue.

Last night's resolution asks the water district board to dissolve Improvement District A and substitute Improvement District B, which could hold the bond election and build and maintain collection and treatment facilities until a consoli-

Red Commandos Storm Viet Town

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist commandos stormed a village on South Vietnam's central coast and killed or wounded 23 of its militia defenders before reinforcements broke up the attack, military sources said today.

The sources said 11 of the defenders were killed and 12 were wounded Wednesday in the attack on the Cat Nhon village, just outside Phu Cat and 255 miles northeast of Saigon. Losses taken by the Communist sapper force were unknown.

The United States earlier this month turned over its $35 million Phu Cat Airbase to the Vietnamese. Cat Nhon is five miles from the base.

A U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet crashed and burned today at Phnom Penh's Pochentong airport but the two crewmen parachuted to safety, military spokesmen here and in the Cambodian capital reported.

The $2.4 million aircraft, most expensive fighter-bomber in the U.S. Air Force, caught fire while on a bombing run over Cambodian territory, the U.S. command in Saigon reported. It was not immediately known whether the plane was hit by groundfire.

Two high-ranking Vietnamese police officials were wounded today when Communist guerrillas ambushed their jeep on a road 48 miles southeast of Saigon, military sources said. Two other officers also were wounded in the incident.

Among the wounded were the police chief for military region III—the 11 provinces around Saigon—and the police chief of Phuoc Tuy province, the sources said.

A team of U.S. Rangers today killed five Viet Cong in an ambush 58 miles northeast of Saigon in Long Khanh province, the sources said.

The weekly American casualty report issued today by the U.S. command showed two Americans killed and 56 wounded in Vietnam combat last week. Another 38 Americans died in nonhostile incidents, the command said, pushing noncombat deaths in the war past 10,000.

At least 30 of the "nonhostile" deaths were the result of a helicopter crash which killed 34 American servicemen, spokesmen said.

The command lists 45,619 Americans killed in action in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961, while another 302,353 have been wounded.

Military spokesmen in Saigon and Phnom Penh meanwhile said today at least 13 Communist troops had been slain in small encounters around the edge of the Chup rubber plantation in Eastern Cambodia.

Cambodian troops reentered the town of Suong at the southeast edge of the plantation near Highway 7, the Phnom Penh command said.

South Vietnamese paratroopers today reported killing four Communist soldiers in a clash eight miles northwest of Chrun and just inside the plantation, which spreads over 100 square miles.

Pope Acts On World Problems

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has taken "concrete" action in some countries where he feels peace and justice are seriously compromised, a Spanish churchman said today. He cited Northern Ireland and the Indian subcontinent as two examples.

"Not all of these initiatives succeeded," said Spanish Bishop Ramon Torrella Cascante, vice president of the Pontifical Commission on Justice and Peace.

In any case, he said, the Vatican could not comment on specific interventions for diplomatic and other reasons.

There have been reports the Pope had intervened in some way—most likely with appeals based on religious and humanitarian grounds—in several international and domestic conflicts. But the Vatican rarely comments, either to confirm or deny, such reports.

The day is observed Jan. 1, but the Pope's message was released today to give local Roman Catholic churchmen throughout the world time to incorporate it into their own observances.

In his message, the Pope assailed governments which practice religious, economic, social, cultural or national forms of injustice. He said without justice, peace is impossible.

The Pope did not identify any specific government in a message released today to mark the fifth World Day of Peace Jan. 1.

But Vatican sources said one of the Pope's targets was the Soviet Union, especially in its persecution of Ukrainian Catholics.

There also was indirect criticism of world powers which dominate poorer countries economically or politically. The Pope said part of the concept of justice was the right of every country to develop its own way free of political or economic restraints imposed by others.

Soviets In Public Support of Egypt

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Soviet Union will support any move by Egypt to resolve the Middle East crisis, by war or by peace, the Soviet ambassador to Cairo said today.

It was the first time a Soviet official has publicly endorsed President Anwar Sadat's declaration that a continuing deadlock in Middle East peace efforts left Egypt no option but to fight.

"We support Cairo's decision, whether it is for peace or the battle, because in either case it will lead to liquidation of the (Israeli) aggression," he said, according to the newspaper.

"If the solution is to be war we support you to make it a war with a minimum of losses. We shall stand with you always, in war and peace."

Sadat in November said "the time for battle has come" but added that war could be averted if Israel publicly stated it would withdraw from all occupied Egyptian territory.

The semiofficial Al Ahram newspaper said today the heads of state of Egypt, Syria and Libya will meet next week for talks on recent developments in the Mideast crisis.

Sadat of Egypt, Maj. Gen. Hafez Assad and Premier Col. Moammar Khadafy form the presidential council of the three-nation federation of Arab republics.

Earlier, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan offered to exchange 61 Egyptian prisoners of war for 10 Israelis.

Dayan made the offer late Wednesday night and set no limit to an Egyptian reply.

Israeli spokesmen in Tel Aviv said an Israeli patrol killed the deputy commander of an Arab guerrilla group in the occupied Gaza strip during a clash in an orange grove today. The guerrilla's girl friend died with him, a military spokesman said.

Muhmad Hamis El Batzili, deputy commander of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) and long on the Israeli wanted list, opened fire on an Israeli patrol combing an orange grove, the spokesman said. The patrol returned the fire and when the shooting stopped found Batzili and the daughter of the owner of the orange grove dead in a bunker.

After visiting an Israeli pilot exchanged Wednesday for 10 Egyptian prisoners of war in the first prisoner swap in the Middle East in eight months, an official Israeli statement said that Dayan made the following offer:

"Israel would be prepared to exchange all the Egyptian prisoners held in Israel in exchange for the Israelis in Egyptian captivity despite the numerical disparity between the two categories."

Suit Against College Fee Hike

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Fresno Free College Foundation filed an application in Superior Court here Tuesday to enter as a "friend of the court" in support of a suit filed by five foreign students against state college fee increases.

The foreign students' suit seeks to prevent state college trustees from levying foreign student fees which are more than three times the minimum rate set for non-resident American students.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Frazier Sentenced

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — John Linley Frazier turned his back to the judge and jury and calmly munched candy yesterday when he was sentenced to the gas chamber for shooting five persons and dumping their bodies into a swimming pool.

"If there ever was a proper death case, this is it," said prosecutor Peter Chang. Calling it Frazier's "masterpiece of horror," Chang said he would be willing to witness the execution.

Chang, when asked if he thought the 25-year-old high school dropout was mentally ill, replied: "No, I think he is a murderer, a callous murderer, and he got what he deserved."

The death penalty was announced late yesterday after four hours of consideration by the same jury of eight women and four men who had previously convicted Frazier of the murders.

Sniper Action

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Snipers wounded a British soldier in Belfast and scattered Christmas shoppers in Londonderry with a burst of gunfire aimed at three police car patrolmen today, security forces spokesmen said.

An army spokesman said the soldier sustained very serious stomach wounds when three gunmen fired at a mobile patrol in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area of Belfast in early morning darkness.

Land Moratorium

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A man who owns property throughout California has called for a statewide moratorium on rural land development.

Johnson C. Montgomery of Palo Alto, who owns land in 40 of the state's 58 counties, testified yesterday before a hearing of the Assembly Committee on Land Use.

"The population and pollution problem in California," he said, "are presently so serious that it is now necessary to enact statewide zoning laws."

Students Suing Over Fee Hike

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Superior Court hearing is scheduled for Jan. 26 in the case of five foreign students who filed suit to prevent an increase in state college fees for non-citizens.

Judge Robert A. Wenke issued a temporary restraining order Friday blocking the fee hike until he hears arguments from both sides on whether to bar the increase permanently.

The five who filed the suit are students at Fresno and Cal Tech. They contend that the proposed increased fees for foreign students would be more than three times those for California residents.

Lindsay To Enter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York will enter Democratic presidential primaries in seven states, the Washington Post said today.

The Post said Lindsay, Republican who switched to the Democratic Party this year, would enter primaries in Florida, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Indiana, Oregon, California and New York, but would skip the first primary in New Hampshire March 7.

A spokesman for Lindsay said in New York the report was "speculative and premature" and the mayor's campaign plans were still in the exploratory stage.

Arrests Daughter

DENVER (UPI) — Patrolman John L. Pinder, 38, a 15-year veteran on the Denver police force, arrested his daughter Wednesday on marijuana charges.

Pinder said he made an unexpected stop at his home and discovered his daughter, Connie, 18, and two men in the kitchen. When one of the men tried to hide something, Pinder became suspicious, investigated and discovered marijuana.

Pinder then told his daughter and the two men they were under arrest. One of the men fled. The girl and the man, Carlos R. de Aguero, 21, were taken to city jail for investigation of marijuana possession.

Stinson Beach Projects President Quits Post

Otto Reutinger, who has headed Stinson Beach Projects since its inception in August, has resigned as the group's president.

Attorney Michael Sanford will serve as interim president for the organization, at least until the group decides whether it wants to have a president or chairmen for each individual project, Reutinger said.

Stinson Beach Projects was formed to fight Stinson's inclusion with Bolinas in an $8.1 million sewage treatment and disposal system. The organization was successful in helping ti kill the large project and in electing two of its members tc the Stinson Beach County Water District board last month.

Reutinger said the group now plans to take on other community projects and plans drives for a youth center and to boost low water pressure in the community, particularly in summer months.

Reutinger said he will continue to be active in Stinson Beach Projects, but said he resigned as president because "I felt there was too much Reutinger around here." He explained that he is president of the Stinson Beach Community Center, of which the projects group is a member.

Novato Bike Thefts Spur New Rules

Novato Unified School District trustees, seeking to stop bicycle thefts from school grounds, has called for tighter security measures.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that 135 bicycles were stolen from school grounds during the first 10 months of this year.

Trustees ruled that as of Jan. 1 all bicycles must be registered with the Novato Police Department and must have locks, Bunker said.

The board, meeting Tuesday, also approved completion of the fenced enclosure for bicycles at Hill Junior High School, estimated to cost $300.

Bunker notified trustees that a new law requires school districts to make payments to local governments in lieu of taxes if they have sites that aren't being used for "school purposes."

The district has five unused sites, four elementary school and one junior high, totaling 63 acres. Bunker said the law probably would be challenged, probably by some Southern California district, as unconstitutional.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

FOOD SALES — Approved guidelines for volunteer food sales at elementary schools, such as hot dogs, but limited the sales to once a week at a school.

ETHNIC REPORT — Received a report that students from minority families comprise 9.7 per cent of the total enrollment, 1,123 of 11,559.

ADULT SCHOOL — Approved seven courses for the winter term of the adult evening high school, including a lecture series on "North Marin's Fight Against VD."

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Jan. 4 at Novato High School lecture hall.

OAKLAND (UPI) —Trans International Airlines has scheduled three special Christmas flights bringing GI's home from Vietnam for the holidays.

The flights are scheduled Dec. 13, 21 and 22 and the fare between Saigon and Chicago is $399, about $600 under the regular airline fare, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The flights were scheduled to accommodate GI's eligible for two-week holiday leave.

Church Files Suit Over Critical Book

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The publisher and author of a book titled "The Scandal of Scientology" were sued for $500,000 Wednesday by the Church of Scientology.

The church complained in a suit filed in Superior Court that the book contained "untrue, libelous and defamatory" statements about the church's leaders, doctrines, practices and financial affairs.

Convicts Win Points; Two Hostages Unhurt

YARDVILLE, N. J. (UPI)— Two hostages held more than 21 hours by 100 rebellious prisoners were released unharmed today when state officials agreed to make public inmate grievances over "Facist tactics of police brutality."

Guard Ira Friedman, 31, was released first by the prisoners about 9:45 a.m. The inmates later released prison official Richard Siedl, 36, after they heard a text of their grievances aired by area radio station.

Friedman and Siedl, an assistant superintendent of the Yardville Adult Reception and Youth Correction Center, were taken hostage about 3 p.m. Wednesday by the 100 inmates who took over a south wing of the institution, which the state has long held up as a model to the nation.

After the hostages were released the prisoners filed back to their cells in an orderly manner, prison officials said, ending their rebellion.

Although about 60 riot-equipped state police were on the grounds of the institution but they were not used.

The statement of grievances drawn up by the inmates was signed by Siedl and Albert C. Wagner, director of the state Division of Correction and Parole, who participated in night-long negotiations with the rebellious prisoners along with other officials.

The prisoners said one of their "fellow inmates" had been subjected to police brutality and was confined to the prison hospital.

They said that the officers who "were involved in this incident should be prosecuted immediately." The inmates demanded that the incident be investigated by "someone other than this institution's administration," and recommended an investigation by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Authorities said there had been continuing tension over the past week which was heightened Monday when an inmate was bitten in a dispute with another.

Sources said the prisoners were angered over alleged special preference accorded 40 prisoners transferred to Yardville from Rahway State Prison "for security reasons" following a Thanksgiving Day rebellion there. Those transfered were not involved in the disorder here.

Seafarers Picket Over Hospital Cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Members of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union today picketed the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office protesting proposals to close or transfer facilities of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco.

While the pickets marched outside, federal officials met to consider plans for the 357-bed hospital's future. HEW officials held closed meetings to discuss proposals from five groups which have submitted plans to take over the institution.

However, an HEW spokesman said proposals of the five groups had not met the department's requirements. Details of the proposals were unavailable, except for those of a consortium of Pacific Medical and St. Francis Hospitals.

The latter proposal calls for a phased takeover by the two-hospital group under a nonprofit corporation.

The proposal noted that it would cost an estimated $13 million to bring the hospital up to California codes.

The hospital presently, among other duties, cares for merchant seamen, Coast Guard personnel and other federal dependents. The consortium would handle, under the proposal, the hospital's monthly 425 in-patient admissions and 122,781 annual out-patient visits.

The proposed consortium plan also calls for special arrangements with hospitals at San Diego, Long Beach and Portland, Ore., to provide continued emergency care for seamen.

dated sanitation district comes into being.

John T. Schulte, project manager of the improvement district, said it could be anywhere from four months to a year before the recommended sanitation district is created.

Controversy has raged for months over whether a sanitary district (governed by elected directors), a sanitation district (governed by representatives of present sanitary districts and cities in Southern Marin) or the water district should provide treatment in the future. If the water district board accepts the recommendation, that question would be settled.

County Administrator John F. Barrows had recommended that virtually all Marin sanitary districts be dissolved and their functions transferred to the Marin Municipal and the North Marin water districts.

Involved in the proposed Southern Marin consolidation are the Richardson Bay, Homestead, Alto, Almonte and Sausalito-Marin City sanitary districts, the Kay Park Sewer Maintenance District, the Tamalpais Community Services District and the City of Mill Valley.

Exactly what collection and treatment facilities would be built remains undecided. A study commissioned by Improvement District A is due next Aug. 15, Schulte said.

A rough estimate of the cost of the facilities is $60 million, of which about $11.7 million would come from Southern Marin residents and the remainder from state and federal grants.

Advisory committee members also voted last night to recommend that the boundaries of the new improvement district be the same as those of the present one, except that the Tiburon Sanitary District and the City of Belvedere be included.

Those two areas decided not to join Improvement District A, but since have changed their minds, Schulte said.

PLAN

moratorium. That followed nearly a year's battle between defenders of property rights and conservationists over public right of access to Corte Madera Creek.

Earlier this year, in April, the council overrode the planning commission and heavy citizen opposition by approving construction of a 186-unit apartment development on the banks of the creek.

Pressure for a moratorium intensified with presentation of the Larwin plans, and Sydney H. Williams, the city's planning consultant, again raised the possibility of a ban in a memorandum on the Larwin project to the commission.

Moreover, Williams observed in his report that Bon Air Hill already was overdeveloped, and he suggested that the city investigate the possibility of a park at the top of the hill —site of Larwin's planned development.

Williams has been hired by the city to guide alterations in the 1966 master plan. The work, which began in October, is expected to take a year.

The city is confronted with new state laws requiring community provision for low and moderate income housing, as well as environmental elements. A new look at commercial zoning also is expected during the study.

The Dec. 28 date to discuss the ban and hear the Larwin appeal was set over the objections of members of the Larkspur Town Meeting group. Organization chairman Charles Brouse said many interested citizens would be out of town during the holiday season.

But the council pleaded a heavy meeting schedule in January.

In a matter related to master plan revision, the council set Jan. 28-29, at a site to be determined, for a citywide "development policy conference." Williams will present to the assembly — including city officials, representatives of various private and citizen groups and individual residents — an outline of development options for the community.

Results of the conference will lead to a draft of a public development policy, guiding master plan changes.

Greenbrae Suit Over Old Bills

Greenbrae Property Owners Association went to court yesterday to collect $10 and $15 annual maintenance fees from 10 homeowners allegedly four years in arrears. (See Larkspur City Council story, page 10.)

Attorney Richard S. Riede, representing the association, filed suits in Marin Superior Court against Robert L. Norman, Carolyn Joge, Vincent McGarry, Robert F. McCullough, Filomena M. Ranuio, Henry Peters, Jerry J. Torres, Joe H. Stewart, P. G. Meyer and Harris J. Stewart.

Riede said the nonpayers are only a small fraction of the property owners. He said he filed against the 10 because they are behind since 1968, and the statute of limitations runs out in four years.

Some homeowners in Greenbrae have been pushing for formation of an assessment district so that maintenance assessments can be collected as part of the property taxes instead of separately by the Greenbrae association.

In announcing the cease-fire on the Western front Mrs. Gandhi said India had no territorial aims and that it was time to halt the bloodshed. All India Radio said she had made the same statement in a letter to President Nixon who has accused India of being the major aggressor in the war.

She told Nixon that India wants lasting peace with Pakistan and that during the last 24 years she and her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, had offered Pakistan a pact of nonaggression many times but that each time Pakistan rejected it out of hand.

She said she was writing to President Nixon in a moment of deep agony at the unhappy turn which relations between India and the United States had taken.

Mrs. Gandhi went before the lower house of Parliament and told the cheering legislators that West Pakistan forces had unconditionally surrendered in East Pakistan and that "Dacca is now a free capital of a free country."

Her cease-fire announcement came shortly afterward.

"We have repeatedly declared that India has no territorial ambitions," Mrs. Gandhi said. "Now that the Pakistan armed forces have surrendered in Bangla Desh and Bangla Desh is free, it is pointless in our view to continue the present conflict.

"Therefore, in order to stop further bloodshed and unecessury loss of life we have ordered our armed forces to cease fire everywhere on the Western front as of 8 p.m. tomorrow 17th December 1971 (9:30 a.m. EST Friday)."

"It is our earnest hope that there will be a corresponding immediate response from the government of Pakistan. . ."

The announcement said the Indian foreign minister had been instructed to make the announcement tonight in the United Nations where the Soviet Union has vetoed three cease-fire resolutions —a move Pakistan said was aimed at letting India win all of East Pakistan and perhaps the West as well.

Mrs. Gandhi, wearing a yellow shawl over a white sari, stood in the place of her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, in the Lok Sabha, India's lower house of Parliament, and told of the great victory in precise, patrician English.

"We have hailed the new nation at this historic moment," she said. "...We hail the people of Bangla Desh." Bangla Desh, meaning Bengal Homeland, is the name chosen by the rebels who rose against the Yahya Khan government.

Yahya Khan acknowledged the loss of East Pakistan and told his nation, "But if we fall back from one front, this does not mean that we have lost the war. We shall eventually conquer. . . The people of Pakistan will not rest until we have thrown the enemy out of our country."

Yahya Khan said Pakistan was prepared to accept any suggestions that may decide the present conflict in the interest of Pakistan's integrity. He appealed to the big powers to act.

Law Would Solve Canal Disputes

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation designed to resolve years-old boundary disputes along San Rafael Canal has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, AB 2111, by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, authorizes the State Lands Commission and City of San Rafael to swap property with private owners in order to settle the disputes.

Bagley also won passage last year of a bill aimed at settling the disputes, but the lands commission staff later claimed that the measure was not broad enough to allow the city to make the property swaps.

The state granted creek tidelands to the city many years ago, but the boundaries became the subject of complex lawsuits in later years because the original boundaries never were officially determined. Complicating the disputes was subsequent realignment of the canal.

Lawsuits along the canal have involved the Marin Municipal Water District, City of San Rafael, Marin Yacht Club and other entities.

A spokesman for Bagley said this year's bill "will do the job." The lands commission had "no more excuses" not to settle the disputes, he said.

Couple Injured In Parking Lot

A Novato couple was injured yesterday when their auto was struck by another in the parking lot of Lyon's Restaurant at Northgate Shopping Center, San Rafael police reported today.

William G. and Julia Huston of 665 Marin Oaks Drive, were to seek treatment for unspecified injuries from their own physician following the 6 p.m. accident, officers said.

Their auto was struck by one driven by Margaret M. Johnston of New Westminister, B.C., as she backed out of a parking space.

The first cloverleaf traffic interchange was built in New Jersey in 1928, says the National Automobile Club.

OBITUARIES

HELEN BLOOD

Private funeral was held in Sacramento yesterday for Helen Crocker Blood, mother of Carol Anne McDevitt and sister of building contractor and restarauteur Herbert A. Crocker, both of San Rafael.

Mrs. Blood, 68, of Sacramento, member of a pioneer Bay Area family and an authority on Great Dane dogs, died Tuesday in a Sacramento hospital, after a long illness.

Mrs. Blood, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Crocker, was born in San Francisco and educated at Miss Hamlin's School in that city.

With her husband, James, whom she married in 1925, Mrs Blood ran the Crockerly Kennels. The couple exhibited champion dogs throughout the U.S. and Europe.

She authored many articles in national dog magazines and was recognized as an authority on Great Dane blood lines.

Mrs. Blood, who served as both president and secretary of the Great Dane Club of Northern California, once was honored as the country's top dog breeder.

Survivors, besides her daughter and brother, are another daughter, Judith Marilyn Bush of Hillsborough and six grandchildren.

The family has requested memorial gifts to the Sacramento Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, 2117 Front Street, Sacramento.

SADIE ROCHFORT

Funeral for Sadie Rochfort, a Marin resident for 77 years, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Redwood Chapel in Novato.

Mrs. Rochfort died Tuesday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness. She was 95.

Born in Ireland, she moved to Marin in 1894. She moved to Novato in 1955 after living in San Rafael.

She was a member of the Novato Presbyterian Church.

Her husband, Arthur H. Rochfort, a manager of resort hotels, died in 1919.

Surviving her are two sisters, Jane Donohue and Minnie King, both of Novato.

Burial will be in the family plot at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park in Colma.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Cancer Fund.

WILLIAM DAVIDSON

Private funeral was held today in San Anselmo for William B. Davidson, former Marinite and retired marine engineer for the United Fruit Co.

Davidson, 81, died Sunday in a convalescent hospital in Pacifica after a short illness.

Born in Scotland, Davidson lived in New York before moving West during World War II. He served as a lieutenant junior grade in the Navy between 1942 and 1948.

Davidson lived in Fairfax and San Anselmo for about 22 years, moving to San Francisco three years ago.

He worked for United Fruit both in New York and San Francisco, and was a life member of Sir George Cathcart No. 617, Grand Lodge of Scotland, Free and Accepted Masons.

Surviving is a son, David H. Davidson of San Francisco.

Inurnment was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

W. W. HEINTS

Deputy coroner Bill J. Thomas reported that Heints, who had a history of heart disease, was discovered dead in a chair at his home at 8 a.m. by his wife, Bette. He lived at 774 St. Francis Drive.

Heints was last seen alive at 10 p.m. yesterday when his wife went to bed and he stayed up to watch television, Thomas said. When he was discovered in the morning, the television set was still on.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato under the auspices of Hamilton Masonic Lodge 751. Private burial will follow.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Masonic Building Association or a favorite charity.

MRS. KRISTENSEN

Henrietta Kristensen, 80, died yesterday after collapsing at the San Rafael home of her son, Capt. Andrew M. Kristensen of the San Francisco Police Department. She was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. Kristensen, a native of Essen, Germany, had lived in San Francisco for 50 years. For the past few months she had been staying in Marin with Captain Kristensen and her other son, Leonard M. Kristensen of Fairfax.

She was the widow of Andreas Kristensen.

Mrs. Kristensen belonged to the International Order of Foresters, San Francisco Chapter.

In addition to her two sons, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Helen Skerke of Redding and nine grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Burial will be private.

The family prefers contributions to the Marin County Heart Association.

Dollar Weak In Europe, Hits New Low In France

LONDON (UPI)—The U.S. dollar fell to a new low in France and remained weak in a quiet start to trading in Europe's main money markets today.

The U.S. currency also dipped to a new low in Japan, where trading was heavy.

Operators were preferring wait-and-see tactics in London, Frankfurt and Zurich in advance of the weekend Washington talks on the monetary crisis among the 10 richest industrial nations in the non-Communist world, bankers said.

In the view of some European politicians and financiers these talks could find an outline agreement on the scope of the realignment of major currency values since President Nixon at the Franco-American Azores meeting expressed U.S. readiness to devalue the dollar as part of a money-and-trade package.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing who participated in the Azores meeting said Nixon agreed to abolish the 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. imports immediately if the Western nations realigned their currency values. He told French labor, farming and basiness groups the French economy would suffer in no way through the future readjustment of currency values.

In the Paris market the dollar fell to its lowest price since the August, 1969, devaluation of the French franc. In early deals between banks the financial or speculative dollar changed hands at 5.25 francs, a dollar devaluation of 5 per cent from its original official rate.

On Wednesday the financial franc closed at 5.30 francs. The commercial French franc, which is strictly controlled by the government, stayed strong and this pinned the dollar down at its agreed "floor" of 5.5125 francs.

In Spain the foreign exchange market closed after only two hours of trading and banking sources blamed the closure on the imminent devaluation of the dollar.

In Frankfurt trading turned slow in anticipation of the weekend top-level money talks. The dollar opened trading today fractionally higher at 3.2520 marks in very light trading, representing a 12.5 per cent upward revaluation of the mark compared with its pre-May official exchange rate.

The U.S. currency started at 2.5199 to the pound, slightly lower than Wednesday's closing level but better than the four year low point of 2.5201 to the pound seen Wednesday, the worst since the sterling devaluation in 1967.

Relatively quiet conditions ruled in Zurich where Swiss bankers marked the dollar lower at first and then edged its price slightly higher. It steadied at 3.8865 Swiss francs, or a dollar devaluation there of 4.74 per cent.

In Belgium the dollar inched slightly higher to 45.535 francs or 8.93 per cent below the former official parity. The Dutch market followed a similar pattern and the dollar moved up to 3.27125 guilders, or a 9.63 per cent dollar devaluation.

In Japan—one of the key currencies in any realignment—the dollar skidded again in heavy trading to its lowest since the yen was "floated" at the end of August. The dollar dropped to 321.40 yen, down more than 12 per cent from its old official value of 360 yen.

'Group Of 10' Dollar Talks Begin Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When administration officials enter crucial negotiations with the United States' chief trading partners in Washington this weekend, they will have the support of Democratic and Republican congressional leaders for an agreement to devalue the dollar.

The congressional leaders met with President Nixon for one hour and 15 minutes Wednesday. When they emerged from the White House cabinet room, they said Congress will approve devaluation by raising the official price of gold whenever the administration asks for it.

"We think it is a step in the right direction (and) beneficial to the U.S. economy," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House Republican leader, said he believed the Congress would "respond accordingly" if the negotiations show progress.

The weekend meeting will involve finance ministers of the 10 richest nations of the non-Communist world.

Nixon announced Tuesday after meeting with French President Georges Pompidou in the Azores that the United States would work toward devaluation of the dollar.

Wednesday, Treasury Department officials made clear the Nixon decision to accept devaluation was "very much a package" with a lowering of foreign trade barriers and an allied sharing of overseas defense costs as part of a general realignment of world currency values.

The officials said the package will be the main point of bargaining at the "group of ten" meeting Friday and Saturday at the Smithsonian Institution.

If all goes well, Mansfield said, the negotiations may be "wrapped up" this weekend with final agreement on a new world monetary system that the United States hopes will help reverse its balance of payments deficit.

Devaluation is expected to be as much as 8 per cent. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has promised devaluation will be made through a "direct request to the Congress." It is expected to be sought sometime next year.

The dollar will remain as "good as it was" after devaluation, Mansfield said. He said it was essentially a bookkeeping tactic and that there would be little or no impact on domestic prices, except for imported goods.

Burglary 'Conspiracy' Trial Set

Three men accused of trying to burglarize the La Camembert restaurant in Tamalpais Valley last month must stand trial in Marin Superior Court.

After a preliminary hearing Tuesday, Judge David Menary of Marin Municipal Court ordered the men to appear on Jan. 10 in Marin Superior Court to face trial.

Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City; Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, and Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael, were arrested Nov. 29 by sheriff's deputies, who said the trio was crouched behind the restaurant shortly after midnight with nylon stockings on their heads.

All three are charged with attempting to burglarize the restaurant and conspiring to commit theft. In addition, Adams is charged with concealing stolen property, and Stringer and Jackson with possession of marijuana.

110,000 Empty Slots In Colleges

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A decrease in freshman enrollment has left as many as 110,000 empty places in America's 1,500 colleges and universities, but minority group enrollment increased dramatically. The carnegie commission on higher education said in a report Wednesday that the economic recession and a poor job market were possible reasons for the 1971 freshman rollback.

Despite the total drop, there was an increase in the proportion of black, Spanish-surname and women students, the report said.

The enrollment of black students in four-year institutions increased by 15 per cent and the enrollment of Spanish-surname persons by 25 per cent. Freshmen women increased by 2 per cent, the commission said.

Estimates were based on questionaires sent to 444 four-year institutions which reported 40,600 unfilled freshman places, more than half at private colleges.

"This drop in freshman enrollment in four-year institutions follows slowing down in the rate of increases in freshman enrollment in 1969 and 1970 and probably reflects, at least in part, the influence of economic recession," said Dr. Clark Kerr, chairman of the commission.

The report, which included both public and private schools, said some of the competition for freshman came from two-year colleges, which showed an 8 per cent increase in total enrollment, a big percentage of which was minorities.

Among graduate students, where enrollment was up slightly, there was a 35 per cent increase in blacks and a 26 per cent jump in Spanish-surname student enrollments. The number of women increased 9 per cent compared with 4 per cent by men.

Kerr said that where enrollment increases were reported, registrars attributed them to expanded programs and increased student interest in particular subjects. Where enrollments declined, registrars cited the economic situation and decreased job opportunities.

Major undergraduate academic and professional fields reportedly losing enrollments were engineering, down 17 per cent; ethnic studies, down 12 per cent; and education, down 9 per cent. Gaining enrollments at the undergraduate level were social work, nursing, urban studies, city planning and forestry.

Frankie Laine Will Aid Seventh Step

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Singer Frankie Laine said Wednesday he will conduct radiothons and telethons across the country in the next several months to raise funds for the 7th Step Foundation, an organization which aids ex-convicts.

Proceeds will benefit the San Francisco chapter, Laine said. There are 32 chapters nationally, about half of them in California. Persons released from prison are counselled, given shelter and helped to find employment.

Quentin Guard Denies Charges

A newly hired San Quentin guard, charged with smuggling dangerous drugs and alcohol into the prison, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

He is Samuel Thomas Jr., 28, of Richmond, who was hired by the prison in September and arrested as he reported to work on Dec. 1. He is charged with bringing alcohol, benzedrine and Seconal into prison and possessing dangerous drugs within a prison.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court set a preliminary hearing for Thomas on Dec. 28.

Stop Smog Group Loses Ground On Penalty Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A campaign to fine industrial polluters and force them to shut down during breakdowns of smog controls lost more ground yesterday.

The Stop Smog Committee and North Richmond Neighborhood Council had made headway in their campaign last month when they convinced an ad hoc committee of the advisory council of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to forward their proposals to the council.

The council, however, sent them right back to the ad hoc committee, saying further study was needed before acting on the proposals which, in effect, demand a reversal of district regulations and policy.

The ad hoc committee on upset and breakdown, meeting yesterday for the first time since the council returned the issue to it on Nov. 23, in turn kicked it back down to the staff for "more detailed information."

Committee member Charles W. Graham, utility manager for the Dow Chemical Co. in Pittsburg, who consistently has opposed the citizen groups' proposals, said "we need facts first to act."

The target of the proposals are district regulations which now allow industry to continue operations during a breakdown of smog controls or upset of processing. It has been district practice to impose no fine or other penalty on the industry creating pollution if the industry shows it was accidental and not due to negligence.

Committee member Walter Toney, director of the Berkeley Parks and Recreation Department, has been supporting the citizen groups' campaign, but agreed to the indefinite postponement yesterday pending the staff information.

The district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said he could not estimate for a week how long it will take the staff to gather data asked by the committee. The data includes an itemized report of every breakdown or upset for four months last year, with engineering estimates of the additional pollution each caused.

Toney has been pushing a proposal somewhat more moderate than the citizen groups want, asking only that the burden of proof of violations shift from Callaghan to the industry. Present regulations leave Callaghan "too much leeway," Toney said.

Graham argued that "more violations don't necessarily produce better air conditions," but Edward Groth III, a member of the advisory council, noted that violation notices did not necessarily result in a penalty, "so why not make all upsets and breakdowns violations?"

The district's supervising inspector, Thomas Brennan, reported that a rundown survey of 1,032 upsets and breakdowns reported in 1970 by major industries found 407 lasted less than one hour, 233 were one to four hours, 386 were four hours to a week, and six took longer than a week to repair.

He did not know how many of the 1,032 resulted in violations notices.

Toney, demanding details on how many of the reported malfunctions resulted in violation notices by district inspectors, said "the issue here is the proper management and function of the district."

Callaghan added that his own judgement was the target of the citizens groups' proposals.

Another reason was offered by Groth, who said the "aesthetic impact" of breakdowns was the issue because they produce such visible pollution.

The chairman of the advisory council, Edward I. Murphy of the San Francisco Planning Department, said he will advise district directors that the committee needs more time to review the upset and breakdown procedures. The board of directors had asked that the committee's recommendation come before them on Jan. 5.

Danes Face Reaction To Salmon Overkill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has sent President Nixon legislation which would allow him to stop all fish imports from Denmark if that country continues to disregard international quotas on its catches on Atlantic salmon.

Denmark exports $10.5 million worth of fish to the United States each year. The Senate Commerce Committee, which originated the legislation, said action was needed because unrestricted catches are threatening salmon in the North Atlantic.

Army Closing Two Centers At Fort Lewis

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI)— The Army will close the Ft. Lewis infantry and personnel centers, which were opened in 1966 to meet troop demands of the Vietnam War.

Officials said Wednesday a reduced number of men entering the Army and a cutback in the need for overseas replacements led to the decision to shut down the center.

The base, a key center during World War II, said nearly 300,000 infantrymen have graduated from the training centers during the past five years, including 230,000 who completed basic training and 67,000 who went through a special, nine week Vietnam-oriented advanced course.

The closure will affect about 3,000 military personnel and 52 civilian federal employes.

Students Collect Ton Of Food For Needy

More than a ton of canned goods was collected in a drive that ended yesterday at Terra Linda High School.

The mountain of canned food — 2,860 pounds — was to be picked up today by Marin Economic Opportunity Council workers for distribution by EOC to needy persons at Christmas.

The drive was sponsored by Interact, a student service organization sponsored by the Terra Linda Rotary club.

According to guidance counselor W. Scott Hayes, faculty advisor to Interact at the high school, fourth period classes at the school competed in the drive, with a class party promised to the class that brought in the most cans.

The competition, which began Monday and ended yesterday, was based on weight of cans, rather than the number of cans, Hayes said.

He said he expected contributions to continue, even though the class competition ended yesterday, and said he thought the total would be more than 3,000 pounds.

Earth Wired For "Tilt" Warning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Earth is being wired to read "tilt" like a pinball machine.

A "tilt-meter" will soon be lowered more than 5,000 feet down an abandoned oil well in the Baldwin hills district by Dr. Ta-Liang Teng of the California Institute of Technology.

Some scientists believe the earth tilts slightly before earthquakes and a study of the tilting might provide information that would help develop a method of predicting quakes, Teng said.

CALLING ALL
CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

Going Steady

If you take a look at the average roll of film shot by the amateur photographer, the problem that shows up most often is unwanted movement. With the fast films and shutter speeds available today, that usually means not that the subject moved, but that the camera did.

Whenever possible, the serious photographer will always give himself the advantage of a tripod . . . the one way to be sure you won't get camera motion or "jiggle" that will show up in the picture.

There's a tendency always to go for the very lightest and smallest tripod, just because it's easier to carry, but the experts will tell you just the opposite: buy a tripod that is heavier and bigger than you think you need. It'll do a better job of helping you go steady.

Tripods, gadget bags and other photographic accessories make ideal gifts for the enthusiastic camera fan. Right now our displays are overflowing with great gift ideas. Come in and shop for Christmas at

Cuba Admits To Capture Of Ship

MIAMI (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's government admitted in a Cuban Radio broadcast today that it captured a Miami-based cargo ship in the Bahamas and warned that its gunboats will "go any distance from our coast" to seize "pirate ships."

"The entire responsibility for this situation belongs to the government of the United States as principal author and inspiration of such acts of banditry," said the broadcast monitored in Miami.

The broadcast said the 1,400-ton freighter Johnny Express, owned by Cuban exiles and flying the Panamanian flag, was captured about 120 miles from the eastern coast of Cuba Wednesday. The Johnny Expresshad radioed that it was being attacked by Cuban gunboats and many of its crewmen wounded by machinegun fire.

"One of our Cuban naval units that stands guard against pirate ships that have harrassed our territory at the service of the CIA captured the ship Johnny Express when it refused to obey an order to heave to for boarding," the Cuban Radio broadcast said.

The broadcast said that a pirate launch attacked the "humble village of Sama" on Cuba's eastern coast on Oct. 12, killing several persons and severely wounding others, including a little girl whose leg had to be amputated.

The broadcast said this was one of a dozen similar crimes committed against Cuba by pirate ships.

"Cuba will not hesitate to act at any distance from our coast where these pirate ships are operating and under whatever flag or camouflage they are carrying out their crimes against our nation," the broadcast warned.

Cuban Radio said the Johnny Express was being escorted to a port in Oriente Province.

Jose Villa, captain of the Johnny Express, had issued a dramatic call for help before his radio went dead. Villa, 55, a naturalized U.S. citizen living in Miami, said he and three other crewmen were badly wounded by gunfire and he pleaded for help from the U.S. Coast Guard.

"I'm dying, Chico (boy or buddy). Tell them to come quick," He said. His words were interrupted by the sound of gunfire.

"The deck is full of blood from the wounded," Villa cried. "We've got dead and wounded." It was impossible to get an exact account of the casualties before the radio went dead.

The Coast Guard dispatched a plane and helicopter to the scene to aid the wounded but re-called them after receiving word the freighter was being escorted to an unnamed Cuban port where Cuban authorities would care for the wounded.

The Coast Guard and the Defense Department in Washington made it clear that the only American interest was aiding the injured, since the Johnny Express flies the Panamanian flag and the incident happened outside U.S. waters.

The attack occurred two miles northwest of Little Inagua Island in the Bahamas, more than 100 miles from the eastern coast of Cuba.

Villa was the only American citizen aboard. The other crewmen were nine Dominicans, two Haitians and two Spaniards.

Forgery, Check Charges Denied

Robert Lee Smith, 38, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of forgery and passing a bad check.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 28 for preliminary hearing.

Smith was arrested by Novato police Friday and accused of passing several checks totalling $278 at the Roger Wilco market and the Regan Shell Service Station in Novato.

He was charged with three counts of forgery and one count of passing a bad check.

'Top' Poker Player Out Of Retirement

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—John H. Moss, described by many as the best poker player in the world, has won preliminary approval to become the cardroom manager at the Horseshoe Club in Las Vegas.

The State Gaming Control Board recommended Wednesday that Moss be licensed for the job. Moss, who comes from Texas, said he had retired for a year but had "become old" doing nothing and he wanted to get back in action.

$20,000 Aid To The Needy

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—The gambling industry has pledged to donate $20,000 for the poor and needy at Christmas.

The Nevada Resort Association pledged the money Wednesday to the Ad Hoc Committee for Christmas Food for the Needy. The pledge boosted the total commitment to $25,000.

The money will be used to buy a thousand food vouchers which when used, including discounts, will be worth $28,000 or about $28 each.

Parking Meter Theft Case Guilty Plea

Solomon Marquez Jr., 31, of San Francisco, accused last February of trying to steal $400 in parking meter money from Sausalito city hall, has pleaded guilty to grand theft.

Marquez admitted the theft on Tuesday in Marin Superior Court before Judge E. Warren McGuire. The judge set Jan. 17 as the time to sentence Marquez.

Ferry To Be In Operation By Tomorrow

The ferry Golden Gate which developed rudder trouble yesterday should be back in service tomorrow, according to the general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Dale W. Luehring said today that buses had been substituted for all ferry runs since the rudder trouble was discovered on the 3:25 p.m. trip from Sausalito.

The skipper managed to dock the boat safely in San Francisco after the steering mechanism failed to respond by making adjustments in the speed of the twin engines.

Luehring said the trouble was in the shaft and a newly designed shaft was being installed today which should make the rudder more efficient.

He expected the work to be done today but said the ferry probably wouldn't sail until tomorrow.

Multiple Warhead Missiles Installed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Air Force has finished installing 150 multiple warhead missiles — called MIRVS — at Minot AFB, N.D.

Each Minuteman III missile has three warheads which are launched as a cluster but which can then be sent independently against separate targets.

Tiburon Annexation Foes Revive Group

Residents of three fringe areas of Tiburon who successfully fought annexation to the city Oct. 19 met again last night to plot strategy against Tiburon's latest annexation bid.

According to Trudy de la Fontaine, co-chairman of the old Strawberry Anti-Annexation Committee, about 25 residents of Bel Aire, Eagle Rock and Strawberry met at the Strawberry community building to map plans.

The Tiburon City Council voted Monday to ask the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission for permission to annex 608 acres of technically uninhabited land to the city, including 411 acres in Strawberry.

If the commission gives approval, the city must hold a hearing. The annexation will be approved if the owners of less than half the assessed valuation of the land involved protest.

Mrs. de la Fontaine said the group renamed itself the Strawberry Area Community Council and pledged not only to fight annexation but also to take an active role in planning of the area.

She said another meeting will be held at an unspecified date in January when new officers will be elected and final battle plans formulated for the confrontation at the local agency formation commission meeting Jan. 12.

Pending election of officers, Mrs. de la Fontaine said she, Lois Bahn and Pat Jeremiah will continue to serve as co-chairmen of the citizens group.

Watchdog subcommittees to keep an eye on the Marin County Board of Supervisors and the county planning commission also will be named at the January meeting, said Mrs. de la Fontaine.

Wood fiber materials account for about 60 per cent of the urban waste produced in the United States, says National Geographic.

Year-Round Plans Due Joint View

The parks and recreation commissions of Corte Madera and Larkspur have set a joint meeting to discuss a year-round joint recreation program.

The Corte Madera commission last night scheduled the meeting for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 19 at Corte Madera Town Hall, according to Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation director.

Talk of combining recreation programs has been circulating in the two town's for years, but so far only the summer programs have been combined, she said.

In other action, Mrs. Branch said the board accepted the resignation of Shirley A. Walker to devote her time to her seat on the Larkspur School District Board, supported a city-county open space acquisition plan suggested by county Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and asked the town council to acquire a park.

She said the commission wants the town to take over Menke Park, a small park in the Village Square developed by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

U.S. mints at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco will produce a record 9.2 billion coins in six denominations in the fiscal 1972.

Berkeley City Council Appointment Controversy

BERKELEY (UPI) —The City Council's new member, a housewife who describes herself as "absolutely liberal," says she identifies with the council's lone woman radical.

Mrs. Susan Hone, 33, was appointed to the council in a surprise move Wednesday night, breaking a bitter radical-conservative deadlock that had left a seat on the council vacant for eight months.

Liberal Mayor Warren Widener, who usually votes with the three radicals, sided with the four-man moderate--conservative block to elect her. One of the radicals promptly denounced him as a "pig."

The radical bloc of Mrs. Ilona Hancock, D'Army Bailey and Ira T. Simmons protested the action, charging the council now was "heavily weighted to the conservative point of view."

Mrs. Hone said Wednesday she could "identify with Mrs. Hancock" as well as Widener and moderate councilman Ed Kallgren.

"They're basically supportive of programs I am in favor of. The three of them are asking the right questions."

Mrs. Hancock said she was willing to work with Mrs. Hone.

However, she refused to speculate on how Mrs. Hone might align herself in future council votes.

"That's hard to say," she said.

Mrs. Hone, a University of California gra .ate active in Democratic Party affairs, is married to attorney Michael Hone. They have six-year-old twins, Mac and Lisa.

A TALK WITH PAT

White House Tour For Blind Youths

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Feel his hair," said a blind child from California as he ran his fingers over a bust of George Washington in the White House.

"He has a crazy hairstyle."

More than 60 of the blind youngsters from California got a VIP tour of the White House Wednesday which included a talk with first lady Pat Nixon and her daughter, Julie Eisenhower.

One girl, Carol Van Bogelin, told Julie, "you and your mother were just great."

"But we love you," Julie said.

When the inspection tour of the mansion was completed, the children gathered in the state dining room for cookies and punch, and to sing Christmas carols accompanied by the U.S. Marine Corps choir.

A gingerbread house was a popular attraction for the visitors. Eager fingers felt carefully the thick icing which comprised the roof, and the cookies which were imbedded in the gingerbread.

An aide explained the refreshment table to two girls.

"It's a white tablecloth with red velvet ribbon trimming," and the aide drew the fingers of two children over the materials so they would know what they were "seeing."

The group arrived in Washington late Sunday and their White House tour was the climax to a typical tour of the city's sights.

The 62 blind young persons from the Foundation for the Junior Blind in Los Angeles were escorted by one staff member for every four children. The expenses of the trip were paid by donations to the foundation, with the Lions Club contributing generously to meet the cost, and District 22 of the Lions clubs in Maryland paying for expenses in Washington. One estimate of the cost ran up to $3,500 to $4,000 for rooms, meals, and buses.

When the young people left the White House, Santa Claus in a bright red velvet suit and with a curly white beard and hair, was at the door to bid them goodby and present them with presents —key chains wrapped in red and blue Christmas paper and with gold presidential seals on the packages.

The children seemed assured and adept at threading their way through the crowded refreshment room. They were happy and eager to tell how much they had enjoyed their trip to the nation's capitol and to the White House.

One had a placard with the picture of two small boys, one black, the other white, embracing. The legend was: "The blind are also color blind."

They also enjoyed singing for Mrs. Nixon, Christmas carols and selections from the musical comedy, "Fiddler On The Roof."

" A feeling of joy and peace came over me when we sang," one girl told the First Lady.

Beauty Queen Loses Privilege

LONDON (UPI)—Lucia Petterle of Brazil, who won this year's Miss World contest, has lost the right to use her title for advertising, the director of the contest said Wednesday.

"In view of her wild outbursts on her departure from London, it is very difficult for me to sign a contract on her behalf," Julia Morley said. "She has given us every indication of being unsteady."

She said this meant, in effect, that the 22-year-old beauty queen would not be able to use the title commercially, although she would officially remain Miss World.

Guidelines On Police Microfilm

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Berkeley City Council has voted unanimously to impose a stringent set of guidelines on the content and use of a new police microfilm record system.

The system, financed by a $64,000 federal grant, is designed to provide police quickly with a suspect's record.

The council's trio of self-described radicals had protested that the new record file would become a catch-all for rumors and unproven charges.

The council Wednesday voted guidelines to include only crimes of which an individual has been found guilty or to which he has pleaded guilty.

The council held that "data from trips, rumors, secondhand allegations or information provided by police undercover agents that has not been substantiated by official criminal justice proceedings."

In addition, any person with a record on file must be permitted by police to examine his entry, the council ruled.

Great Lakes Gale Warnings Are Issued

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gale warnings were issued for the Great Lakes early today as high winds ripped eastward toward New York state.

The winds came in the wake of a violent storm that struck the South and Midwest Wednesday, killing two persons and injuring at least 107. The storm headed for southeast Canada today but left a trail of heavy property damage in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky.

In New York state Wednesday night, wind gusts reached 70 miles per hour and downed power lines and tree limbs. However, no injuries were reported.

The National Weather Service posted high wind warnings today for Western New York, eastern Lake Ontario and the Finger Lakes region.

Deputies in Genesee County, N.Y., said power crews were working throughout the night to repair downed power lines. "We have hot wires all over the place," one deputy said.

Southern Missouri counties lashed by Wednesday's storm have been declared in a state of emergency by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. Police sealed off the debris-littered streets of Republic, Mo., and patrolled downtown Hurst, Tex., to prevent looting. Property damage in Missouri was estimated in the millions of dollars.

In Maine and New Hampshire, travelers warnings were in effect today for a hazardous combination of snow and freezing rain. A band of varied precipitation stretched from Maine to Massachusetts.

Elsewhere in the nation, light showers were scattered along the central Gulf Coast today and light snow fell in the western Mountains and from the northern plains to the upper Great Lakes. A few showers dampened the extreme Pacific Northwest.

Merchants in Twin Falls, Idaho, said they are out of shovels and having a hard time keeping winter tires and chains in stock because of a series of snow storms which hit the city. It has been snowing in Twin Falls for three days.

Bill Would Foil Car Repair Swindles

EDITOR'S NOTE
What were the 1971 legislature's accomplishments and failures? This is the fourth in a series of articles answering that question. It concerns consumer protection.

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's 10 million car owners are swindled by mechanics each year out of an estimated $250 million, and perhaps as much as $1.5 billion.

In Southern California, for example, operators of eight service stations between San Bernardino and Las Vegas were recently charged with ruining tires, fan belts and radiators on motorists' cars to sell them unneeded parts.

Under consumer protection legislation passed this year and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, those operators could be put out of business, fined and jailed if found guilty of such practices.

The auto repair bill, by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was part of a gamut of consumer protection measures enacted during the 1971 legislative session. They affected items ranging from charcoal briquettes to waterbeds and regulated door-to-door peddling and funeral parlors.

Beilenson's bill, which he has carried for the past three years, was termed by Reagan the "toughest and most significant consumer protection legislation of the year."

It requires some 40,000 repair dealers to be licensed after July 1 under a new watchdog state Bureau of Automotive Repairs. Violations of "accepted trade standards" could mean the loss of a dealer's license. Jail terms and fines were provided for in certain cases of fraudulent practices.

Another measure affecting automobile drivers, a proposal for "no-fault" car insurance, was killed in the legislature.

The bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, was rejected by the Senate Judiciary Committee despite claims by its supporters that it would save motorists $50 million a year. Under no-fault insurance, a person collects benefits from his own company regardless of who causes an accident.

Another automotive measure by Beilenson also died in a Senate committee. It would have required cars sold in California after 1973 to be capable of withstanding a headon crash at 50 miles an hour without injuring its occupants.

In other consumer areas, credit card holders received additional protection against billing errors, deception and sex discrimination when Reagan signed a bill by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park. Song introduced the bill after a personal squabble with a credit card company over a billing error.

Reagan also signed a bill by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, to give "city slickers" stricken with "land fever" up to 14 days in which to reconsider a contract they signed for the purchase of a "second home" lot.

Other measures signed by Reagan include:

A bill by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, requiring that packages of charcoal briquettes carry a warning that unless there is proper ventilation when they are burned they can cause death.

A bill by Fenton allowing buyers three days in which to cancel purchases made from door-to-door salesmen.

And a bill by Beilenson requiring funeral directors to provide a list of prices and fees.

Some measures which failed to win legislative approval included:

A bill by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, requiring a 30-day warranty on television, car and other repair work.

A proposal by Beilenson requiring markets to display the price per pound or pint of packaged foods.

A measure by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, lowering the state's maximum annual interest rate from 18 to 12 per cent.

Council For Truce In Greenbrae Row

The Larkspur City Council asked last night for a 10-week cooling-off period in the hassle over proposed formation of a county service area to finance community landscaping in Greenbrae. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 1.)

Although the council appeared ready at first to support creation of the taxing district in the 1,200-home community, it ultimately changed its mind in the hope residents can get together to deal with the problem themselves.

Opponents of the service area who appeared at last night's council session accepted the challenge, but Kermit V. Speeg, president of the Greenbrae Property Owners Association, left the meeting in disgust.

Speeg, citing citizen apathy and the community's financial inability to maitain street median strips, earlier told the council: "Don't listen to three or four people who are here tonight, but let 1,200 decide."

The property owners association won approval from the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to form the taxing district, and the matter was to be heard by the board of supervisors Dec. 28.

Opponents had promised to obtain enough voter signatures to force an election on the issue.

But the council, which has veto power over the service area, asked the supervisors to delay voting on the plan until March. It acted in the wake of opponents' complaints that the service area would pile another layer on the taxing bureacracy and that the association should be given more time to see if it could handle the landscaping chores itself.

Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. took this as an offer of help from the dissidents — who included former association president Bert D. Inman, former Larkspur Councilman Henry Brocco and Frank V. Pistolesi of 201 Via La Paz — and said it was up to them to show leadership.

"I accept," said Inman.

Speeg, however, didn't think the plan would work, and said all nine members of the association board probably would refuse reelection when 1972 officers are chosen Feb. 9.

He said the board was convinced a service area was the only solution, noting between $12,000 and $14,000 was now obtained each year for landscaping from property liens, while about $20,000 was needed to do the work.

Pistolesi said the association should "give it a good try" with the funds it has, despite a warning by Councilman William G. Fleckles, a Greenbrae resident, that there would be no way of absorbing inflated costs in the future.

Still, Fleckles supported the cooling-off period, saying it also would afford time to determine whether a state law could be passed giving Greenbrae special taxing powers without county involvement.

At the last council meeting, Fleckles has asked for a legal opinion on whether the city could contract with the community to do the work. Asst. City Atty. Peter B. Brekhus said in an opinion presented last night that city involvement would be merely proprietary, and therefore beyond its authority.

A city council-Greenbrae committee which had looked into the matter since the last meeting concluded the issue probably should go to a community vote. The council was about to endorse that procedure by approving the service area's formation until it changed its mind.

In other business last night, the council voted to send a letter to the county asking that funds earmarked for the Miller Avenue extension in Mill Valley — since deferred — be transferred for improvements to East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between the city limits and San Quentin's west gate.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst told the council the county public works department formerly had said the Miller Avenue money would go toward East Sir Francis Drake work if the Mill Valley project were delayed.

More Charges Hinted In Kerner Scandal

CHICAGO (UPI)—The indictment of U.S. Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner and four others could be the beginning of further grand jury charges against at least a dozen other Illinois politicians and race track officials involved in the state's race track scandal.

Investigators said today a federal grand jury in Chicago and a Sangamon County grand jury in Springfield are still looking into dealings involving the purchase of race track stock, conflicts-of-interest and possible bribery.

Kerner, former governor of Illinois and author of the "Kerner Report" on ghetto living conditions and rioting in the late 60s, was indicted Wednesday for bribery, mail fraud, tax evasion, perjury and conspiracy in connection with the buying and selling of race track stock.

A key to the investigation's success was Mrs. Marjorie Lindheimer Everett, who was praised by federal authorities for her co-operation.

"The community owes her a debt of gratitude," said U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson in announcing the indictments.

It was believed Mrs. Everett provided the most important information in stock deals and payoffs allegedly engineered while William S. Miller was chairman of the Illinois Racing Board under Kerner's governorship. Miller was one of those indicted with Kerner.

Mrs. Everett is a former chief stockholder of Arlington Park and Washington Park racetracks in Chicago.

Guilty Plea To Petty Theft

John Lin Motta, 19, of San Rafael has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to petty theft and burglary.

He appeared before Judge E. Warren McGuire on Tuesday and admitted petty theft from Gemini clothing store in Sausalito last May and burglary of the Colombo Meat Co. in San Rafael last June.

Three Rugs Taken From Warehouse

Three rugs valued at about $350 were stolen yesterday or Tuesday from the Marin Carpet Service warehouse on Simms Street, San Rafael police reported today.

The burglar entered the building by prying back the metal sheeting on the north wall, officers said.

Judge Fails To Beat His Speed Ticket

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Although winning praise for his eloquence, Butte County Superior Court Judge Lucian B. Vandegrift has lost in a bid to argue his way out of a speeding citation.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Mannino this week found Vandegrift guilty of speeding on a Sacramto street Nov. 12. Police said Vandegrift was clocked by a radar unit as going 47 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Vandegrift argued his own case before Mannino, who said later he did not know Vandegrift was a fellow judge.

"I thought his testimony in court was professional and displayed a great deal of expertise, but I didn't know who he was until after I found him guilty," Mannino said.

Vandegrift, former secretary of the State Human Relations Agency, contended he was speeding merely to test his vehicle's battery.

Mannino gave Vandegrift a suspended sentence and waived the $62 fine that normally would be attached to such a speeding violation.

"I gave him the same treatment as anyone else," Mannino said.

Battery Denied On Dogcatcher

Henry Yale Banquer, 25, of 833 Marin Drive, Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges that he resisted a Marin County Humane Society officer and committed battery on him.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 15 as the date for a pre-trial offence conference.

On Dec. 6, animal control officer Leo E. Rupp Sr. said he tried to pick up a dog on Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley when Banquer grabbed him and threw him to the sidewalk, freeing the dog.

Farm Bureau Presses Tax Ballot Petitions

Marin County Farm Bureau members are circulating petitions to get a new Watson tax initiative to limit property taxes on the state ballot next year.

The proposal would limit taxes to 1.75 per cent of assessed valuation, reported Alfred L. Poncia, bureau president.

The local drive is part of a statewide farm bureau effort to get petitions signed in the next three weeks, he said. The proposal by Philip E. Watson, Los Angeles County assessor, is a revised version of the Watson initiative which was defeated at the polls in 1968.

Directors also supported Marin County's interim ordinance on grading and excavation, but opposed review of applications for permits by a three-member committee, Poncia said. Directors felt that review by the county public works department would be sufficient and faster, he reported.

Talamantez Denied A Change Of Venue

San Quentin inmate Louis N. Talamantez, 28, accused of assaulting another inmate on March 12, 1970, can receive a fair trial in Marin, a Superior Court judge declared yesterday.

Judge Henry J. Broderick said he will deny the request for change of venue made by Talamantez and his attorney, G. Douglas Vaughn.

Talamantez and Vaughn argued on Dec. 9 that citizens of Marin have been prejudiced by the widespread publicity linking Talamantez with the shootout inside the prison last Aug. 21 when three inmates and three guards were killed. Because of this publicity and newspaper articles headlining the cost of San Quentin trials to taxpayers, Vaughn argued that Marin citizens would be biased against Talamantez in the 1970 assault case involving another inmate, Gonzalvo Hernandez.

The judge disagreed. He said publicity thus far on Talamantez and his connection with the six San Quentin inmates indicted for the Aug. 21 prison uprising have not turned the community against individual inmates to the point where they cannot get a fair trial.

Talamantez's trial on the 1970 assault is scheduled for Jan. 17.

Doctors Against Barbiturate Curb

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Medical Association (AMA) today shrugged off claims that abuse of barbiturate drugs is escalating because there are too many on the market.

The AMA said slapping controls on their legitimate use would be "a disservice to patients who need them."

The AMA also denied charges —voiced by many doctors—that physicians prescribe the highly addictive drugs too freely and thus keep millions of doses within easy reach of thrillseekers, particularly teenagers.

While there are "bound to be some cases of inappropriate prescribing," the AMA said in a statement prepared for a Senate hearing, the problem is bascially one of "street abuse" in the drug subculture over which added controls would be "ineffectual."

"To add to the present restrictions on barbiturates so as to reduce medical overuse would be a disserve to patients who need them ...," the AMA said. "Placing more rigorous controls on prescription of barbiturates and other sedative drugs would add to the cost of health care and would likely lead to the abuse of other substances."

Doctor-witnesses at the opening day of hearings into barbiturate abuse before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee Wednesday called for curbs on the "enormous overproduction" of such drugs by U.S. pharmaceutical firms—either voluntarily by the industry or by law if necessary — to counter abuse.

Even President Nixon, in a speech to the AMA in June, estimated that half of the 5 million doses of barbiturates produced annually are diverted to illicit markets.

"The claim that billions of doses of barbiturates are diverted annually into the black market for street use, however, has never, to our knowledge, been documented," the AMA said.

The statement was presented by Dr. Henry Brill of West Brentwood, N.Y., a member of the AMA's Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence.

Earlier, Dr. Sidney Cohen, a psychiatrist who heads the center for study of mind-altering drugs at the University of California in Los Angeles, testified the use of barbiturates was "the latest and worst aspect of the drug scene."

"People get robbed by heroin addicts and that's a big deal," Cohen said. "Or a 'speed freak' commits a murder and that hits the papers. LSD people fly out windows and that's spectacular.

"But addicts on barbiturates die quietly in some remote alley or motel room, and that isn't spectacular at all."

Theft Suspect Faces Hearing

Dale Luther Johnston, 22, of 329 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo, accused of burglary and receiving stolen goods, faces a preliminary hearing on Dec. 21 in Marin Municipal Court.

Johnston was arrested by San Anselmo police on Oct. 6 and charged with burglarizing the George T. Sheridan home at 119 Floribel Avenue in San Anselmo last Aug. 16. He also is charged with five counts of receiving stolen property between June and October of this year.

He pleaded innocent to all counts on Nov. 15. Last Tuesday, Judge Robert A. Smallman set the preliminary hearing for Dec. 21 to see if evidence is sufficient to order him to trial in superior court.

Spouse's Delay Gets Job Done

DEXTER, Mo. (UPI)—Karen Tidwell said she reminded her husband repeatedly to get on the roof and straighten their outside television antenna, which was bent by a windstorm last week. He kept putting the chore off, she said.

Wednesday another storm raked the area and when the Tidwells inspected their property for damage today, they found the antenna had been bent again by the wind —in the other direction.

"It was as straight as can be," Mrs. Tidwell said.

Honored French Researcher Dies

PARIS (UPI)—Professor Antoine Lacassagne, awarded the United Nations prize for his work against cancer, committed suicide today at the age of 87, police said.

Lacassagne, director of the Curie Research Institute, was France's best-known cancer researcher. His work in the late 1950s revealed the role of hormones in both causing and checking certain forms of cancer.

Police said Lacassagne jumped out of his fourth floor apartment window into the street after leaving a suicide note.

The national Christmas tree, a 45-foot black spruce from the Clark Stevens memorial forest in Albany, New Hampshire, was test-lighted yesterday. Official lighting of the tree will be this evening, with Vice President Agnew doing the honors. Angle of the picture makes it appear that the tree is as tall as the Capitol Building in the background.

BUT REAGAN VETO CERTAIN

Demo Remap-Muscle Vow

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Democratic legislative leaders vowed today to use all their muscle and pass reapportionment plans virtually certain to be vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and end up in court.

The decision came as talks between Assembly Republicans and Democrats over a possible compromise collapsed Wednesday after a week of negotiations.

Republican Assembly leader Robert Monagan of Tracy said, "We've got to the end of the road in our ability to work out something with the Democrats. We have exhausted everything we can think of that would lead to an agreement."

Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, Democratic floor leader, and Assemblyman Kenneth Cory of Garden Grove, Democratic caucus chairman, said they would proceed with reapportionment plans to increase the Democratic majority in the Assembly and preserve the thin Democratic margin in the Senate.

The Democratic proposal for the lower House is designed to boost their current margin from 42-38 to at least 44-36 and is the same plan which failed to win passage earlier.

In the Senate, the redistricting bill has been modified from the previous "bipartisan" version. It would now maintain the 21-19 Democratic majority and create a Chicano seat in East Los Angeles.

Both houses are scheduled to act Friday on reapportionment.

Meanwhile, the state Reapportionment Commission, convened by Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, held its first session in state history Wednesday and was faced with a State Supreme Court lawsuit in which the legislature contended the panel was unconstitutional and sought to halt any further action by it.

The two minority Democratic members, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson C. Riles, pushed through a requirement that would give them a greater voice in approval of any redistricting plan adopted by the five-member commission.

Approval would require four votes, including one Democrat, instead of three to approve a plan. Three members of the commission are Republicans.

Monagan, who will be on vacation when the legislature reconvenes Friday, said the Democrats seem to feel that "they might just as well go to court" and have the judiciary decide the sensitive political issue.

He said that because of the breakdown in negotiations with the Democrats, it would serve no purpose for him to remain in the Capitol.

Monagan said Reagan will veto a 44-36 plan, a move certain to throw the entire issue into the courts. But Monagan added that the governor said "He will sign a bill that we (Republicans) recommend to him that is 42-38 and that does not have any other unusual problems, such as unusual configurations."

"The governor's attitude is somewhat changed," Monagan said, referring to Reagan's statement earlier this month that he would not agree in advance to sign any reapportionment bill—even on recommendation of GOP legislators— until he thoroughly examined it firsthand.

But Cory said, "It could be a lot worse. It seems a moderate way to handle the changes that have taken place in the population.

"The Republicans want to take the first pick," he said. "They want their 38 and say if we can figure out some way to carve out the other 42 for ourselves, that's fine. They want 38 solid seats with shots at about three or four of our guys."

Prison Search Fails To Uncover Convict

Odds that convicted murderer Jacob Zitzer, 27, made good an escape from San Quentin seemed higher today when extensive searching inside the prison still failed to produce him.

Zitzer and two other convicts placed lifelike dummies in their cells Monday night and then attempted to go over a wall in the industrial section of the prison with a handmade rope, which broke. Two ladders were also found propped up against the wall.

His accomplices were quickly captured inside the prison after an alarm was sounded when movement was seen in the dusk and the ladders spotted.

A prison spokesman said today that he believed Zitzer had jumped from the top of the wall to freedom since someone had reported seeing movement on top of the wall.

"I don't think he would have jumped back into the prison," the spokesman, Keith Hayball said.

Rumors of Zitzer, who had served seven and a half years of a maximum life sentence, having been seen in San Francisco and Marin have not been confirmed.

Hospital Building Bonds Outlined

The Petaluma Hospital District Board heard last night that two methods could be used to finance construction of a new 99-bed hospital.

District Administrator Joseph E. Horner said financial consultants advised the board to sell either joint authority bonds or nonprofit bonds.

Horner said that under the joint authority bonds, the district would join with the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors in selling bonds with the new hospital leased back to the district for operation. Under the nonprofit bonding, the district could form a nonprofit corporation alone or with another governmental agency for the sale.

Horner said he expects the board to reach a decision on financing in January.

Navy Financing Medical Study

Complete scholarships are available for men and women students accepted for the Navy's 1972 medical and osteopathic student scholarship program, according to Harry C. Wiggs, San Rafael recruiter.

Those in the program will be commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve and receive full pay and allowances in addition to tuition and fees. After graduation and internship, doctors must serve on active duty for either four or five years.

Applications may be submitted between Jan. 1 and March 15 to Chief Wiggs at 910 D Street, San Rafael.

Judge Vetos Permit On Kentfield Project

Plans for a housing project for the elderly at 217 Laurel Grove Avenue in Kentfield ran up against a legal obstacle yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Henry J. Broderick ruled against the County of Marin which issued a use permit for 102 units of elderly housing where a Dominican priory now exists. Katharine Branson School tried unsuccessfully to open a boys' campus there last year.

When the Marin County Planning Commission and the Marin County Board of Supervisors approved the housing project, to be built by Catholic Social Services of Marin, a group of Kentfield residents headed by Louis F. Hawkins appealed to superior court.

The county granted the use permit on grounds that the development is a type of institutional housing which would be in the public interest.

"Regardless of the worthiness of the charitable and philanthropical considerations involved, this apartment is not an institution within any accepted sense of that term," said Judge Broderick. "Nor can the decision of the county supervisors be supported upon the theory that the contemplated activity is a public service use. While the use is undoubtedly charitable and philanthropic, it is not a public use but rather a private use of the Catholic Social Services of Marin."

The judge said he will order county supervisors to rescind the use permit.

Women Injured In Novato Crash

Two Novato residents suffered minor injuries at 11:15 p.m. yesterday when their car crashed through a fence on Atherton Avenue in Novato, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The driver, Marsha Ann Gasperoni, 21, of 2011 Hatch Road, was treated at Novato General Hospital for a cut shoulder. Debbie Gasperoni, 15, of 1107 Elm Road, suffered scrapes and bruises and also was treated at the hospital.

The patrol said the women's car was eastbound on Atherton Avenue when it skidded off the road, went through a barbed wire fence and overturned.

Tree Party Set For Tiburon

An old fashioned Christmas carol sing and tree decorating party will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. today at the Strawberry community building for Strawberry residents.

Sponsored by the Strawberry Recreation District, the party will feature visits from Santa Claus and Phil the Mouse, who will give away candy to children.

Recreation manager David Robert asked residents to bring lights, tinsel or other ornaments to decorate two large Christmas trees.

Motorcycle Crash Hurts Young Driver

An 18-year-old Tiburon youth was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with back injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident in Corte Madera yesterday.

Corte Madera police said Bruce Stanton of 172 Leland Way was injured about 9:45 p.m. when his motorcycle overturned on San Clemente Drive near Paradise Drive.

Tam CSD In Support Of Land Plan

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have endorsed a plan now being considered by county supervisors which would permit the county to share in the cost of open space land which Marin cities wish to acquire, director Glenn Lambacher reported.

He said the board, at its Tuesday meeting, also asked the community services districts and park and recreation districts also be included in the city-county open space acquisition program.

Under the plan the county would pay half the cost of open space acquisition of Marin's 11 cities, he said.

The services district board also voted to give up its efforts to acquire the Wheelwright property, about 40 acres of wooded, hilly land above Northern Avenue.

Lambacher said the district has been trying to work out arrangements to acquire the land for park use since its formation in 1968. But he said owner George Wheelwright, who offered to dedicate the land to the district about three years ago has apparently changed his mind.

"It now looks like the land will never be donated, so we have decided not to pursue the matter further," Lambacher said.

Editor Of San Diego State Paper Booted

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The editor of the San Diego State College newspaper, The Daily Aztec, was fired by the Associated Student Council Wednesday night.

The council claimed editor James Greene was insensitive and incompetent. Greene said the action was taken because of racist attitudes and because the council wanted to impose government controls on the press.

The new editor is Bruce Haynes, a first semester staff member. He and Greene will be paid $12 an issue each.

Greene, who had served four semesters on the Aztec, said charges of racism against him were false and pointed out a check of back editions showed nearly half the front page inches had been devoted to minority or radical-political cause coverage.

The council also recommended that a minority member be named to the daily aztec editorial staff.

High Salary

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Amtrak, which has asked Congress for $170 million to continue running the nation's passenger trains, pays its president $125,000 a year — twice what a cabinet member makes, according to Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif.

Tuna Boat Talks Held In Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Charles A. Meyer has ended a weeklong visit to Ecuador during which he sought a solution to fishing problems between the two nations.

Ecuador has seized 50 American tuna boats and fined them $2 million so far this year on grounds they violated the country's claimed 200-mile territorial waters limit. In retaliation, Washington has suspended military aid to Ecuador and the House has voted to end all aid.

The United States recognizes only a 12-mile fishing limit.

Meyer planned to head back to Washington today. Prior to his departure, however, a joint U. S.-Ecuadorean statement was expected on the outcome of Meyer's talks with government officials.

While in Quito, Meyer has held talks with President Jose M. Velasco Ibarra and Foreign Minister Rafael Garcia Velasco.

Government sources said the legality of Ecuador's territorial waters claim was not discussed but simply an interim solution to the fishing dispute, possibly U. S. purchase of fishing licenses "under protest."

12 Given Reprieve On Welfare Payments

Twelve welfare recipients gained a one-week reprieve from review of their eligibility for welfare payments when Marin County supervisors decided this week to leave them on the welfare roster at least that long with no questions asked.

Supervisors normally check general relief extension cases each week to determine if the recipients are still eligible and usually about half are rejected. But on Tuesday, for the fourth time this year, the supervisors, so that they could speed up their meeting and leave to attend other functions, agreed to give blanket approval to the welfare roster and take up the eligibility of the 12 cases next week.

The cost to the county, meanwhile, was estimated by some to run into the hundreds of dollars though the exact figure was not available yesterday. The cost can be calculated, the Independent-Journal was told by the department of social services, but department officials with that responsibility were either "out of the office" or "tied up" in meetings.

The other occasions this year when the supervisors granted extension without weighing eligiblity were: Jan. 19 for four persons, Feb. 23 for 15 persons and Oct. 26 for nine persons.

Forgery Case Guilt Admitted

Paul Sam Miletich, 43, of Santa Rosa, has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of signing another person's name to a credit card slip with intent to defraud.

When Miletich pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor count on Tuesday, two other felony counts were dismissed on the recommendation of the district attorney.

Judge David Menary set Jan. 14 as the date for sentencing.

Miletich was arrested on Nov. 22 by San Rafael police and accused of using someone else's credit card to make purchases from Graham Lumber Co. in San Rafael on Oct. 25 and on Nov. 22.

That TV Tower Atop Mount Sutro

We in Marin have allowed some things to be done to our skyline of which we can't be exactly proud.

Some hilltop buildings several stories high, permitted in both city and county jurisdictions, may be fine buildings in themselves but don't improve the over-all vista.

Then there was the small forest of unsightly poles atop San Rafael Hill for television and radio transmitters, which fortunately — thanks both to city insistence and private initiative — were replaced a few years ago by one large but less obnoxious tower.

And the Air Force lights on top of Mount Tamalpais have long brought complaints from citizens.

BUT NOTHING MARIN has permitted can compare with what is being done to the view across the Golden Gate by construction of a 980-foot television tower atop Mount Sutro.

There already is a 600-foot TV tower on Mount Sutro. It is of small diameter, however, sticking up like a needle. It is possible to ignore it.

It will be next to impossible to ignore the new tower. In fact, it's next to impossible already, although it is less than halfway up. It's big — any way you look at it. And it doesn't appear to have been designed as a work of art.

Marinites who drive across the Golden Gate Bridge, or even up and down the highway in Southern Marin, can scarcely have failed to notice it.

SAN FRANCISCANS CAN scarcely have failed to notice it, either — but you wouldn't think they had from reading the San Francisco newspapers or watching the San Francisco television stations.

San Francisco's two newspapers and four TV stations devote quite a few column inches and quite a lot of air time to reports about the environment. They have been known to campaign against "environmental pollution" as far away as Humboldt County and the Sierra Nevada.

But there's been hardly anything about the Mount Sutro tower in the San Francisco newspapers. And even less on the TV stations.

An outfit called the Environmental Law Society at University of San Francisco is trying to stop the tower by court action, claiming its building permit is illegal. But you won't find much about that in the San Francisco newspapers or on the TV stations either.

However, in this case, we're stuck with it too. That tower is going to spoil our landscape. We can't escape it.

We suggest to the San Francisco press and television media that saving the environment, like charity, should begin at home.

Changed Meanings

Have you thought about how our increased knowledge of pollution has subtly changed the meanings of certain words in just a decade? Words like detergent, phosphates, freeway, gasoline engine, electric generator, haze, smoke, mercury, swordfish, horsepower, industry have a slightly unpleasant connotation today which they did not have before. Even the sacred cow of motherhood has come under a shadow recently.

We wonder what meanings will be altered this next decade.

Pakistan's Blundering March Into Disaster

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The division of the Indian subcontinent into India and Pakistan has been described as history's most expensive social experiment. Today it seems well on the way to becoming one of modern society's greatest failures.

The story of India and Pakistan always has been one of superlatives, the greatest, the most, the worst.

A brochure put out by the United States once described Pakistan as "one of the major success stories" in the history of the U.S. aid program.

WHEN FORMER President Mohammad Ayub Khan resigned under pressure on March 25, 1969, with the words, "I cannot preside over the destruction of my country," he did not realize that it already was too late, that Pakistan already was on the way to a dissolution that now seems inevitable.

Under his successor, President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, each step has seemed only to make the end result more certain.

In elections a year ago, the Awami League led by Sheik Mujibar Rahman of East Pakistan won a majority in the national assembly. He accused the Pakistan central government headquartered in the west of exploiting the east as if it were a colony and demanded autonomy within a federal framework.

INSTEAD OF SEEKING a political settlement, Yahya Khan arrested him on a charge of treason, held him incommunicado, and in East Pakistan sought a military victory.

Out of this came the demand from East Pakistani rebels for complete independence and escalation of the struggle to the third war between India and Pakistan since their independence.

Yahya Khan, it seems, gambled and lost on his belief that either the big powers or the United Nations would prevent or halt quickly any outbreak of open hostilities with India and thus permit him to continue his efforts to settle the East Pakistan rebellion as an internal matter.

HIS MOST RECENT move is to declare an end to his one-man rule and establishment of a coalition government.

To head this government he has called upon an East Pakistani named Nurul Amin without any real political base, and Zulfiker Ali Bhutto, a 43-year-old, ambitious West Pakistani leftwing politician who once served as Pakistani foreign minister.

It was only a matter of weeks ago that Bhutto himself threatened to depose Yahya Khan either by coup or civil war.

Bhutto was held to bear a major responsibility for the violence that swept West Pakistan just prior to Ayub Khan's departure in 1969.

IGNORED BY ALL is the hapless plight on estimated 20 million displaced persons in East Pakistan and another estimated 10 million who fled to India as refugees.

As the tide of war sweeps over East Pakistan's sea and airports, the $100 million effort of the United Nations Relief agency has come to a virtual standstill.

Commission Substitutes Whim For Legal Rules

As a resident of Larkspur, I am responding to a recent letter concerning the rejection by the Larkspur Planning Commission of the submission by the Larwin Co.

I consider the action by the planning commission to be illegal —and clearly undemocratic.

The Larwin Co. changed its original plan to meet all objections of both the planning staff and the Architectural Review Board, and adapt the suggestions of the city's planning consultant. The submission, as finally presented, fulfilled all legal and design requirements. It was rejected solely because of the personal views of the majority of the commission.

If such action is permitted to stand, Larkspur will be changed from a community operated under law to a town run by the whim of our officials.

I urge our councilmen to uphold the law as it now stands and vote to reverse the undemocratic action of the planning commission.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

(On Nov. 10, the Independent-Journal reprinted an editorial from the Oroville Mercury-Register entitled "Trouble Seems To Follow Virginia Franklin Around."

(Mrs. Virginia Franklin, a social studies teacher at San Rafael High School, subsequently wired Dan K. Beebe, Mercury-Register editor, demanding retraction of what she claimed were two mis-statements of fact in the editorial. The Mercury-Register on Dec. 1 ran an editorial entitled, "Correcting a Previous Editorial." Mrs. Franklin after that wrote the Independent-Journal: "I do not wish any more than an acknowledgement that the Oroville Mercury retracted the two statements I questioned in my telegram to them."

(The Dec. 1 Oroville editorial follows:)

VIRGINIA FRANKLIN, who as a high school teacher in Paradise gained national notoriety several years ago due to an incident in her class involving a boy and a tape recorder, has told us that our editorial of Nov. 3 was incorrect and damaging to her . . .

Mrs. Franklin questioned two sentences in our editorial: 1. "She was turned down by 62 boards of education," and 2. "She called the Time magazine man in and dramatically exposed the boy in front of everyone."

The incident involving Mrs. Franklin occurred about nine years ago . . . (The editor) has located one of the two copies of the court reporter's official transcript of a trial in Butte County Superior Court in which Mrs. Franklin's testimony regarding the tape recorder incident is given in full. Studying this we find that it was a Life man, not a Time magazine man that was in her class room at the time, so we gladly make that correction. We find also that Mrs. Franklin was not the one who was responsible for his presence there. The Life editor and his photographer had come to Paradise to prepare a feature concerning trouble in the community revolving around Mrs. Franklin and her class . . .

THE FOLLOWING is from the court reporter's transcript. Mrs. Franklin was being questioned by her attorney. (The setting has Mrs. Franklin seated in her classroom behind Ty Blount, the boy involved — a seat that happened to be vacant. The Life men are there. The students are staging a "mock congress." . . . There is a rap on the "window" and Mr. Russell, the principal, beckons to Mrs. Franklin):

"I went outside to see Mr. Russell and he said, 'I think Ty Blount has a tape recorder with him.' Now I had talked to Mr. Russell about the tape recorder . . . so Mr. Russell said to me, 'Here is a pass for Ty Blount. Send him to the office now. Don't let him leave his books in the locker. I am going to ask to see his book.' . . .

"I gave Ty the pass and he didn't budge . . . I was quite concerned about this . . . I sat down and looked for the first time . . . at the tape recorder book . . . I just wanted to reach out and grab it very badly . . . I had the ambition to grab the book myself, but I thought I'd better not, and the bell rang.

"In the meantime I forgot all about Life magazine being in the room. I was absolutely glued to that textbook . . . and it was frightening . . . and the bell rang . . . He was reaching to pick this up, and I suppose it was psychological for me to reach across and open it and Life magazine was on the spot and photographed it . . . I didn't plan it. I didn't talk about it. I didn't know what I was doing . . ."

Whether this was dramatic, the reader may judge.

AS FOR NO.1, turn to page 419. Mrs. Franklin had resigned her Paradise job where she had tenure and been promised a position in Berkeley High a year hence, but when the time had elapsed and she went to Berkeley to inquire they did not hire her. Her lawyer then asked her whether she had submitted applications to other schools. Her answer:

"Approximately 65 schools on the high school level and approximately nine in the junior college."

Q. Out of all the applications you have submitted, how many interviews did you receive?

A. At the most, five.

Q. As a result of the five interviews, were you employed?

A. No. Yes, pardon me, part-time. (Merritt Junior College, Oakland — night school.) . . . I have one class I am teaching two nights a week for $8 an hour . . .

The reporters for the newspapers compressed all this into two words: "turned down." That was the inference. The lawyer for the plaintiff was content with this inference for he was asking damages of $300,000. He had said in his opening statement that he would prove his client, as a result of her experience in Paradise, had not been able to obtain employment. In those days competent teachers had teaching positions. However, the record does not show that Mrs. Franklin was "turned down" so we retract that statement . . .

Her account of what happened cannot be challenged. It was accepted by the superior court judge. There was no jury. The case was not appealed.

Budget Fantasy Based On 'Full Employment'

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon again is preparing a federal budget with a "full employment" balance. That is another way of saying the government will spend a lot more money than it collects.

The full employment budget concept, developed as a theoretical exercise by economists in the late 1940s, enables the President to talk about balancing the budget at the same time he tries to spur the still sluggish economy with deficit spending.

"THE ADMINISTRATION is again this year committed to a full employment balance," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said recently.

That statement fits in neatly with Republican party orthodoxy that the government should live within its means.

Contrast the rhetoric with the balance sheet: In the fiscal year that ended last June 30, the government spent $23.2 billion more than it took in. For the current fiscal year, the deficit is officially estimated at about $28 billion. Unless the economy picks up dramatically, the budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 will show a projected deficit that probably will top $10 billion.

A $28 BILLION DEFICIT this fiscal year would be the largest since World War II. For last year, this year and next year together, the deficit would be the largest for any three-year period except for 1943-45.

Some economists believe the full employment budget is a more useful tool than the dollars and cents figures in analyzing the effect of federal spending on the economy.

In theory, it works like this:

Assume the present tax system would produce about $250 million in revenue during the forthcoming fiscal year if the economy were operating at full blast and unemployment was no more than 4 per cent. Assume also that the economy did not heat up to capacity and actual revenues totaled about $235 billion.

Under the full employment budget concept, the government could spend up to $250 billion without living much beyond its means. Spending of that magnitude would cause an actual deficit of $15 billion, but the theory is that when the economy is plagued with unemployment, some deficit spending is a useful tonic. When the economy is operating at full blast the budget should be balanced.

ONLY ONCE SINCE 1960 has government revenue exceeded spending. That was in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1969, a year divided equally between the Johnson and Nixon administrations.

The economy was at full employment at the time so the $3.2 billion actual surplus was also a full employment surplus.

Since then, unemployment has increased and the budget has plunged into the red. But the full employment concept has permitted the administration to continue talking about balanced budgets.

After the last fiscal year ended with a $23.2 billion deficit, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and Management and Budget Director George P. Shultz said:

"For the third year in a row, a full employment balance or surplus has been achieved in the fiscal year 1971 after three successive years of full employment deficits totaling more than $40 billion."

This fiscal year, even the full employment balance has gone by the boards, Shultz told Congress in September that a full employment deficit of about $8 billion was expected. That is far below the actual deficit of $28 billion that is now projected.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Legislators Hire Help On How To Legislate

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Apparently the heat from home is beginning to burn the leadership in the State Legislature — and that is the one fire the vote-conscious politicians want to put out pronto.

As the legislature dragged on through its 11th month in session without even complying with the constitutional obligation to reapportion its own and the state's congressional districts, the complaints from home grew in stridence and volume.

So on Nov. 24 (before they started feuding), Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Los Angeles, and Senate President Pro Tem James Mills, D-San Diego, announced plans for a study of the legislature aimed at finding ways "to make the best possible use of the time and talents of the 120 men and women in the Assembly and Senate who have been sent here by the voters of their districts."

THIS STUDY is going to cost the taxpayers some $150,000. The Joint Rules Committee has authorized the expenditure and two outside consultants have been retained, in spite of the fact the legislature already has a full stable of professional consultants, drawing from $1,000 to more than $2,000 a month.

In a joint statement, Moretti and Mills said: "In 1966 the voters of California passed Proposition 1A, telling the legislature to work full time, and without the constraints of time limits on the sessions.

"This is the fifth year under those changes and the Joint Rules Committee has decided this is an appropriate time to examine our operations. We may find that some of the old ways worked better."

That Rules Committee decision to contract for an outside study was not unanimous. Assemblyman Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach, for example, said the study isn't necessary. "What's needed is a leader who isn't afraid of making decisions," said Burke.

RECENTLY THREE other members offered ideas on making the legislature "more efficient" and their conclusions won't cost the taxpayers a dime.

Sen. Lou Cusanovich, R-Los Angeles, who has served in the legislature since 1958, said no session should run over 200 calendar days. He complained of the late hour of 3:30 p.m. for convening the Senate. By the time there's a quorum, some members want to go home. He would like to see a 9 a.m. starting time in the upper house.

Assemblyman Craig Biddle (R-Riverside) suggested the legislators' tax-free living expense allowance of $30 per day be cut off after July 30. That should speed things up.

And Assemblyman Bill Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, proposed to limit the sessions to seven months by constitutional amendment. He already has announced plans to introduce legislation to this effect in 1972.

BY THE END of November, this legislature had spent more than $20 million for its operation. The cost for each day in session is approximately $11,000.

Moretti and Mills said: "More than 5,200 pieces of legislation were introduced this year, and there is no reason to expect that workload to decrease significantly in the future. Consequently we must search for ways to improve our operations before we become hopelessly bogged down by the volume of work."

In 1957 the legislature handled some 7,426 measures and adjourned on June 12. Ten years ago, 5,148 bills were considered during a 120-day session, which ended on June 16.

Redwood's Women's Libbers More Serious Than Male Chauvinists

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction may be a valid scientific observation, but it sometimes gets a little bent out of shape when applied to human relations.

Redwood High School's resident women's liberationists, Women on the Move, has been sponsoring speeches and otherwise deporting itself as a group seriously interested in improving the lot of women.

It got an opposite reaction, but there was nothing equal about it. A group calling itself the Student Male Organization of Chauvinists (SMOOCH) announced its formation in the school's bulletin. The organization billed itself as a champion against the encroaching forces of women's liberation.

The girls are serious; the boys not so serious, according to associate principal Jack R. Baat. "They really did it as a joke to irritate the women," he chortled.

He reported that having suitably irritated the foe, the boys seem to be laying down the standard. No more skirmishes are planned, he said.

OVER IN KENTFIELD School District, the staff recently completed an evaluation of a team teaching program for combined seventh and eighth graders at Adeline E. Kent School. It has all the bromides of educational reports including statements about nurturing curiosity and interest. But it also contains a delightful section of quotations from children about the first two months in the program this school year.

"You are tricking me into liking school," charged one pupil. Another offered a rather low opinion of last year's program. "Last year if I had a choice between picking up the litter on the Miracle Mile or coming to school, I would have chosen to pick up trash; this year, I think I would have to say I would have to come to school."

Some are apple polishers. "I think this program is the best I have ever had. I think you teachers are very good teachers and I like you all very much. That's all I really can say right now. If I come up with any suggestions, I will be sure to let you know."

A few want changes. "So far this school is pretty good — but the thing I don't like is two periods of P.E. And I don't like math at all. Another thing I don't like is after lunch having all four of the hardest subjects."

A LOT ARE SENSITIVE to special treatment. "It's unfair to the eighth graders that we (7-8 combo) get all this stuff, like field trips and so many electives." "I was talking to one of my friends in the 7-8 and she said that she did not like it because it was so relaxed and she said it needed more discipline when she herself turns around and treats teachers bad and talks back."

"The relationship between the seventh and eighth is better. Last year the eighth graders acted like the seventh graders weren't good enough for them. This year I think we're treating them more like people and not like low-class, stupid, idiotic, immature things that come here 'cause they passed the sixth grade," concluded one eighth grader.

Sierra Club Wants Five-Year Delay On Alaska Oil Pipeline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Sierra Club urged a five-year moratorium yesterday on any construction for the transAlaska oil pipeline because of the "potential for major disasters."

The conservation organization issued its own analysis of an Interior Department task force's report on the proposed 700-mile pipeline which would carry oil from the Alaskan North Slope to the port of Valdez, where tankers would be loaded.

"The task force's doubts about the pipeline make it absolutely clear that after three years of study, the Alyeska Co. still does not know how to safely carry out the project," said club executive director Michael McCloskey.

"Basic questions about the danger of ruptures, the extent of erosion around the pipeline, and leakage and spills have not been answered," he told a news conference.

"The lack of answers confronts us with the potential for major disasters. It is clear that the time has come to defer this project until we know how to protect Alaska's environment."

The club's analysis, prepared by Dr. Eugene Coan, an assistant to McCloskey, was based on a review by a 60-member committee appointed by the Interior Department of the Alyeska consortium's 29-volume report on the project. The scientists' 47-page evaluation was leaked to the club, which said the department is expected to release its environmental impact statement by about Jan. 15.

Coan said the inadequacies highlighted in the task force report include lack of study of earthquake fault zones; the need for better monitoring and detection of oil leaks; uncertainty of the effect on Alaska's permafrost; problems of river crossings; and insufficient understanding of the dangers of glacial lake flooding and of avalanches.

He urged a five-year moratorium on any construction while adequate alternatives are found. Coan also said further investigation should be made of a Canadian route which would avoid many of the environmental hazards of the Alaskan pipeline.

"A five-year moratorium appears to make more sense than either pipeline route," Coan's report concluded. "The technical problems of North Slope oil development are severe.

"The nation's last great wilderness is at stake, and it can never be replaced. There is no national security need for the oil during the next five years.

"The most logical and sensible action would be take this five-year moratorium to review alternative energy sources, reexamine our oil export-import laws, improve our technology and only then make our decision."

There'll Be No Extra Charge For Stopover In Washington

WASHINGTON — "Can I help you, sir?"

"Yes, I'd like to buy a round-trip ticket to the Azores."

"How long were you planning to stay?"

"Two days. I have to meet with a Frenchman named Georges Pompidou."

"We can arrange that. Your last name, please?"

"Nixon."

"First initial?"

"R like in Richard."

"Very good."

NOW FROM THE AZORES I have to go to Bermuda to see Edward Heath of London."

"Why don't you fly directly to London, sir?"

"No, it has to be in Bermuda, and by Dec. 20."

"All right, sir. We can fly you to Lisbon and then you change planes and we'll have you in Bermuda on the 20th. Will that be all?"

"No, from there I have to go to Key Biscayne to meet with Willy Brandt. I should be there on the 28th of December."

"That shouldn't be any trouble. We have two flights a day from Bermuda to Miami. Will you be staying in Key Biscayne?"

"Of course not. From Key Biscayne I have to get to San Clemente, Calif., to meet with Eisaku Sato of Japan on Jan. 6."

"LET ME LOOK at my schedules here. You're in luck. There's a flight from Miami to San Clemente on the night of the 5th. It should get you there in time for your meeting."

"That's fine. Now one more thing. Can you get me from San Clemente to Peking by Feb. 21?"

"What state is that in, sir?"

"It's not a state. I want to go to Peking, China."

"Oh, I see. Hmmmnnn. There doesn't seem to be any plane leaving from San Clemente to Peking, China. Let me look in the new schedules. Pekin, Ill., Pekin, Ind., Pekin, N.Y., Pekin, N.D. — dear, me, no Peking, China. I'll check if there is anything leaving from Los Angeles. Ah, yes, here it is. You fly to Hong Kong and take a bus to Canton, which connects with a plane for Peking."

"HOW MUCH IS IT family plan?"

"How many of you are going?"

"My wife Pat and Henry Kissinger."

"Is Henry related to you, sir?"

"No, but he's like a son to me."

"We're sorry, he'll have to pay full fare. It will be $4,000 round trip, plus tax."

"Can I fly now and pay later?"

"Not to Peking, sir. Ever since the Cultural Revolution the airlines prefer their money in advance."

"Don't I get a discount for going in the winter?"

"No, but you're allowed a free stopover in North Korea on the way back."

"I DON'T WANT a free stop in North Korea. I have to go to Moscow after I go to Peking."

"Well, why didn't you say so? You can fly back to the United States via Moscow and save $33."

"I don't have to go to Moscow until May."

"My goodness, you have a bit of time in there between Peking and Moscow. Where would you like to spend it?"

"IT REALLY DOESN'T matter. Do you have any suggestions?"

"Let me look at my travel brochures a moment. Would you be interested in visiting Washington, D.C.?"

"What for?"

"It's the nation's capital. There are many things of interest there. There's the Lincoln Memorial, the National Gallery, and they have a new tourist attraction called the Kennedy Center."

"I'd better check it out with my wife."

"Why don't we put you down for Washington between Peking and Moscow? If you change your mind, we can always write you out a new ticket."

Two Nabbed In Building By Police

Two Santa Rosa men were arrested in Petaluma yesterday on suspicion of burglary.

Booked into city jail were Ronald Edward Chappelle, 27, and a man tentatively identified as Dale Ross Ferguson, 24, a parolee. Officers said he refused to identify himself.

Sgt. Joseph Finnerty said officers found a door open at the Downey Tire Co., 246 Petaluma Boulevard North, shortly before 2 a.m. The two men were reportedly found hiding inside the building. Officers said bolt cutters had been used to remove a lock from the rear door.

While officers were inside investigating the burglary, a patrol car parked on the street was struck and nearly demolished by the car of a curious passerby. Police said the driver, Everett Satori, 59 Rocca Drive, Petaluma, also struck another parked car. He was not injured.

Belvedere Council Asks New Park

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission has recommended creation of the city's second park between the new Tiburon bicycle path and Lagoon Road.

Commission Chairman George L. McCoy said the 50 by 160-foot area adjacent to the Belvedere city limits could be planted with grass, although future appropriations would be required to finish the park.

Community park, the city's only recreation area, is located adjacent to the city hall and fire station on San Rafael Avenue.

The park recommendation still must be approved by the city council.

The commission, meeting Tuesday, also urged Belvedere residents to buy live Christmas trees and donate them to the city after the holidays. The trees could be dropped off at the Belvedere corporation yard, McCoy said.

RIDING HIGH

It's no bumpy sleigh for this Santa as he alights from a helicopter to greet children of the Dominican College garden school in San Rafael. Santa (actually Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher, who has a child at the kindergarten and prekindergarten school) swooped down on the children in front of the college library the other day with greetings of the holiday season. Pilot of the helicopter was Lou Hurley, parent of another child at the school.

Ridge Link Proposed For Varied Traffic

An ambiguously worded sentence in yesterday's Independent-Journal story on the San Rafael Planning Commission seemed to say the Marin Countywide Plan would limit traffic on a proposed road from Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda to buses and emergency vehicles.

In fact, the preliminary plan calls for a general purpose road, but some groups have favored limiting the road to bus and emergency use.

Army Man's 30-Year Tour Ends

At recent retirement ceremonies at Fort Baker, Terry was presented with the Army's Meritorious Service Medal by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Fye, commanding general of the Sixth Region, U.S. Army-Air Defense Command.

Terry, who entered the Army in June 1941, served in infantry, engineer, signal and air defense units in Europe and the U.S. During World War II, he served in Ireland, England, Sicily and Italy.

He and his wife, Katherine, have lived in Petaluma since 1969 when he came to Fort Baker following an assignment in Europe. The couple, who reside at 436 Domer Avenue, plan to remain in Petaluma, along with their son, John, a student at Santa Rosa Junior College, and daughter, Laura Anne, a junior at Petaluma High School. Mrs. Terry has been a member of the Petaluma Newcomers Club's publicity committee for the past two years.

Park Wilderness Ban Is Now Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed a bill designed to bar high-rise buildings from state parks and establishing a state park "wilderness" concept in California for the first time.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, also provides for the first time "state vehicular recreation areas" for off-the-road vehicles such as dune buggies.

Written into law under th measure are requirements that ecological problems be considered in the development of areas within the state park system.

Sausalito Due Visit From Santa

Santa Claus, driving his 1929 Packard, will arrive in Sausalito Saturday for his first official 1971 visit to the city.

The visit arranged by the Sausalito Youth Center after extended negotiations with the "Arctic Circle Chamber of Commerce," will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a tour through town.

He will arrive at Vina Del Mar Plaza about 10 a.m. and remain until 3 p.m., or until he runs out of candy canes, toys and apples.

To Hear Report

The Larkspur School District board will hear an interim report on proposed district goals and objectives and discuss topics for a teachers' conference at 8 p.m. today at the school district office.

Budget Cut Expected To Hold Tax Rate

A headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal erroneously said a tax rate hike is expected in the Tamalpais High School District next year.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said a proposed budget of $10,050,396 will probably be trimmed to keep the tax rate at this year's level, $1.88 per $100 assessed valuation.

VOLUNTEERS AT MARIN HOSPITAL

Four Men Amid A Bunch Of Women

If hospital volunteer work provides satisfaction and a closeup view of medicine for women and girls interested in health careers, why, one wondered, could it not have the same appeal for men and boys?

Four Marin men wondered, too, and are now working as regular volunteers at Marin General Hospital. They may have sounded the death knell for the term, "Pink Ladies."

Paul and Bob are full-fledged In-Service Volunteers, serving patients, assisting the hospital staff and making lab and pharmacy deliveries.

RICK AND MAURICE also are members of the Book Cart Branch and deliver books to patients, Maurice on Saturday afternoons and Rick on Sundays. While the older volunteer serves alone, Rick is part of a two-volunteer team — the other half is a Junior Pink Lady.

Paul, 18, son of Mrs. Mona Dubman of Kentfield, wants to become a surgeon, and his courses at the College of Marin are aimed at this goal. He enjoys his association with health care at Marin General.

Bob, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Disher of Terra Linda, hopes to continue his education and finally work with mentally retarded children.

Both began their association with the hospital as part of the Play Therapy program in the Pediatrics Department, and both started last June.

The play therapists help the nurses in pediatrics by entertaining the young patients, and by helping with the therapy the children need to aid their recovery.

Paul and Bob, when things are slow in pediatrics, assist in the volunteer office, selling newspapers to patients and visitors, delivering packages, answering phones — doing any of the services provided by volunteers.

On his own, each asked Mary Miller, coordinator of volunteer services, if he could go through the training offered the female volunteers, with the goal of becoming part of the program.

Mrs. Miller agreed, but decided it would be easier for them to undergo their training in the same group.

Now they have completed the training and both now serve full four-hour shifts.

RICK, THE son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pilara, is looking ahead to a career as a biologist, and just decided on his own to stop in the volunteer office at Marin General Hospital and ask Mrs. Miller if there was something he could do.

Maurice Seaman also "just turned up" at Marin General, looking for ways he could serve. A soft-spoken senior citizen, he has traveled widely, and brings patients and interest to his stint with the book cart.

Mrs. Miller is unable to keep the pride out of her voice when she talks about the foursome. "They are a great bunch," she says, "and we thoroughly appreciate having them."

Marin's 1971 Christmas Seal Family

"Carolyn is our spark plug," says her father, Leonard Kristensen of Fairfax, whose family has been named Marin County Christmas Seal Family for the 1971 campaign.

Carolyn, 19, and the eldest child in the family, is a nursing student at the University of San Francisco, and through what she calls "influencing without argument," she feels she has helped set her family on the route to better health.

The Kristensens are increasingly concerned with air pollution and the environment.

A superintendent at a sheet metal company in San Francisco, Mr. Kristensen finds that his fellow workers are cutting down on smoking and they are beginning to think seriously about following his lead in bicycling, both for better health and to cut down on air pollution from automobile use.

Mrs. Kristensen, the only smoker in the family, has set herself a two-cigarettes-a-day allowance. Busy this month with her volunteer work as chairman of the Festival of Trees, she feels she may soon abandon even the two.

ALSO ATTENDING USF is Carolyn's 18-year-old sister Charlene, who hopes to become a doctor, Leonard Jr. is a student at Marin Catholic High School, Cheryl, 13, attends White Hills School, and Collette, 9, is a student at Manor School.

All are aware of preserving the environment. Their big interest in environment and ecology began when the high schools set up survival centers last summer. "Don't throw out cans and bottles," Carolyn told her family. "I'll take them to the center."

She also decided to revive an old bicycle belonging to her sister to ride to classes she was attending at the College of Marin. She later became the owner of a 10-speed bicycle of her own.

When Carolyn left for college in San Francisco, she found it was more difficult to get around on a bike in the crowded city than in Marin. Her father offered her a car to commute, but she refused, and when at home in Marin on weekends and holidays, she still depends on her bike for trips up and down the Fairfax hills.

WHEN THE two older girls went off to College, the recycling continued, with Cheryl and Collette taking over the tieing of paper bundles, squashing of tin cans and removing of labels from bottles.

The Kristensens feel that by working toward something, life can be improved for all, and hope their example will help clean up the environment and aid good respiratory health.

As the campaign family, they hope to aid the annual Christmas Seal campaign to fight emphysema, tuberculosis and pollution relating to respiratory health, by proving that all ages can help.

Be Careful With The Tree

There are sprays on the market for fireproofing a Christmas tree. Nevertheless, don't let that lead you into a false sense of security.

Hang as few electric lights as possible since overloading the tree with them creates too much heat. Be sure to examine the cords and discard those that are frayed.

If you keep your tree outdoors, make sure the lights are designed for outdoor use. Rain can cuase short-circuits in strings of lights not specifically made for outdoor use.

FTC Ruling Irks Apparel Makers

The Federal Trade Commission's ruling that permanent labels have to be attached to apparel has given manufacturers a kick in the pocketbook, they claim.

The FTC ruled that after July 3, 1972, all apparel and hosiery must bear permanent labels with washing and cleaning instructions. Manufacturers say that will cost them more money and headaches, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Some knew it was coming and prepared, but others are feeling bitter, the apparel trade newspaper said.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Bride's Question: Should She Send Gift-Givers Yule Cards?

DEAR RAP:

We had one of those super big weddings last June. I sent personal thank-you notes to about 300 people. We truly appreciated all those lovely gifts, but here's my question:

I read in some etiquette book that the bride and groom should send Christmas cards the first year of marriage to everyone who gave them wedding presents. It seemed very thoughtful and nice, and I tried — but I struck out with morning sickness. Writing makes me nauseous — even more than usual.

Is it really necessary to remember (with holiday cards) so many people who are more our parents' friends than ours? We're awfully grateful and we don't want to slight them, but — HOW CAN I?

DEAR HCI:

I know a couple who followed this etiquette edict about Christmas wishes to wedding gifters, and not only ended up with writers' cramp, but the following year discovered they were on about 300 card lists. When you start something, it often boomerangs.

So don't start it. — HELEN

DEAR HOW:

Christmas cards are for your own special friends, and try to hold the list down. It grows fast enough without searching in etiquette books for extra ways of increasing it. — SUE

NOTE FROM BOTH OF US:

We think Christmas cards are vastly overdone. Why send greetings to someone you see almost every day and to whom you can wish a "Merry Christmas" in person? Why "remember" near-strangers, just because you somehow got on their lists?

A card, we believe, should mean, "I'm thinking of you and I care." So it needs a personal note (very short if you wish) or at least your written signature, not just a printed name with nothing added to show it's from a friend.

Anyone for agreement? — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

Here's a suggestion for the person whose friends have everything. Give them Christmas presents of volunteer work. Find out what the friend's favorite charity is, and then offer to work free for that charity for X number of hours — as a gift to him or her. Get up some sort of certificate that shows your promise in writing.

If you can't spare the time, you can always donate to Care or UNICEF or other worthy causes in your friend's name.

It's got to be such a hassle, trying to find the right gift. Of course, this wouldn't work for everyone, but it would help solve a lot of Christmas shopping blues — because you'd know you were doing something that really helps. — W.S.B.

DEAR GENERATION RAP:

This is an answer to "Joey," whose sister is blackmailing him with pictures of him he doesn't want his parents or friends to see.

My sister had three pictures of me: 1. With a girl kissing me; 2. In the bath tub (1 and 2 are separate pictures by the way); and 3. of me smoking.

Well, I borrowed a friend's camera and waited patiently until I got the same kind of pictures of her. Then I showed them to her and said I'd make a trade.

We both tore up the pictures and burned the negatives. There's always a way, if you think about it long and hard enough. — EVAN

Mrs. John Begley is show and party chairman. Puppeteers will be Mmes. Gene Gaffney, Ellie Fairchild, Floyd Heckman, Lee Lynch, Tony Marelich, Hayden McAfee, Stephen Roberts and George Stucky.

After the shows, handcrafted gift items, including hand puppets created by the mothers, will be sold. Cookies will be distributed and Santa Claus will visit with Children. A photographer will be on hand to take "Santa and me" photographs.

All elementary schools with the exception of Loma Verde will be open from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., beginning Dec. 20. A variety of games, Christmas crafts and other activities based on the Christmas theme will be held for 6 through 12-year-old boys and girls.

A CHRISTMAS party and meeting will be held by officers and members of San Rafael Assembly 195, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, at 7:30 p.m. tonight. The gathering will be held at Masonic Hall in San Rafael. Gail Campbell's birthday also will be celebrated.

Christmastime Safety Tips

Never use candles as christmas window lights. Keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back from electric lights, and remember to turn off all Christmas lights at night and when everyone is out of the house.

On Christmas morning, pick up gift wrappings immediately after presents have been opened and place them outdoors in a trash can. Or if you wish to save them, fold them and put them in a safe place, away from heat and fire. The time to take the tree down is when the needles begin to fall. Discard the tree outside the house — never burn it in the fireplace or incinerator.

Use Care In Picking Wood For Fireplace

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council urges selectivity in the kind of wood used in the fireplace. Soft woods are more likely to throw dangerous sparks and also coat the chimney with tars and resins.

At Christmas time, burning large amounts of holiday wrappings in the fireplace can create roaring flames which could quickly ignite the soot and resins clinging to the chimney and cause a serious fire.

Check Yule Lights For Electrical Bugs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Check sets of electric lights closely before putting them on the Christmas tree, suggests the National Fire Protection Association. Look for worn insulation, broken plugs, loose bulb sockets.

Repair the damaged parts or discard the set and use in its place a new one— provided inspection shows the replacement set in good working order. Use only sets with Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) or Canadian Standards Association (CSA).

The Slimmer Look

Ski sweaters are slimmer, some in short hugger forms to go with racer length parkas, others tunic length and cabled, with belts or lace front closures. All are designed to offer endless mix, match and layer combinations to the skier.

New Procedure

BLAZE DESTROYS NOVATAN'S TRUCK

Flames engulf a new truck belonging to Leroy A. Winters, 36, of 1605 Center Road, Novato, on eastbound Highway 37 east of the Petaluma River Bridge. Winters, operator of a glass and upholstery shop, was delivering a load of plastic upholstery material to Fairfield at 9:30 p.m. yesterday when the blaze began, possibly from a cigarette flicked into the open rear of the truck. Winters and his wife escaped unharmed, but watched their truck burn for 20 minutes before Novato and Sonoma County firemen summoned by passing motorists reached the scene. Damage was listed as "more than $1,500."

Muir Beach Votes Curbs On Water

Directors of the Muir Beach Community Services District voted last night to limit new water connections in the district to domestic use, with a few exceptions, Chairman Bruce E. Harlow reported.

Muir Beach is served by its own well which the district operates, he said, and the board believes the well can produce "just enough water to serve our residential needs." He added the board thinks granting water for commercial use would seriously tax its system.

Commercial operations which have already applied for water will receive it, according to Harlow. For example, he said Charles Felix, who plans to build an English pub at Muir Beach, will be granted a connection.

In addition, the board voted to exclude recreational uses from the new water regulations, believing that enough water is available to serve recreational needs in the area. "If the state beach needs a new drinking fountain or something like that, we will be able to supply the water," Harlow said.

The seven derailed cars were on the rear of the train. The passengers were moved to the three standing cars and taken to Spokane after the two injured persons were dropped off at Bonners Ferry for treatment at the community hospital.

Cause of the derailment was not known immediately.

HOLIDAY HANGOVER CURES?

Medics Declare Sleep Is Best

WASHINGTON (UPI) —You can't really cure a hangover, you can only outlast it. If you live long enough.

How's that for a sour note as each passing day remorselessly brings closer the Christmas wassailing and New Year's carousing?

Sour or not, it seems to be true.

Bertie Wooster always said his valet, fellow named Jeeves, had the perfect hangover cure. It consisted of this and that and something else.

But P.G. Wodehouse, the great humorist who created Bertie and Jeeves, is, alas, a humorist, not a medical scientist.

And the medical scientists say that neither Jeeves' formula (whatever it was) nor any other that has been scientifically tested will produce an instant cure for a big, bad hangover.

But in case, quite by accident, you do drink too much on Christmas or New Year's, what can you do next day to get a bit of balm and surcease from pain?

Aspirin and a little solid food, if you can take it, may help. Sleeping it off is better, if you can.

But all this is still a matter of surviving, not curing, your hangover.

Steak sauce and tomato juice or beer, white wine, or half-and-half, with beaten up raw egg. (Doesn't work.)

Black coffee, of course. Mugs of it. (If you've tried it you know it doesn't really help.)

Ice bags, cold showers, breathing pure oxygen —if you can get it. (Old wives' tales, according to the National Institutes of Health.)

Raw oysters, chili peppers, vitamins, various drugs. (No scientific proof that they help at all.)

Prussic acid; a pistol shot in the head; decapitation. (Those are extreme "cures," and the medical community does not recommend them.)

Dr. Gertrude Maengwyn-Davies, professor of pharmacology at Georgetown University here, has concluded after much research that the one best way of getting over the miseries of a hangover is to "sleep it off." Some vitamin B1 may help.

So, how about preventing hangovers? A brochure recently issued by the national institutes of health suggests:

Don't gulp. The faster you drink the quicker you get drunk.

Drink sitting down and relaxed. You'll get tight less quickly than if you drink standing up.

"If you choose to drink, the best way to avoid a hangover," according to the NIH, "is to drink responsibly —sipping slowly, with food in the stomach, under relaxed social circumstances, and paying attention to your responses to the alcoholic beverages so (that) intoxication is avoided."

What is seems to boil down to is that the time to prevent a hangover is the night before.

Marinites Accused In Series Of Burglaries

Two Marin residents, suspected of receiving stolen goods taken by the carloads in San Francisco, were booked in Marin County Jail yesterday.

John Ackbarri, 33, of 1104 Ruhlman Lane, Novato, and Ruchell Louis Fisher, 21, of 15 La Brea Way, San Rafael, were picked up at the city prison in San Francisco where they had been questioned in connection with San Francisco burglaries.

They were held in Marin jail in lieu of $10,000 bail each and were to be arraigned today in Marin Municipal Court.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said San Francisco police went to Ackbarri's home last Oct. 14 and found furniture stolen in San Francisco between April and September.

According to Thomas, a railroad car was burglarized at 233 Industrial Street on April 9 and quantities of furniture stolen. Then on June 29, a truck and trailer was burglarized on Mission Street and about $20,000 worth of furniture and equipment stolen. On Sept. 26 a truck loaded with $20,000 worth of property was stolen on Golden Gate Avenue.

Thomas said some of these stolen items were found at Ackbarri's home.

Grant Awarded For Park Land

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal matching grant of $2,091,000 has been awarded to the state of California for acquiring additional land for the Annadel Farms State Park in Sonoma County, north of Santa Rosa, according to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The money, allocated from the Land and Water Conservation fund, will help the state Department of Parks and Recreation buy 4,100 acres of wooded lands.

The state must put up an equal amount to match the federal grant.

Chickens Killed By Epidemic

FONTANA (UPI)—An outbreak of Newcastle disease has killed 10,000 chickens, and farmers planned to destroy an additional 12,000 today in an attempt to halt the epidemic.

The contagious flu-like virus is usually fatal to birds but does not affect humans.

This is the fourth confirmed outbreak of the disease in the Fontana and Lancaster areas in the past eight weeks.

Tomales FFA Team Second

A two-member team from the Tomales chapter, Future Farmers of America, has finished a close second in a sectional quiz on agricultural cooperatives in Petaluma.

The team of Mike De Rutte and Marty Albini was topped by a team from Santa Rosa by less than a point, according to Earl Smith, FFA advisor at Tomales High School.

Albini ranked third in individual scoring and the team received a silver plaque in the Tuesday competition, sponsored by the Agricultural Council of California.

Priest Is Acquitted In Auto Death Case

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Rev. John Joseph Dunn, 53, a Roman Catholic priest, was found innocent Wednesday of charges of murder by auto in the deaths of two teen-age girls.

Dunn, 53, admitted he had several drinks the night of the Feb. 16 accident, but said he was not intoxicated. His car struck another car, killing Debra Ann Woods, 17, and Lynda Ann Lambert, 18.

Stanford Fund Pinch Told By President

STANFORD (UPI) —It is a myth to think Stanford is "a rich institution and has no real financial problem," according to the school's president.

Richard Lyman told the Stanford Club of Palo Alto Wednesday, "we would hardly be seeking ways to reduce our budget commitments by $6 million from our budget base by 1974 if we were as rich as we are assumed to be.

Widening Easement Granted

The Marin Community College District board last night granted an easement to the county to allow widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The board had long disputed the widening project of the county Public Works Department, but agreed to go along with it last month after learning the county might sue to obtain the narrow easement.

The county has agreed to pay $1,300 for the easement and a bus stop shelter that will be removed.

In a related matter, the board postponed to Jan. 5 a public hearing on whether it should concur in the sale of a portion of the Phillips Petroleum property on the corner of Drake and College Avenue. The district has an option to buy the lot, but the county wants part of it for the widening project.

The Marin Community College District board also:

Donations Build For Boys Club

The Novato Boys Club campaign for a $100,000 building fund has reached $51,668 with a $1,000 contribution from a Novato roofing contractor, according to Edward T. Ghirardo, drive chairman.

The donation came from R.H. Garzoli, owner of Novato Roofing Co. and De Mello Roofing Co. in San Rafael, Ghirardo said.

Thus far in the campaign, there have been 244 donors with an average contribution of $211, he reported.

Motorcycle Borrower Fails To Come Back

Police said the motorcycle, a 1971 Honda CB 350, was taken at 4 p.m. The vehicle had been left at the shop by its owner, Robert S. Morgan of 393 Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae, police said.

Crackdown On Street Artists

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Police Department planned to resume its crackdown on street artists again today.

An injunction has kept police from arresting street artists the last two months, pending a trial on the constitutionality of the city peddlers' licensing law.

But Superior Court Judge Charles Perry ruled Tuesday that the ordinance is not unconstitutional, as had been asserted by the Street Artists Guild.

The guild had contended that sellers of art objects did not need a license since expressions of art were protected under the First Amendment of the Constitution.

Prostitutes Aid In VD Research

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Health officials and a brothel owner in Nevada agree that a drug used experimentally by prostitutes to prevent venereal disease was highly successful.

The program, which started in September, officially has ended and State Health Officer Dr. David Carr said Wednesday "it definitely has reduced" VD.

The drug, Progonasyl, was tested by 185 girls working in the various houses of prostitution in Nevada's rural counties.

Ex-Sally Stanford Employee Acquitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former employee of Sally Stanford was acquitted by a superior court jury yesterday of burglarizing the Sausalito restaurateur's Pacific Heights home in July 1970.

Hardy Cleveland Harrison, 42, was accused of taking nearly $14,000 from a safe in the home, but said the money was his. Harrison said he had kept the money with Miss Stanford for safekeeping.

Harrison told the jury of nine women and three men that he and Miss Stanford were like "mother and son" prior to the alleged theft. He had once operated the parking lot at Miss Stanford's Valhalla restaurant.

Novato GOP Women Elect

Joyce Miler of 1 Brassie Court has been elected president of the Novato Republican Women's Club, succeeding Esther Scminbor.

Mrs. Miler, who served as chairman of ways and means during the past year, was installed at a luncheon Tuesday at Nero's restaurant.

Genieve Grundstrom was installed as first vice-president; Virginia Gallagher, second vice-president; Dorothy Hoover, corresponding secretary; Madeline Lang, recording secretary, and Cameo Phillips, treasurer.

BART Supported On Link To Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Airport access has accepted unanimously recommendations that the Bay Area Rapid Transit system be extended into San Mateo County at least as far as the city's airport.

English Fine Ex-Marinite Over Pistol

I-J Special Report

LUTON, England — A Vietnam War veteran from Marin, facing trial in Texas on a charge of attempting to kill a police officer, today was fined $225 for entering England with an illegal pistol.

Dennis Marnell, 27, of San Geronimo, had pleaded guilty in a British court to having a pistol with him when he arrived last week on a charter plane from Los Angeles at Luton Airport.

He said, however, that the gun was dismantled and that he had no intention of using it in England.

At the time of his sentencing, his attorney described Marnell as one of the most decorated veterans of the Vietnam War, with 22 medals, including the Silver Star and four Purple Hearts, to his credit.

Marnell had been held in custody since his arrest after a police sergeant told the local magistrate he had jumped $4,500 bail in Fort Worth, Tex., to avoid prosecution on the attempted murder charge.

John Brady, chief prosecutor in the district attorney's office in Fort Worth, said today he intended to ask the Department of State to find out whether England will deport Marnell.

He said Marnell's trial would be reset for after Jan. 1, and if the veteran fails to show up, his bail will be forfeited. He also said if Marnell remains in England, he would consider pursuing extradition.

Marnell, who calls himself a Communist, had been scheduled to go on trial in Texas in October for allegedly shooting at a Texas narcotics officer, but proceedings were postponed when he entered a San Francisco hospital for treatment of shrapnel wounds suffered in Vietnam.

The shooting, which occurred in November 1970, grew out of a drug raid on a Fort Worth residence.

Narcotics, Pot Charges Denied

Jerry Ray Wade, 21, of San Rafael pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges that he had heroin for sale and possessed marijuana in a Bermuda Palms motel room on Monday.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 28 as time for a preliminary hearing.

San Rafael police and Marin County drug agents said they found 14 balloons and a plastic bag containing suspected heroin, along with a bag of pot in Wade's room.

Wade also faces trial next Feb. 14 on a charge of credit card forgery. He was arrested in San Rafael on Oct. 27 on that charge.

OUTINGS, VOLLEYBALL

Angela's Jail Days More Varied Now

I-J Special Report

PALO ALTO — In contrast to a more austere life while in the Marin County Jail, Angela Davis is now being taken on outings to a women's jail where she has played volleyball and visited with other inmates.

Lt. Donald Tamm of the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Department said today that Miss Davis has been taken twice from her basement cell in Palo Alto to the jail in Milpitas for exercise and companionship.

Her chief attorney, Howard Moore Jr. said she spent three hours there one day last week, "exercising and visiting with other people for a change — having coffee with the girls." She went again on Monday, Lieutenant Tamm said.

Sheriff's officials declined to describe details of the 24-mile trips because of security, but said they were in order to carry out court orders that the former university instructor be given fresh air and exercise.

They indicated Miss Davis had commented favorably on her new situation but declined to quote her.

Meanwhile, it was announced yesterday by the presiding judge of Santa Clara County Superior Court, that a 64-seat courtroom in San Jose has been chosen for her trial, scheduled to begin Jan. 31.

The room was chosen because it links directly by tunnel to the county jail next door, where Miss Davis is to be moved soon.

It has not been decided yet whether to remodel a portion of that jail, which has no facilities for women, or to transport her daily to her trial.

Miss Davis was moved from Marin Dec. 2 on a change of venue motion. She had spent almost a year in jail at the Civic Center awaiting trial on murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges stemming from the August 1970 shoot-out.

Her January trial date was chosen as a compromise between an earlier one requested by the prosecution and a later one asked by her attorneys.

Airline Granted Permission To Fly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The state Public Utilities Commission Wednesday granted Valley Airlines "temporary authority" to operate flights between Oakland and four other California cities.

The grant stipulated the authority will last until next Nov. 30 unless the airline shows to the commission it has the resources to handle the traffic on a permanent basis.

'24-Hour Theory' Will Be Tested

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—A French scientist who proposes to live in a dark cave without clocks to test a theory that man does not function naturally on a 24-hour cycle has postponed the test one month.

Michel Siffre, 32, who was to enter the cave in far southwest Texas today, said the postponement was caused by a generator failure.

Narcotics Raid In Border City

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Police arrested 14 persons and seized marijuana and dangerous drugs worth $500,000 Wednesday.

Twelve agents raided three locations and gathered up 3.5 ounces of uncut heroin, 6.3 pounds of pure cocaine, three million benzedrine tablets and 464 pounds of marijuana.

Police also seized 27 counterfeit $100 bills. The suspects, all believed to be Mexicans, were turned over to the federal district attorney for prosecution.

Pot Possession Guilt Admitted

Albert S. Hoppert, 40, of Tiburon, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to possessing marijuana.

He appeared yesterday before Judge E. Warren McGuire and admitted having marijuana at his home on Leland Way last July 1. Other charges against him — cultivating pot and having a device for smoking pot.

The judge set Jan. 17 as time for sentencing.

Hoppert was arrested July 1 by Marin County Drug Abuse agents, who said they found marijuana plants thriving in Hoppert's garden.

Jane Fonda Gets Nod From Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda and her anti-war theater troupe planned to return to Japan today with permission to stage at least four more shows satirizing the Vietnam War.

The Japanese Ministry of Justice Tuesday agreed to issue Miss Fonda and her 25-member troupe visas for theatrical performances.

The troupe, known as "Free Theater Associates" (FTA), performed twice in the Tokyo area during a six-day visit earlier this month.

Novato Baseball Gets Feminine Touch

By RALPH CHATOIAN

News item in yesterday's I-J: A Novato woman fighting for women's rights on the baseball diamond won a concession from the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission and now girls can play in the city's Farm League.

If there are not enough girls to form a separate girls league they'll be mixed in with the boys in the program for 9 to 12-year-olds.

"Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," said M. Elizabeth Smith. Two girls played in the league last year as an experiment, then came the ban, and now the lifting of the ban.

I immediately went after what newspaper people like to call a "reaction story." I didn't have to go far.

"Hey Rick," I called out to my 9-year-old son. "How did you like playing in Farm League this year?"

"It was just great, Dad," said he.

"Now girls can play on your team. How's that make you feel?" I needled.

"Oh, no!" he shrieked, "Not girls."

"Oh, yes!" I answered. "Do you still want to play in Farm League next season?"

"Some girls were playing in the league last season but I wouldn't want any on our team," he said. But I'll still play. That was fun."

I think the Novato program was great. It was low key, without the pressure of the serious, super organized Little League. All kids got to play, each getting to swing the bat an equal number of times. The Novato girls are lucky to get a chance in this program. Another home run for the Women's Lib movement.

TWO NOVATO players were the best defensive men on the Sonoma State football team. After being named to the All-Far Western Conference second team, senior end Rick Smith was named "Outstanding Defensive Lineman" by the Sonoma State team and sophomore cornerback Bob Sears received the "Outstanding Defensive Back" award.

IN THE latest news release from the Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union, was a help wanted ad for an age group swimming coach needed by Jan. 1, by the Marin Aquatic Club. Applicants should get in touch with Don Swartz at P.O. Box 865, San Rafael.

BASKETBALLS FOR KIDS will be the Warriors' early Christmas presents Saturday night at Oakland Coliseum Arena. It will be basketball night when the Warriors go against the Detroit Pistons. Every youngster, 16 and under, who purchases a reserved seat for the game will get a free basketball.

The Warriors' game against the super red-hot Lakers in Los Angeles tomorrow night will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, at 8 o'clock. The Lakers will be trying to stretch their new NBA consecutive reeord to 23 in that game against the Golden Staters.

All Warriors games are broadcast on radio by KTIM-FM.

Rondon Stops Baird in 8th

Champion Slices Up Game Foe

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Vincente Rondon of Venzuela knocked out challenger Doyle Baird of Akron, Ohio, in the eighth round Wednesday night to retain his World Boxing Association light heavyweight title.

"He's a good tough middleweight but the best thing for him to do is retire," Rondon said of the Akron foundry worker. Baird, 33, was two and one-half inches shorter and five pounds lighter than the champion.

"The light heavyweight class is just too much for Baird," Rondon said through his manager and interpreter Felix Zabala. "He is a game fighter but he cuts off easily."

Baird had come out fast, trying for a quick knockout in the first round. But while the 170-pound challenger threw a lot of punches in the first three

BY POLL

Fox Selected Top Manager

ST LOUIS (UPI) — Charlie Fox, who guided the San Francisco Giants to the Western Division Title in the National League this year, was named manager of the year by the Sporting News Wednesday in a poll of the 24 major league managers.

Close behind in the balloting was Bob Lemon, who piloted the Kansas City Royals to a second place finish in the American League West. A three-way tie developed for third between Earl Weaver, whose Baltimore Orioles captured a third consecutive American League pennant; Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics which captured the American League Western Division Title, and Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox.

The 50-year-old Fox has been a member of the Giant organization since 1942, starting as a catcher with Bristol in the Appalachian League and appearing in three Giant games. He then entered the Navy and never returned to the majors as a player. After his discharge in 1946, Fox played briefly at Manchester and then took the reins as manager of that team. He then went back to Bristol to both catch and manage, moved to St. Cloud and Sunbury, managing and catching for those teams also.

He served as a scout for the Giants for seven years and then managed Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League.

In 1965, he was brought up to the parent club as a coach and in May 1970, was named manager.

Last season, the Giants grabbed the division lead six days after the season opened and held it all the way, although going to the wire against the Dodgers the final two weeks. The title came despite the lack of a 20-game winner or a .300 — or even .290 — hitter, and the lowest team fielding percentage in the Major Leagues.

IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Foster To Defend Title Against Kelly, Poverty

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — World Light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster will face two foes.

First, the slender slugger will be battling his life-long antagonist — poverty, and secondly, he will be defending his half of the disputed title, shared with Vicente Rondon, against Brian Kelly.

Regarding his first foe, Foster pointed out he has been out of boxing before. And, according to Foster, his retirement in years past was tantamount to poverty.

He did not enjoy being poor, thus he returned to boxing and won a piece of the crown.

"Three years ago, I couldn't get a loaf of bread without paying cash and there were a lot of times I didn't have the money either," Foster said on the eve of his championship fight with Oklahoma challenger Kelly tonight.

Foster had quit the ring at the age of 24 after five years as an "in and outer" and took a job in Baltimore in a bomb factory. Retirement wasn't all that much better than the ring, so the Albuquerque, N. M., fighter gave up his job and returned to boxing.

He claimed the light-heavyweight title from Dick Tiger in 1968.

Tonight's match in Oklahoma City will be the first world championship boxing contest in Oklahoma history. Challenging the 6-foot-3 champion will be Kelly, winner of his last 23 fights.

Kelly also has retired from fighting once, two years ago because of an elbow injury.

Tests Crimp Stanford Practices

STANFORD (UPI)—Final examinations are putting a crimp in the Stanford football workouts for the Rose Bowl encounter with undefeated Michigan Jan. 1.

"For the second day in a row, many of the players had to miss our drills because of the exams," said coach John Ralston Wednesday night. "But most of them are over now and we expect to knuckle down to some serious work with most of the squad on Thursday."

Running back Jackie Brown and receiver Miles Moore reported for the first time to the third Rose Bowl workout Wednesday. Ralston said all three of his quarterbacks were throwing the ball "fairly well" during a 20-minute scrimmage pitting the top offensive teams against the first two defensive units.

Warriors To Host Philadelphia 76ers

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors try to end a six-game losing string tonight against the Philadelphia 76ers, a club which figures it can make the playoffs.

Coach Al Attles of the Warriors hopes his team has had a chance to regroup since losing to Seattle in their last game last Friday.

"We were not playing badly but neither were we playing too well," said Attles. "When you've stopped moving well and your shots are not dropping in, the trouble is compounded.

"We've been drilling to combat the problem both ways. We want to move more and we've been working to hoist our shooting percentage."

Philadelphia is currently in third place in the NBA's Atlantic Division East, 2 1-2 games behind second place New York. Since the acquisition of center Bob Rule from Seattle, the 76ers have been playing fine basketball.

"We have a legitimate title chance for the first time since Wilt Chamberlain left (in 1968)," said All Star forward Bill Cunningham.

Teamed with Rule and Cunningham is Bill Bridges, obtained recently from the Atlanta Hawks. Rule has been averaging 18 points a game since coming to Philadelphia while Bridges is pulling down 13.6 rebounds a game.

All of the Warriors are healthy and rested. They need to be that way because they play three nights in a row. The Warriors are at Los Angeles Friday and return to Oakland for a game with the Detroit Pistons Saturday night. Every youngster, 16 and under, purchasing a reserved seat for the Piston game will receive a free basketball.

Joe Ellis won the $100 Quaker Oats Award as the Warriors Unsung Hero for November. Clyde Lee was the October winner.

Lamonica Gets Call Vs. Denver

OAKLAND (UPI) —As far as coach John Madden and the Oakland Raiders are concerned, the season is far from over.

Madden squashed rumors Wednesday that he might give seldom-used Ken Stabler a shot at quarterbacking the Raiders against the Denver Broncos in the season finale at the Oakland Coliseum Sunday. Stabler replaced an injured Lamonica in the first Denver game and the southpaw from Alabama tossed one touchdown pass and ran for another in a 27-16 victory.

But Madden says veteran Daryle Lamonica will open at quarterback Sunday.

"This is pro football and you play with your best to win every game," said Madden. "We've played 19 games this season and had plenty of scrimmages in training camp. If we haven't seen our young people by now, we're never going to see them."

Rozelle Refutes Rogers' Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Congressman Paul Rogers' charge that the National Football League was "testing the legal waters" of closed circuit television for future telecasts of its title games was called "absolutely ludicrous" Wednesday by pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle.

In an exclusive interview with the UPI Editorial Board, Rozelle said last Saturday's closed circuit telecast of the Baltimore-Miami game in Miami "confirmed my judgment that closed circuit is not a big thing for pro football." Rozelle said the closed circuit telecast was attended by only 3,900 persons despite a seat-capacity of 30,000.

"I think the Ali-Frazier fight gave many people misconceptions about what can be done on theater TV outside of just an unusual one-shot event," said Rozelle. "I think that Rep. Rogers and a great number of people are quite misinformed about both our testimony before Congress and also about the proposed FCC guidelines that will undoubtedly pass in some form."

The proposed FCC guidelines stipulate that an event that has been carried in free TV in an area for two or three years cannot be made available for closed circuit TV without first being offered to home TV. Rozelle said there were "no loopholes" to the proposed law.

"For many reasons, including the FCC guidelines, I see no basic change in our TV policy," Rozelle said. "I think the Ali Frazier fight led a great number of people to erroneous conclusions as to what can be done in other sports on theater TV."

Charles Finley Promises Raise

OAKLAND (UPI) —Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics baseball team, says lefthanded pitcher Vida Blue will get a "substantial raise" over his 1971 salary of $14,750.

Finley said he was awaiting word from baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn on 1972 contract guidelines. Right now, nearly all pay boosts are limited to 5.5 per cent by the national pay advisory board.

Determined Detroit Team To Face 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Detroit coach Joe Schmidt says his Lions will be giving the San Francisco 49ers everything they have Sunday.

"We are coming out there to win," said Schmidt. "It would be a lot better for us to finish 8-5-1 instead of 7-6-1."

Despite missing cornerback Dick LeBeau and possibly tight end Charlie Sanders (sprained arch) and middle linebacker Mike Lucci (thigh) coach Dick Nolan of the 49ers figures the Lions will provide formidable opposition.

"The Lions have a lot of people with a lot of ability," said Nolan. "Steve Owens is going for 1,000 yards and (quarterback) Greg Landry's not only a thrower but a good runner. They put in running plays for him for just that reason."

Owens needs only 24 more yards to become the first Lion ever to rush for 1,000 yards. Landry can break Tobin Rote's quarterback rushing record of 523 yards by gaining 19 yards on the ground against the 49ers.

Schmidt said wide receiver Earl McCullouch apparently has shaken off a rib injury and will be ready to play Sunday.

A win by the 49ers or a loss by the Los Angeles Rams to Pittsburgh Sunday would give San Francisco the championship of the NFC West. However, a loss by the 49ers and a win by Los Angeles would put the Rams in the playoffs instead of San Francisco.

HOUSTON AIDE SAYS

Notre Dame Defender Heads Pro Draft List

HOUSTON (UPI) — Defensive end Walt Patulski of Notre Dame and quarterback John Reeves of Florida will probably be the first two players selected in the upcoming pro draft, the owner and general manager of the Houston Oilers said Wednesday.

Owner Bud Adams said if the Oilers get to pick second in the draft they would select and trade Reeves, who broke Jim Plunkett's NCAA passing record this year.

The Oilers entertain the San Diego Chargers Sunday in the Astrodome and if the Chargers win, the Oilers will have the second worst record in the National Football League and hence the No. 2 draft pick.

Last week the Oilers played Buffalo, the team with the first pick, and Oiler general manager John Breen said he talked with officials about the draft. Breen said the Buffalo officials said they would select Patulski first.

Adams said Huston, if it got the second pick, would go with Reeves. He said the Oilers could then trade Reeves and possibly Lynn Dickey, a quarterback drafted last time, for an offensive back or lineman.

"You could probably get three offensive linemen for Reeves," Adams said. "There are several teams wanting quarterbacks and there aren't that many good ones available this year."

Adams said he liked Nebraska's Jeff Kinney better than any other college running back and preferred Robert Newhouse of the University of Houston over Alabama's All-American Johnny Musso.

Breen said Bob Moore of Oregon would be the first running back drafted by the pros.

Adams also said coach Ed Hughes' timing was bad in the firing of offensive backfield coach Walt Schlinkman this week.

minutes, he landed only one solid blow, on the side of Rondon's head.

Rondon slowed down Baird in the sixth and seventh rounds before belting him at will in the eighth.

A right chop to the head dropped Baird in a neutral corner for an eight count at 1:14 and he was sent across the ropes for another eight count at 1:49 in the eighth.

"He kept hitting me with that right chop," Baird said later. "Every time I tried to counter with the left ... bang, there he was again with that hard right to the head."

It was Rondon's 23rd straight victory. He is now hoping to meet Bob Foster. A bout in San Juan, Puerto Rico, has been submitted to the WBA for approval.

"We have talked with Foster for the past three weeks and have sent the offer to the WBA," said Zabala. "We will fight anywhere and hope to meet Foster on Feb. 18.

"If Foster, who is the number one challenger, doesn't want to fight, we will have to fight Mike Quarry," Zabala added.

Griffin had breezed through the first six rounds of the scheduled 10-rounder, but Brown caught him with a hard right to the jaw and sent him to the canvas for an eight count. Griffin got up but was decked again and the referee stopped the bout at 2:37 of the seventh round.

Frank Kolovrat, 150, Cleveland, ran his unbeaten streak to 18 in a unanimous six-round decision over Sammy Maul, Dayton, Ohio, and Mike Harris decisioned Ray Carrington in a battle of Cleveland light weights.

FOUL — Texas Tech University coed Charlotte Toombs intently followed the intramural basketball action at Lubbock last night, thus becoming the first woman in Texas to referee a sanctioned basketball game.

CHARLOTTE TOOMBS

Female Basketball Referee Makes Debut In Texas Contest

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Charlotte Toombs isn't exactly a proponent of women's liberation, but the Texas Tech University junior feels there's a place for her in a previous all-male domain.

Wednesday night Miss Toombs tied back her black tresses, put on the regulation trousers and black and white striped shirt and became the first woman in Texas to referee a sanctioned basketball game.

"I'm a little nervous," she said after the intramural contest between two Reese Air Force Base teams. "Some of my friends said the eyes of Texas were on me tonight."

Miss Toombs called the game exactly one month after she paid her $10 dues to become a member of the Southwestern Basketball Officials Association. At 21, she is at the minimum age required for a basketball official.

She has been assigned to referee three more games tonight in Rawls, Tex., and will be one of the referees at a High School tournament in Salton, Tex., Jan. 21-23.

"Before tonight's game I received telephone calls, letters and telegraphs from throughout the state," Miss Toombs said. "Everyone seemed interested."

She said no one was willing to hire her until a news story and her picture were published Dec. 6.

"Since then everyone wants me," Miss Toombs, who is an English major at the West Texas School, said. "I've had offers from Dallas and Houston. The response has just been fantastic."

Minor League Seeks Spots In NHL Growth

SEATTLE (UPI)—Bill MacFarland, president of the Western Hockey League, is hoping the National Hockey League will consider all six WHL teams as a package in any future expansion plans.

He said this was in lieu of possible acceptance of one or two teams at a time from the WHL. The six cities in the WHL are Salt Lake, Seattle, Denver, Phoenix, San Diego and Portland.

The board of governors of the NHL meet Jan 29 in Minneapolis and reports circulated in Seattle they will consider some of the WHL cities for possible NHL expansion franchises. At present, the NHL has 14 teams.

Two Goalies Achieve Assists

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Merely stopping other people from scoring doesn't seem to be enough for some goaltenders.

Ken Dryden of Montreal and Gilles Villemure of New York, two of the better goalies in the world, joined the scoring ranks Wednesday night when they picked up assists, which must be some kind of record in itself with goalies getting credit for two points in one night.

Dryden, in fact, tied a National Hockey League record with his third assist of the season, a mark first achieved two years ago by Bernie Parent, then with Philadelphia, as the Canadiens beat the Los Angeles Kings, 3-1.

Dryden helped set up the first goal when he cleared a shot by Jean Potvin onto the stick of Jacques Lemaire, who in turn dropped a pass to Frank Mahovlich. Mahovlich fired a 45-foot slapshot in the opening minutes of the game.

Villemure earned the first assist of his NHL career as New York whipped the Flyers, 6-2. Villemure started the Rangers to their fifth goal when he passed the puck to Rod Seiling, who fed Jean Ratelle. Philadelphia was caught in a line change at the time, and Ratelle, who had skated to the ice just a moment before, was in clear against goalie Doug Favell.

The Chicago Black Hawks maintained a four-point bulge over Minnesota in the West by nipping the Buffalo Sabres, 2-1, while the North Stars were snapping a four-game losing streak with a 4-1 decision over the St. Louis Blues. In the other game played, Toronto edged Pittsburgh, 3-2.

Dryden almost had his fourth shutout in addition to the assist but Eddie Joyal scored for Los Angeles with 7 1-2 minutes left in the game. Jacques Lemaire and Marc Tardif were the other Canadien marksmen.

Joe Torre Receives 'Hutch' For Spirit

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Joe Torre, the hard-hitting third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Most Valuable Player in the National League, is the winner of the 1971 "Hutch Award" and will collect it at the annual Dapper Dan sports dinner in Pwttsburgh on Feb. 6.

New York Giant Takes Catching Lead From 49er

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tight end will lead the National Football Conference in pass receiving for the first time this season. The only question is which one.

Bob Tucker of the New York Giants holds the lead with 51 receptions and San Francisco's Ted Kwalick is in hot pursuit with 49 as they enter Sunday's regular season finales, according to official statistics released by the League today.

Tucker has gained 675 yards with his receptions, averaging 13.2 yards per catch while Kwalick has picked up 632, an average of 12.9 a reception.

Gene Washington of San Francisco and Roy Jefferson of Washington, both wide receivers, are tied for third at 43 receptions each.

Roger Staubach of Dallas had the passing title wrapped up. In the ratings system used by the league based on percentage, percentage of interceptions, touchdowns and average yards gained, Staubach has seven points compared to 18 1-2 for runnerup Greg Landry of Detroit.

Rookie John Brockington of Green Bay holds a commanding lead in the rushing race with 1,032 yards, well ahead of runnerup Willie Ellison of Los Angeles, who has 977.

Washington's Curt Knight, with 107 points, will try to hold off Bruce Gossett of San Francisco and Errol Mann of Detroit, both with 94, for the scoring title.

The battle for the American Football Conference passing title will be between youth and age this Sunday.

The youth belongs to Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins and the age to Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs. According to official league statistics released today, Griese is the conference's No. 1. passer with a 10-point rating and Dawson ranks second at 10 1-2 points.

Griese holds the edge in the TD department with 19 to Dawson's 15 and in interceptions, throwing only nine as compared to Dawson's 13. But Dawson has thrown for 2,504 yards to Griese's 1,967.

Rozelle Nixes Game Betting

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rozelle is a highly sensitive man, sensitive in this case having to do with that super quick capacity of his for picking up impressions rather than any noticeable tendency toward being thin-skinned.

This is rather understandable inasmuch as Pete Rozelle makes his living by being commissioner of the National Football League, and it is equally understandable why he would be, and is, highly sensitive about Howard Samuels' operation.

HORSE RACES

OTB has made it possible to place bets on horse races legally without going out to the track. Until last Monday OTB's principal revenue resulted from bets covering flat and harness races taking place on New York tracks. Tropical Park was added Monday by OTB and Laurel is due to get its first play today.

Howard Samuels, who has done a fine job with all this, would like to do much more. He says he'd like OTB to take bets on pro football, baseball, Jai Alai, tiddledewinks or whatever.

NOT DISTURBED

He's not disturbed about any future legalized gambling on baseball, Jai Alai or tiddledewinks but he is upset about any such operation that would involve pro football games.

"Do you think OTB has a chance with pro football?" Rozelle was asked Wednesday during an exclusive question-and-answer session with the UPI Editorial Board.

"Certainly," he said. "That's why I'm so concerned."

Rozelle originally objected to Samuels' plan because he felt it would "enlarge the scope" of bets being made on pro football games already and because he also felt "this thing can only chip away at the integrity of our sport . . ."

Samuels said Rozelle was being "naive."

'NAIVE'

"If I'm naive, then I'm spending $200,000 of the owners' money every year fruitlessly," says Rozelle now. "Sure, some enforcement officials are for legalized gambling on pro football games. They say 'legalize it.' I don't blame them. It gets them off the hook. Now they don't have to worry themselves about illegal gambling. But we don't want to be the fall guys."

Pete Rozelle's awareness is forever evident, the same way it was some time back when he had reason to believe he was going to enjoy a game at Yankee Stadium in more or less anonymity.

One of the Mara family, which owns the New York Giants, felt Rozelle would like to sit off by himself, so he arranged for a special box on the other side of the field. The box had four seats in it and since Rozelle came with a friend of his, two of the seats were empty.

DRIFTED

Only for a while though. Two youngsters eventually drifted into them and from their general conversation it became obvious they had bet $5 or $10 on some of the games.

"They'd see the scores being posted on the board and make certain remarks," Rozelle relates. "Pittsburgh would be down, 7-0, and one would say to the other, 'look, they're going into the tank already.' I took about as much of this as I could, then turned and said to one of the boys, look, you're sitting in my seats, and I don't mind, but I don't care for the general tone of your conversation about teams doing this and doing that, and I'd appreciate if you didn't continue that sort of talk."

Both youngsters were quiet for some time.

Until the gun went off ending the ball game. Then one of the boys tapped the commissioner on the shoulder and went . . . Pow!

San Rafael Matmen Romp; Pin 5 Foes

San Rafael High School won its second lopsided wrestling match in two outings by defeating host South San Francisco yesterday, 48-13.

Five Bulldogs won by fall. They were Chuck Stuart (95 pounds), Brian Witt (138) and Chris Clader (heavyweight) in the second period and Wolf Kristensen (154) and Dirk Correnti (191) in the third.

Decision victors included Bryan Duff (120) 9-0, Paul Clark (127) 7-1, Dave Hughes (145) 5-0 and Al Garbarino (165) 8-5. Paul Treanor (103) won by forfeit.

$50,000 Women's Net Tourney Slated

DALLAS (UPI) — Women's tennis, long riding in the back seat while their male counterparts took the limelight, will have a $50,000 tournament of their own next spring —the Maureen Connolly Brinker International.

The rich tournament, a charity affair whose proceeds will go to a foundation named after the late Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly Brinker, a threetime Wimbledon champion who was struck down by cancer, has been set for March 6-12 at the T Bar M Racquet Club.

The foundation provides financial aid to promising young tennis players and development programs.

Evonne Goolagong, the 19-year-old Australian whiz ranked No. 1 in the world, will be a contestant and will be in the same tournament with the bright United States prodigy, 16-year-old Chris Evert, for the first time.

Free Admission For Toy Giving Set At Meadows

SAN MATEO (UPI) —An unwrapped new toy worth at least $2 will get you a free admission into Bay Meadows Friday.

The toys are being collected by the U.S. Marines Corps Reserve for distribution to needy children.

Forty-three Christmas shoppers collected a $1,431 exacta payoff in the ninth race Wednesday after watching Mystic Sky ($8.60) nip Can't Regret by a nose in the featured eighth race.

A Winning Record For Marin Cagers

By LEW CODDINGTON

With almost a month of non-league basketball gone buy, it's fair to ask how Marin County teams are doing in comparison to their rivals throughout northern California.

The answer is: not half bad. The MCAL is 21-16 against all foes. It's 0-1 against the East Bay, 1-0 against the Peninsula, 6-4 against San Francisco, and 14-11 against everybody up north.

Admittedly, those figures are a bit stacked. Redwood and Tamalpais, two regional powers, are a combined 9-1 against the auslanders and have left nothing but blood and wreckage up and down the Peninsula.

On the other hand, the Drake Invitational Tournament was a mismatch, with powerful Napa and Petaluma going 4-0 against the MCAL's mortals.

Removing all those games, you are left with the middle-rank MCAL teams going 12-11 against the middle-rank teams from elsewhere. A representative showing.

"The basketball you play up there (Marin) is as good as anywhere around here," said Washington High coach John McGrath earlier this year. His team, a good one, lost to Redwood and beat San Rafael.

Actually, the East Bay seems to play the best ball, at least judging from the last two Tournaments of Champions, both won by Berkeley High.

Marin County's favorite victims this year have been Healdsburg and Analy of Sebastopol. San Marin and Drake beat Analy; San Rafael, San Marin and Terra Linda beat Healdsburg. Lincoln of San Francisco is Redwood's private property, victimized by the Giants twice in a week.

Metz' Trojans are the league's best defensive team, giving up 35 goals in six games, or 5.8 a game. His team is scoring at an 11.8 clip, and is the only team in the league to double its opponents' total.

Redwood has the highest scoring team, 15.0, but is giving up 9.7, due to its small pool. San Rafael ranks third in scoring at 10.5 and second in defense at 7.7

Novato has given up as many as it has scored, 10.0, but has made its goals count and is tied with San Rafael and Redwood for second behind Terra Linda. San Marin, which has split six games and owns an upset over Terra Linda, is scoring 9.2 and yielding 10.0

The figures reveal that Tamalpais is playing tough water polo despite its 1-5 league record. The Indians have scored only nine less than they've given up all year, 58.67.

BACK TO HAUNT — San Rafael's basketball victory over Armijo was a sweet one for Bulldog coach Mike Diaz, who prepped at the Fairfield school. In fact, he beat his own ex-coach, the veteran Ed Hopkins.

"We've played six or seven times in the 10 years I've been at San Rafael," said Diaz. "I think I'm one or two up on him."

PLATOONS — Diaz surprised a few people when he put in five substitutes at once late in the first quarter against Armijo. "I'm still trying to see which players function best as a unit under game conditions," he said.

Could this be the start of two-platoon basketball in Marin County?

LIKE FATHER, ETC. — When Redwood played Lincoln, it set up an interesting conflict in the Payne family. Dave Payne plays for Redwood; his father, Don, coaches at Lincoln.

POINT PINNACLE — Marin County teams have gone to the post 54 times so far, and on 15 occasions, a player has scored 20 points or more. At least one man from each team has done it.

Will Garner of Tamalpais hit 20 five times in his six games, and has the season high for a Marinite, 28. He is averaging 22.0.

Motorcycles Triumph

Chris Speck scored 25 points to lead Motorcycles Unlimited to a 74-48 victory over the Trotters last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation adult softball league game.

BOWLING TIPS
By MARION LADEWIG

Women bowlers who find it difficult to generate sufficient speed might try a higher backswing, if this can be done without any loss of control. If you swing the ball back above shoulder height, you will naturally move the ball down the lane more quickly. You won't have to force the ball down — gravity will cause it to swing forward more readily.

Trio Aids Celtics' Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Celtics are demonstrating that strength in numbers is still a vital factor in playing winning basketball in the National Basketball Association.

The Celtics have a super star in John Havlicek but showed again Wednesday night they can win without an outstanding performance from him when they defeated the Seattle SuperSonics, 112-100, and took a 2 1-2 game lead over idle New York in the Atlantic Division.

Don Chaney and Jo Jo White scored 22 points each and Dave Cowens added 21 plus 14 rebounds for the Celtics. Havlicek wound up with 20 points but made only one basket in the first period. Spencer Haywood led Seattle with 20 points and Don Smith and Dick Snyder had 15 each.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 35 points and John Block had 24 to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 122-108 triumph over the Buffalo Braves.

Dick Van Arsdale scored 31 points as the Phoenix Suns defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 127-108, and Elvin Hayes and Stu Lantz had 28 each as the Houston Rockets downed the Atlanta Hawks, 117-115, in overtime in the other Wednesday night games.

49ers Picked By 6½ Over Lions

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco 49ers were tabbed 6½-point favorites over the Detroit Lions in their game Sunday in Candlestick Park, according to Harrah's Racebook in Stateline, Nev.

Other pro odds include: Los Angeles over Pittsburgh by 7, Baltimore over New England by 14½, Miami over Green Bay by 7, and Dallas over St. Louis by 16½.

No odds were listed on games not having a bearing on the playoffs.

In other football news:

DENVER — Lou Saban, general manager of the Denver Broncos, says the National Football League team may have a new coach within the next two months.

Saban, who stepped down from the coaching job last month, said no decision had been made yet on filling the position.

Among those still in the running, Saban said, is Jerry Smith, currently serving as interim head coach. "Jerry is still very much in it," Saban said.

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — A wealthy, middle-aged widow who has become an avid football fan has willed the University of Miami $1 million to be used for football scholarships.

Attorney Starr Horton, a former Hurricane football player and a director of the university's athletic foundation, revealed the endowment Wednesday, but declined to name the generous widow.

"The lady doesn't want any publicity," Horton said. "My client has always loved football, and she's become a big University of Miami fan since becoming a permanent resident here."

HOLLYWOOD — Joe Kapp, who gave up pro football this year following a contract dispute with the New England Patriots, has signed to make his acting debut, it was announced Wednesday.

The former all-pro quarterback will co-star as an Indian in a two-hour television movie, "Climb an Angry Mountain," with Fess Parker. The movie also is a pilot for a TV series titled "Elisha Cooper."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The Tennessee Vols begin one-a-day practice sessions today in preparation for their clash with the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis Monday night.

The Vols were on the practice field for three and a half hours Wednesday as they began workouts. Both morning and afternoon sessions were held, coach Bill Battle said, to rid the team of problems caused by inactivity.

DALLAS — Coach Tom Landry grudgingly admits his Dallas Cowboys probably are "the team to beat" in whatever four-way battle shapes up in the National Football Conference playoffs leading to a super bowl berth.

"I like to think we are the team to beat," Landry told his regular mid-week press luncheon Wednesday. "Fact is, you have to think so about your own team, whether everyone else does or not."

Boxing

LOS ANGELES — The vacant World Boxing Council lightweight title will be settled in a rematch of Mando Ramos of Los Angeles and Pedro Carrasco of Spain here Feb. 18.

Promoter Aileen Eaton of the Olympic Boxing Club Wednesday announced the 15-round fight to be held at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The WBC vacated a Ramos-Carrasco title bout at Madrid Nov. 5. After scoring four knockdowns, Ramos was disqualified by referee Samuel Odubote of Nigeria and Carrasco was declared the winner in the 11th round.

Moyer's title was not on the line.

Baseball

OAKLAND — Jerry Adair, who set three major league fielding records as a player for the Baltimore Orioles in 1964, Wednesday was hired by the Oakland A's to serve as their first base coach in 1972.

Adair, who will celebrate his 35th birthday on Friday, replaces Jerry Lumpe as A's first base coach. Lumpe resigned his post to return to college in hopes of completing his education and landing a major school coaching post.

Ford Torino.
Completely restyled for '72.
That's news.

Completely re-engineered.
To be quieter. Smoother riding. Easier handling.
That's really news.

Things like the brand new body-frame and suspension system that make Torino strong, smooth riding and remarkably easy to handle.

You can't appreciate these new '72 Torino changes from a distance. You have to experience them firsthand. So your Ford Dealer invites you to take a look at his nine new models—including the first Gran Torino. And take a test drive.

Feeling is believing.

THE SKI SCENE

Chance To See If You're Good

By CHARLIE COANE

Have you ever had the urge to flash through the gates on a ski race course and burst across the finish line to a roar of the crowd? You then would glance anxiously at the officials and await your time and see it posted on a board. "I'd make a fool of myself," you say.

Well, you now have the opportunity — to race and not make a fool of yourself. Even if you haven't mastered the stem christie or are just an "advanced beginner," you can enjoy the NASTAR (National Standard Race).

In a nutshell, NASTAR enables the recreational skier to race through a modified giant slalom course set on a moderately pitched hill to establish a handicap for himself and perhaps win a gold, silver or bronze medal.

Here's the procedure: Anyone can enter by signing up at the NASTAR desk at a ski area which participates in the program. Two dollars will give you a starting number and a bib. The race usually begins in late morning. Let's say you have number 16. This means 15 racers will go before you. Each racer goes down individually and all are electronically timed. You'll even get the 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 countdown to begin your descent! When you reach the bottom, you can check with the officials to see how well you did. For $1 you can try again. Keep the bib.

If you finish the course, you will receive an official NASTAR card (with your handicap) in the mail.

Medals and handicaps are determined by area pacesetters who establish a "par" for the course on that day. Each pacesetter has a handicap that he established at a NASTAR pacesetter's competition held at Vail, Colo., Nov. 29 - Dec. 2. A handicap is the percentage slower that a person is than the fastest pacesetter in the country, or "Mr. Zero." Pepi Stiegler, ski school director at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, topped all competitors for the third straight year.

All pacesetters now have handicaps of 1 or more. When a pacesetter runs a course, his time is then decreased by whatever handicap he is (or percentage slower than Stiegler) to establish the "par" on that day.

Thus, all areas across the country can have an equal standard and your handicap, based upon "par," can be compared on an equal basis with someone in Vermont or Michigan.

Let's say Mr. Pacesetter at your areas has a 10 handicap and runs the course in 30 seconds. Theoretically, "Mr. Zero" would have run that course on that day in 27 seconds, because he's 10 per cent faster than your Mr. Pacesetter. So 27 is "par" and that is your guideline. Our handicap is then whatever percentage slower you are to 27 seconds. If you run the course in 54 seconds, your handicap is 100, and you'll receive a card stating 100 handicap.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded according to age, sex and handicap. For men up to 40 years old, a 10 handicap or less will win a gold medal, 25 a silver, and 50 a bronze. For women in the same age bracket, handicaps of 15, 30 and 55 will win the gold, silver and bronze medals respectively. Men over 40 need 20, 35 and 60 for the medals, and women over 40 need 25, 40 and 65.

Race as often as you like. And don't be afraid to get a group of friends together and have at it. My handicap? It's a 17. A gold medal this year will be very difficult indeed — especially for men under 40. In fact, many area pacesetters will not be under 10. I have a friend who carded a 218 last season and another who raced twice and did not finish (DNF) — so anything goes.

Alpine Meadows and Bear Valley were highly successful in NASTAR, ranking second and third nationally in participants. Dodge Ridge, Heavenly Valley, Mt. Shasta and Snow Summit also handle NASTAR. Twoyears ago, 25,000 people ran the NASTAR. Last season: 60,000. This year they're hoping for 100,000.

Unbeaten San Diego State Wins

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Unbeaten San Diego State has sounded an early season warning to other members of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The Aztecs may be a tough basketball team to handle in the conference which features such teams as Long Beach State, Pacific and Los Angeles State. San Diego State rolled to its seventh straight victory Wednesday night by dumping North Dakota State 86-69.

Sixteenth-ranked Long Beach, meanwhile, had a tougher time than expected in subduing Loyola of Los Angeles 73-67 to run its record to 4-1. Chuck Terry scored 17 points and picked off 15 rebounds for the 49ers and teammate Ed Ratleff added 16 points.

There's no place like home for the University of Pacific Tigers who notched their 27th straight win in Stockton with an easy 84-64 clobbering of shorter Portland University. It was the first home game of the season for the Tigers who opened with a 2-3 road record.

Five players hit double figures for UOP, topped by 6-10 center John Gianelli's 22 points and 18 rebounds. The senior pivot missed only three of 11 shots from the floor as the Tigers outrebounded the Pilots 67-49 and outshot Portland 45 to 31 per cent.

Ricardo Parks topped the Pilots with 13 points and teammate Ken Hettrich added 12. Portland is 1-3.

In other games, Doug McAdam scored 17 of his game-high 28 points in the second half to pace Occidental to its first win of the season in five starts, a 96-91 edging of Lewis and Clark. Doug Skille scored 25 points and Don Pollard contributed 23 for the Pioneers who are now 2-2.

Nevada-Reno plays at Duquesne tonight.

Doug Dickey Winner

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida coach Doug Dickey entered the 1971 football season with an overall collegiate coaching record of 53-19-4 for a winning percentage of 736.

Novato Woman's Soap Firm Sought By East Bay Company

Now negotiating to acquire Helene's Formulas, Inc., owned by Mrs. Helene Fly of Novato, is Bio-Ecology, Inc. of Hayward.

Mrs. Fly, a cosmetics specialist for many years, has recently been manufacturing a clear glycerine soap called Nature's Way and has been expanding her marketing area by leaps and bounds. She plans to continue as the manufacturer of this product, even if the company takes over the operation. She hopes to remain in the Novato area.

Bio-Ecology, organized last June, presently has three basic product lines —biodegradable cleaners, "natural" cosmetics and vitamins. It is organized into two independent divisions.

The consumer sales division runs a direct sales organization similar in concept to that of Avon Products or Shaklee Products. Sales are made throughout the country by distributors who operate Bio-Ecology stations and manage local sales forces.

The company's products are also packaged under other labels and offered through conventional retail channels by its commercial sales division.

SAN RAFAEL MARINE SURVEYOR Jim Marmaduke is giving up this occupation entirely and returning to his former business of yacht brokerage in which he was previously engaged for about 10 years. He will be located at Lowrie Yacht Harbor, San Rafael as Jim Marmaduke, Yacht Broker. He has been doing marine surveying for the past six years.

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT H. Bruce Mininberg has moved his office from 35 Mitchell Boulevard to larger quarters in La Plaza Building, 4340 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park.

The lease was handled by William Hoey Co.

HOSPITAL CORP. OF AMERICA, parent company of Ross Medical Corp., has elected C. George Mercy of Novato to its executive committee. He is vice president of the company's West Coast operations and a director.

Dr. Ira H. Degenhardt and Leo H. Strauss of San Rafael have been elected directors of Hospital Corp. Dr. Degenhardt is a director and Strauss is senior vice president of Ross Medical.

CORTE MADERA insurance agent Stryker Warren is now associated with West Coast Life Insurance Co. His office continues at 645 Tamalpais Drive.

WITH HEAVY SHOPPING continuing right up to Christmas, it still is not too late to follow a few of the suggestions offered by members of the Bay Area Consumer Protection Coordinating Committee.

Plan ahead.

Make up a shopping list with prices. Watch advertisements and shop around to take advantage of any bargains.

Include an allowance for miscellaneous and extra items — but once you've arrived at your holiday budget, stick with it.

Mark the word "safety" across your shopping list, whether you're buying toys, power tools, garden implements or sporting goods.

Patronize reputable firms. Stores that use "bait 'n' switch" sales techniques during the year do so even more in December.

If you aren't sure of a store's policy on returning merchandise and you think an item may have to be exchanged, it's wise to get a written statement.

"Christmas parties started earlier this year."

Wall Street Confident Over News

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were strong in heavy trading through the first two hours today.

Analysts noted a growing confidence about business prospects for next year, as well as belief that forthcoming international monetary negotiations in Washington will lead to a new realignment of currencies.

Prices also gained in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were UIP Corp. fractionally higher on 41,000 shares, Kaiser Industries also slightly higher on 30,000 shares, and Champion Home Builders steady on more than 25,000 shares.

The news background also provided incentive for investors.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Wednesday that industrial production in November registered its biggest gain since last spring. It was regarded as cheering news to the Nixon administration which has said 1972 will be a good year.

IBM, the strongest spot on the New York Stock Exchange, rose 8 1-8. Corning Glass gained 6, Honeywell 4 1-2, and Burroughs, Natimas, Du Pont, and Walt Disney 2 or better.

Among the issues up a point or so were White Motor, Getty Oil, Eastman Kodak, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, Control Data, Magnavox, Zenith, and Levitz Furniture.

KLM, however, lost 2 in the airlines, and Superior Oil dropped a point.

Mutual Fund Listing Sometimes Not Given

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you advise how to find a price listing on Mutual Fund for Investing in U.S. Government Securities? I have been informed it is listed as MFD Gvt S or Mut FIUS Govt. but neither listing appears in this paper. — J.O.

A. I have noted two other listings for this fund: Fd U S Gvt Sec. and U S Gvt Sec. It is currently listed with asset value per share about $10.70. Your paper may not carry this particular fund, however. With approximately 450 load and 150 no-load funds now in business most papers attempt to print quotes only on a selective list of the most widely held funds.

Q. We are retired and want to invest $2,000 in U.S. Steel (NYSE) for its high dividend. If times become prosperous wouldn't this be worth considerably more in a few years? I.J.

A. U.S. Steel's reduced annual dividend rate of $1.60 a share at current price levels provides a yield of only 5.7 per cent. Thus if income is your major concern, you could do better elsewhere. As far as the possibility of cyclical recovery is concerned this premise has many supporters on Wall Street.

Consumers have been reducing strike-hedged steel inventories rather than increasing orders for new supplies. The 12.5 million tons of stockpiled steel have been reduced faster than anticipated suggesting a build-up in demand, which should generate recovery next year.

In the September quarter, Big Steel reported its first deficit in a strike-free period since the depression. Had the company not reduced its pension fund contribution the loss would have been almost triple the reported figure. However, if the Price Commission okays a boost for flat rolled steel prices to help offset the 15 per cent increase in employment costs, good gains could be seen in 1972 earnings. Share price recovery would be a logical expectation in an improving economic climate.

Novato Sets Record Building Permit Pace

Marin County building permits took a high turn last month, with the total valuation reaching $9,212,473 or 151.7 per cent above November of last year, according to figures supplied by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

For one community, Novato, it meant a new monthly record, surpassing its previous record last February. Builders rushing to beat the city's new bedroom tax on homes accounted for $2,952,905 within the corporate limits and another $648,565 in unincorporated areas. Almost the entire amounts were for residential permits, with Boise Cascade Building Co. and Condiotti Enterprises the big builders.

Mill Valley, in second place, also had a flurry of new permits totaling $2,274,345 for combined incorporated and unincorporated areas. But whereas Novato's residential building was for single family dwellings, Mill Valley's permits (largely residential) were for apartments and multiple units.

Fairfax attained a respectable figure of $1,430,270 in permits — all residential and miscellaneous. The Tiburon peninsula accounted for $462,282, about two-thirds residential and miscellaneous. San Rafael was below its October total by nearly 50 per cent, ending up with $426,299. About half of this was residential.

In other communities Larkspur recorded $376,200, mostly residential; Sausalito $69,232, 50 per cent residential; Corte Madera $57,650 all residential and miscellaneous; Ross $54,000 in miscellaneous permits; San Anselmo $51,578 mostly residential and miscellaneous; and Kentfield and Greenbrae $18,500, all miscellaneous. West Marin and other unincorporated areas reported a total of $390,647, largely residential.

Cumulative total for the 11 months now stands at $90.6 million, 90.7 per cent higher than last year's $47.5 million.

HOLIDAY WOE

The sign outside a residence at 100 Hawthorne Way, Santa Venetia, said it all yesterday after a thief made off with outdoor Christmas decorations. Although there was no one at the home — listed as the residence of Dale E. Robertson — to explain what actually had happened, it was obvious holiday spirits were dampened in one small part of Marin.

Two Robbed In Road Underpass

Two men complained to sheriff's deputies that they were threatened and robbed last Saturday night while walking through the Marin City underpass.

Hugh M. Miller of 1 Drake Avenue, Marin City, said he was walking from Sausalito to Marin City about 7:50 p.m. when two men about 20 years of age stopped him. He quoted them as saying, "Give us your money. Don't move or you'll be sorry." Miller said they took 42 cents, all the money he had.

That same evening, Mark Jeffrey Conlan, who lives on a boat at 240 Redwood Highway near Waldo Point, said he too was accosted by two young men, who knocked him down, kicked him in the face, and went through his wallet, taking $4.70.

Forgery Case Set For Trial

Debra Sheryl O'Bayley, 20, who gave her address as the Marin Open House in San Rafael, must stand trial in Marin Superior Court on check forgery charges.

After a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court, she was bound over to superior court to plead to the charges on Dec. 27.

Miss O'Bayley, arrested by San Rafael police on Nov. 17, is charged with forging $30 checks at Loch Lomond Pharmacy and at Northgate Drugs in San Rafael on Sept. 30.

Important News About the News Media for Advertisers and Agencies

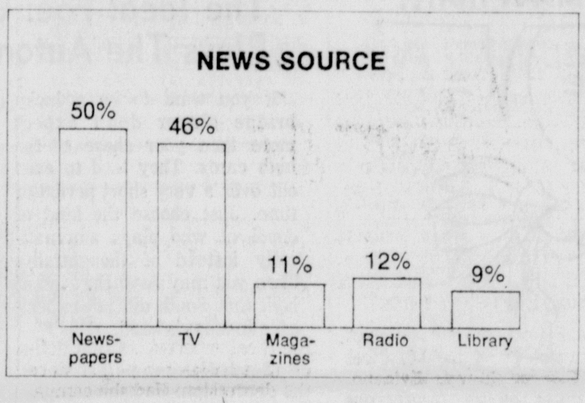
Today as never before, Americans need information—about events, about people, about products. Read how they use the news media to meet this need.

In March, 1971, Opinion Research Corporation was commissioned to find out how Americans gather the information they need to conduct their daily lives.

Here, from a nationwide sample of 2,023 men and women age 18 and over, are some of the key findings of that research.

1. When people want to find out about news they are very much interested in, they rely on the newspaper more than any other medium.

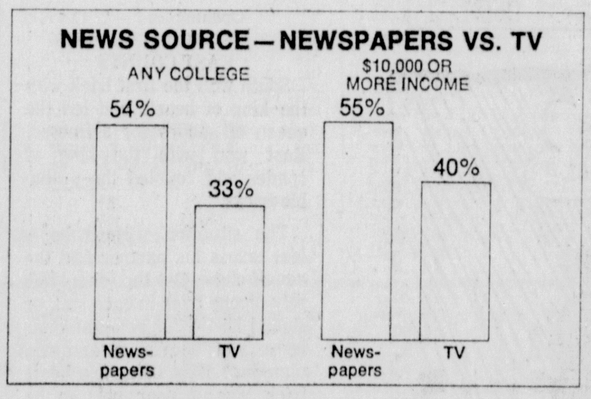
Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Suppose there is some news you are very much interested in. Where would you be most likely to find out all there is about it?" Here's how people answered:



Clearly, newspapers are America's prime medium for news. Only television comes close, and as we shall see, television does not come close among your best customers.

2. The newspapers' lead over television is greatest among the people advertisers want to reach most.

Asked the same question about news, people who had attended college named newspapers over television by a substantial 54% to 33% margin. Those with incomes of $10,000 or more gave newspapers a 55% to 40% advantage over television. Thus:



The high-spending 30-49 age group chose newspapers over television by 56% to 45%. Even among the 18-29 age group, supposedly "the television generation," newspapers were named as the news source for 46% of the sample compared to 40% for television.

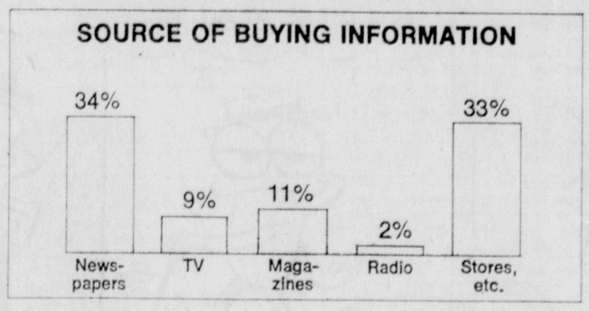
In fact, television led only among those with less than a high school education (55% to 43%), those with incomes under $5,000 (53% to 43%) and those age 50 or over (51% to 48%).

Your best customers, then, rely very heavily on newspapers for their news. But that's not all. Read on.

3. When people are ready to buy, they turn to newspapers for the facts they need by more than 3 to 1 over any other news medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "When you are ready to buy something, where are you most likely to find the kind of advertising that gives you the facts you want to know?"

Here's how people answered:



Obviously, when people actually start shopping for something in your product category, your advertisement had better be in the newspaper.

4. The most desirable prospects prefer newspapers over television even more strongly as a source of advertising information.

Among those with at least some college, newspapers outscored television by 27% to 4%.

People with incomes of $10,000 or more named newspapers over television by 30% to 6%.

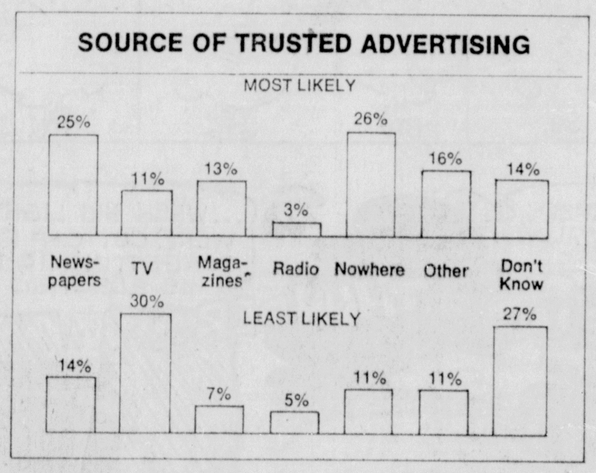
Among young adults (ages 18-29), newspapers led television by 28% to 6%.

Even among television's "best customers" (low-income, low education, age 50 and over), newspapers had a better than 2½ to 1 advantage.

No question about it. The more desirable the customer, the more likely he or she is to be looking for your advertisement—literally looking for it—in the newspaper.

5. People trust advertising in newspapers far more than in any other medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Where are you personally most likely to find advertising that can be trusted? And where are you least likely to?" Here's how people answered:



Trust in advertising is concentrated in newspapers, while distrust is even more strikingly concentrated on television. With today's growing need for believability, advertisers who use newspapers to carry their messages are getting an important advantage over television.

6. Key demographic groups trust newspaper advertising overwhelmingly compared to television advertising.

Once again, the better-educated, higher-income, more youthful groups give newspapers the widest margin over television.

	Most likely to find advertising that can be trusted		Least likely to find advertising that can be trusted
	Newspapers	TV	Newspapers	TV
Any college:	20%	5%	15%	42%
$10,000 + income:	23%	6%	13%	37%
Age 18-29:	21%	7%	17%	38%

These more sophisticated groups are far more suspicious of television, far more likely to believe what they see in a newspaper advertisement.

To summarize: Americans rely on the newspaper as their most complete, most trustworthy source of information, whether it is news or advertising. And the better the education and income level, the more this is true.

The findings of the Opinion Research Corporation are strongly confirmed by other equally unbiased statistical data.

Simmons '70, for example, reports that 78 out of every 100 adult Americans read at least one newspaper on the average weekday, far more than are exposed to any other news medium. Simmons also confirms the newspaper's leadership among "best customer" groups, too: daily readership is 87% among college graduates, 84% among those earning $10,000 or more, 86% among under-25 married couples.

While television ratings have dropped over the past five years, the newspaper business has never been healthier. In 1970, circulation increased to a record daily average of 62,107,527.

Advertising revenue is growing still faster. In fact, newspaper advertising revenue has consistently outpaced even the massive growth of the Gross National Product since 1945. In 1970, advertisers spent $5,745,000,000 on newspaper advertising, $3,665,000,000 on television, $1,323,000,000 in magazines, and $1,278,000,000 on radio. To put it another way, advertisers spent almost as much in newspapers, as in TV, magazines and radio combined.

Further, preliminary figures show that for the first 8 months of 1971 newspaper advertising revenues increased 6.6% overall, with national advertising up an impressive 12.7%.

As an advertising or marketing man, you might want to take an especially hard look at that last figure. Even national advertisers, wedded so long to the computerized cost per thousand efficiencies of television, are once again realizing that their customers are flesh-and-blood people rather than mere numbers. And that—as the Opinion Research Corporation study shows—the way people use the mass media is at least as important to an advertiser as simple exposure to advertising messages alone.

Retailers, whose advertising must produce traceable results in a day or two, have never forgotten this stern fact. They cannot hide behind exposure figures: they must have sales. That is why department stores quite wisely spend an overwhelming 80% of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

If you are not taking advantage of the newspaper's unique place in your customers' lives and overwhelmingly strong position as the Number One medium for news information and advertising information, let us show you how newspaper advertising can help you.

The complete results of the Opinion Research Corporation's study of the news media and how people use them have been summarized in a booklet, "News About The News Media." Ask your newspaper representative for a copy, or call or write this newspaper.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Ideal Foe: One That Plays The Automatic Game

If you want to be a lucky bridge player don't expect more than your share of the high cards. They tend to even out over a very short period of time. Just choose the kind of opponent who plays automatically instead of thoughtfully. Then you may have the kind of luck that South did not experience in today's hand.

EAST COUNTS

South won the first trick with the king of hearts and led the queen of spades for a finesse. East won with the king of spades and counted the probable tricks.

The situation seemed hopeless unless his partner had the ace of clubs. But then should he rely on one trick in each suit, or should he try for two diamonds instead of one heart and one diamond? East thought a heart trick was a poor bet, so he returned the three of diamonds.

West's ten forced out dummy's queen of diamonds, and declarer drew trumps and led clubs. West got in with the ace of clubs and led another diamond. East thereupon took two diamond tricks, defeating the contract.

POOR CHOICE

We can see immediately that South made a poor choice when he got in a game with an opponent like East. South played his cards badly, and East made the best of the underdog's position. Players like South should choose weaker players as their opponents.

South had the chance to put his game on ice if he had played the right black suit at the second trick. Instead of trying a trump finesse, South should lead clubs to knock out the ace.

NO PROFIT

When West gets in with the ace of clubs, it will do him no good to shift to diamonds. Declarer is in position to discard a diamond from dummy on the third club in his own hand. Only then can he afford to lead trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A 7 4 3
♥ - 7 6 4 2
♦ - K Q 5
♣ - K 8.
What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton enough for an optional opening bid, but you should resist the temptation to bid. You have nine very low cards, no long suit and a difficult hand to describe if you do choose to open the bidding.

Warning Issued On Coin Frauds

Fred Velten, manager of the Golden Gate Coins and Stamps in Town & Country Village, Strawberry, reports that he has many complaints of coin fraud.

Phony California gold pieces cost around eight cents each according to Velten, and are selling for $5 in bars and night-clubs.

If in doubt about any coins, have them appraised by a reputable dealer prior to making such purchases.

In a special effort to curtail potential coin frauds in Marin County, Velten has offered to examine any suspected coins without charge Monday through Saturday in the Village at Strawberry, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Yuletide: Why You Should Be Away

The eternal quest for the unique and different is fast becoming the greatest reason for spending Christmas away from home during the holidays, according to B.J. Talbot of Talbot of Tiburon, the travel service in Strawberry.

"Even though temperatures are hovering in the 80s, people still enjoy the contrast between their mainland homes and Christmas time in Hawaii," Talbot said.

A typical Christmas day may consist of church attendance of the individual's choice — or joining the Hawaiians in their native churches followed by a traditional breakfast, a stroll along the beach and the occasional sound of a ukelele playing Mele Kalikimaka (Merry Christmas).

As the spirit increases and the Christmas dinner hour approaches, one can see a red clad figure with beard flying approaching the beach on a surf board. Who else can it be but Santa Claus — the wool suit is substituted by a bathing suit and Santa is mighty brown for coming from the North Pole.

Sanata's arrival signals the commencement of the festivities with Christmas trees ablaze and good fellowship abounding everywhere. The hotels are decorated with trees and ornaments, and those fortunate visitors that have Hawaiian friends may have the good fortune to be invited to a Hawaiian Luau — a fitting climax to a day's festivities.

Mexico enjoys a growing popularity with the American tourist, particularly during the Christmas season. The shortness of distance and the contrasting way of life affords the visitor an opportunity to enjoy a delightful warm climate, superb beaches at relatively low cost. Those remote places like Zihuatanejo, Puerto Vallarta, and Cozumel all are filled to capacity for a two-week period. The Mexican observance of Christmas coupled with a natural love of Fiesta make Christmas in Mexico a memorable experience.

'Bathroom Has Become The Glamour Room Of House'

According to Jean Laudenback of Town & Country Village's Golden Cherub, "The bathroom has become the glamour room of the house."

The new trend is coordination with adjoining rooms whether bedroom, dressing room or hall. Many bathrooms are accented with color to compliment the tile and painted walls.

If wallpaper is used as the point of interest it is wise to choose three or four patterns and color combinations appealing to the individual. By asking your nearest wallpaper dealer to loan you the books of your choice, it is possible to have a reference guide available to take to the nearby bath shop. By examining combinations of wallpaper and stock items in the bath shop, time and money can be saved. No added expense will be involved for special made shower curtains.

Old Dutch And The English Christmas Customs Back Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Old Dutch and English Christmas customs are brought to life again in the beautiful lower Hudson River valley country made famous by Washington Irving.

Rip Van Winkle sleeps and the Headless Horseman rides again in the minds of visitors to three properties restored by Sleepy Hollow Restorations in the tradition of the two cultures that dominated when 13 colonies existed along the Atlantic seaboard.

Phillipsburg Manor, Upper Mills, in North Tarrytown, N.Y., displays Dutch pioneer life in the early 1700s. Van Cortlandt Manor, Croton-on Hudson, is a handsome late 18th Century manorial estate closely tied to the Revolutionary War era. The pleasant years of the mid-19th century are reflected in Washington Irving's home, Sunnyside, at Tarrytown.

Each famous landmark is decorated much as it was in the heyday of its owner and each echoes to Yuletide music as costumed hostesses trim Christmas trees, cook seasonal food and otherwise display the customs of its time.

Each famous landmark is decorated much as it was in the heyday of its owner and each echoes to Yuletide music of Christmastide. Because of their cultural intermingling, some customs will be observed at all properties but each has its individual chracter, easily perceived.

A good way to enjoy the differences and likenesses is to visit the oldest first.

Philipsburg Manor, the oldest, is an ancient stone house, square and simple of architecture, erected about 1680. The owner, Frederick Philipse, was a rugged Dutchman who once was the richest man in all New York. The gristmill near the house, run by water power, was the center of an early and important milling industry.

Santa Claus was called Sinterklaas by the Dutch and many things reminiscent of him include carrots and hay for his patient horse and three oranges to represent gold dowries he gave to three poor, but deserving, sisters.

There is cooking in the kitchens (one for the servants), bread on the table, and cookies and cakes.

Van Cortlandt Manor shows more of the English influence, although the family's origin was Dutch. Huge spiced cookies, shaped like the initials of the Van Cortlandt children, are spread out on the tables of the Old Parlor on the ground floor of the Manor House as they were in many Dutch homes. The hallway upstairs has a kissing bell, fashioned of evergreens with a clapper of mistletoe, as was the custom in old English homes.

Young hostesses play Christmas music on 18th Century instruments while their older associates prepare baked goods in the great beehive oven built into the downstairs kitchen fireplace. Others show arrangements of dry flowers, prepared in advance of winter's coming.

There is a special affection for the season at Sunnyside, reflecting Irving's own concern for the holiday. Even when away, serving his country as a diplomat in London and Madrid, the nation's first great man of letters always evinced great interest in the holiday.

One Christmas, while in Spain, Irving worried about whether his relatives back in the quaint little cottage on the Hudson's bank were remembering the old ways.

"I hope you kept up Christmas in the old style," he wrote his niece Sarah in 1843," and that the cottage was decked with evergreens. You must not let my absence cause you relaxations in the old rules and customs at the cottage; everything must go on the same as it did when I was there."

There are dozens of excerpts from letters and books written by Irving that tell how Sunnyside was decorated. The cottage door is festooned with greens and a Christmas tree, trimmed with cranberry and popcorn strings, sugar plums, tiny candles, and 19th Century ornaments stand in the parlor.

In the kitchen, guests see foods prepared and cooked in the big iron range, cookies baked in the oven. The odor of spiced apples cooking on top of the range greet the visitor even at the front door.

In the three famous landmarks, Christmas became a tradition that borrowed from the Dutch and English according to the flag that flew over New York when each was established.

Between performances, at 3 p.m., an ice cream party will be held for all children with Phil, The Mouse Who Saved Christmas, at the Village Sweet Shoppe in the Village.

The Strawberry Center — And Its Benefits

But there's something more pleasing at Christmastime — the Village becomes transferred into a storyland of Yuletide tales, told through the picturebook windows of the many shops.

It becomes a gaily decorated trip through a myriad of gift ideas. Most shops will be open every evening from now through Christmas. Many shops also will be open on Sundays.

Four New Shops Will Open Soon

Four exciting new shops which have just opened in Town & Country Village in Strawberry include: Eleanor Green's Dresscotheque, Littlechix, Gigi, Inc., and Alvin Duskin.

Eleanor Green, a dress manufacturer in San Francisco, now features one-of-a-kind dresses for Marin hostesses. She is featuring a line for holiday ocean cruises and Christmas entertaining. All dresses are custom-made from imported fabrics gathered during her world travels.

Littlechix has expanded its North Beach shop to Strawberry. Wayne Klugman and Charles Labue are the owners. They are excited with the response to their Christmas line which includes an array of long dresses in black and black and white along with their suede and furr trimmed coats.

Gigi, Inc., a junior fashion shop, is owned by the Cormans, Heymans, and Meuniers. Mini, or midi, you'll find either at Gigi's along with little bit of Paris. Gigi's hot pants, and boot-length "deau de peche" coats with hoods are leading gift items for the young college set.

Alvin Duskin brings a complete line of dresses of all lengths to Strawberry. Alvin Duskin is owned by Harry Shain, and carries a junior line of clothes sizes 3 to 13. The Strawberry shop carries the full Dukin line plus Hubba-Hubba, Utopia, Wrangler, Ardee, Foxy Lady and Plain Jane.

Alvin Duskin will introduce the Mary Quant Cosmetics line to Marin.

"The leading, popular colors this Christmas in Duskin creations are ultra-violet, establishmint, and caramel," said manager Aileen Reis of Sausalito.

Miss Reis, an artist, attended Tamalpais High School, and trained at the Hubba-Hubba on Polk Street in San Francisco.

Color In Men's Clothes — Demand Began After WW II

Just 300 years ago Europe's gentlemen were strolling about in colorful doublets and breeches set off with lace collars. Since that time color in men's wear has retreated to the mundane decor of a pallbearer.

Men's clothing and colors have been historically a mark of a man's station and indication of his trade. The first break in bleakness came following World War II with an explosive demand for colored sportswear. Vogue for sportswear has brought an inundation of bright shirts, slacks and jackets, and man's desire to express his personal color taste in what he wears.

"Mix and match is the new emphasis," reports Mrs. Zeplowitz of Carlton's in the Village. "It is essential that a man can mix his color combinations anyway he wants without clashing. At Carlton's we must constantly evaluate and analyze color trends."

Most men's wardrobes now include a liberal supply of sweaters, sport coats, sport shirts and T-shirts in keeping with the trend to casual living.

In any event, color in good taste is here. It makes men feel alive and asserts their individuality. With the freedom of color, men now require larger wardrobes. Brighter colors do not lend themselves to the solemn regularity of regulation blues, grays and browns.

A host of new colors and styles await Marin Christmas shoppers in the array of exciting men's apparel stores of Town & Country Village in Strawberry at C. Partan's, Carlton's, Giovanni's and Rawhide Leathers. Qualified sales staffs are always on hand to outfit man in his latest quest for a new personality in our ever changing world.

Old Battle: Seeking New And Different

Every Christmas perplexed shoppers seek the new and different to bestow upon their special people on Christmas morning.

A classic and traditional gift for men is coin jewelry. The leading coin gift for men is cufflinks while women enjoy special necklaces and charms of coin motifs.

While some silver dollar vintages are popular, most coins selected are made of gold in attractive mountings designed to protect the coins and accent their sculptured designs.

The U.S. coin in gold is the most popular with Mexican gold and gold British sovereigns also receiving wide acceptance.

Fred Velten of the Golden Gate Coin Shop in Town & Country Village, Strawberry, indicates that a new, contemporary item is now becoming very popular as a Christmas gift.

These items are the Christmas ingots and medals produced by the Franklin Mint, probably the leading private mint in the world, according to Velten. Private mints issue medals while only goverments mint coins.

The 1971 Christmas Ingot is the second of a distinguished series produced by the Franklin Mint. The detailed "Sleigh Scene," sculptured by Ernest Schroeder, was designed by James Farrell. It is now available at most leading coin shops in the Bay Area.
